FLORIDA JURORS INDICT ZANGARA AS CERMAK DIES

Arraignment Set Today; Conviction Carries Death Penalty.

REMAINS OF MAYOR ON WAY TO CHICAGO

Official Expires Peacefully, With Members of Family at Bedside.

Miami, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—A bullet intended for President Roosevelt brought death to Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago in a hospital here today and about ten hours later Giuseppe Zangara, the assassin, was indicted for first-degree murder.

The mayor died at 6:57 a. m., after nineteen days of suffering with the wound and many complications it caused. Almost immediately the Dade County grand jury met and began hearing testimony on which it based the murder indictment returned about 5 p. m.

Will Be Arraigned.

Circuit Judge Uly O. Thompson announced that Zangara, a naturalized Italian, will be arraigned at noon tomorrow. Conviction carries the death penalty by electrocution.

The assassin, already under 80 years' prison sentence for firing on Roosevelt and wounding three other persons, was not brought into the courtroom today nor did the grand jury question him.

Family at Bedside.

Cermak died peacefully, his family tearfully gathered at his bedside. Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, a daughter, held one of her father's hands. The other was clasped by Vivian Graham, a granddaughter. Cermak was in a coma for many hours before death.

Members of the sorrowing family, reluctant to leave the room, were taken to the home of Dr. Frank Jirka, a son-in-law, at Miami Beach, where they went into seclusion until the time for departure of a special train which is bearing the body back to Chicago. The train is due in Chicago at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Denver Clearing House Will Abolish Check Fee

Denver, March 6 (A.P.).—Denver clearing house banks today decided to abolish their check fee when they reopen.

The charge of 2 cents had been made for each check over a designated number.

Engineer on Soviet Project Is Suicide

L. E. Bishop, Colorado University Graduate, Found Shot to Death.

Denver, March 6 (A.P.).—Lyman E. Bishop, 35, civil engineer who spent several years in Russia working for the Soviet government, ended his life today by shooting, a deputy coroner said. Authorities were unable to advance any reason for the suicide.

Bishop was born in Des Moines, Iowa. He was graduated from the University of Colorado in 1908.

Early in 1922 he was employed by the Soviet as consulting engineer on a Turkestan reclamation project.

Three in Family Killed by Train

Man and Two Daughters Victims; Train Carries Car 675 Feet.

Kannapolis, N. C., March 6 (A.P.).—Three members of one Kannapolis family, a father and his two daughters, were instantly killed here today when their automobile was struck by Southern Railway train No. 39, at Gravers Crossing. The dead:

Henry Davis, 34; Thelma Davis, 16; Catherine Davis, 14. Davis was taking his daughters to school.

The engine caught the Davis automobile squarely on the track and carried it 675 feet before it was thrown aside on the right of way.

Polish Balloon Claims Ascent of 32,808 Feet

Warsaw, Poland, March 6 (A.P.).—The Polish military balloon Polonia, which participated in the 1932 Gordon Bennett Cup race, was reported today to have reached an altitude of 32,808 feet.

At that height the temperature was 74 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. One of the crew of two officers suffered frostbite.

Safe in Jehol

Missionaries in Lingyuan Taken Care Of, Embassy Here Is Cabled.

(Associated Press.)

The Japanese Embassy announced last night receipt of a Mukden cablegram saying all foreign missionaries in Lingyuan were safe and under protection of the Rising Sun army.

Lingyuan, in the Jehol war zone, was occupied last week by the Japanese.

Peiping dispatches early yesterday reported that inquiries were being made regarding Miss Harriet Minns, an American missionary, who had refused to leave Lingyuan despite the unsettled conditions in that region.

HITLER MAY BE NEXT PREMIER OF PRUSSIA

Cabinet Will Meet Today to Set First Session of New Reichstag.

Berlin, March 6 (A.P.).—Backed by his overwhelming victory in yesterday's Reichstag election, Chancellor Adolf Hitler today attacked the task of reshuffling his government, which, official circles predicted, will rule Germany unimpeded by any Reichstag session for two years.

In all likelihood Hitler will be the next premier of Prussia, the largest state of the Reich, at the same time continuing as the chancellor, one of his close advisers said.

Tomorrow the cabinet will meet to set the date for the first meeting of the new Reichstag, in which the combined National Socialists and Nationalists have a majority. After a brief session the national legislature is expected to shut up shop for two years.

Whatever happens, the chancellor's adviser said, Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen will not assume the premiership of Prussia, but probably will become foreign minister. If the chancellor decides to keep himself free for other duties, he may appoint Hermann Goering, now minister without portfolio, to the Prussian premiership.

While continuing his merciless fight on Communism through Capt. Goering, the chancellor is understood to be anxious to bring about the domestic pacification of the German people as quickly as possible.

Sir William Veno, Noted For Cough Cure, Slain

Altrincham, Cheshire, England, March 6 (A.P.).—Sir William Veno, 66, prominent in London and Manchester financial circles, was found shot to death on the grounds of his residence here tonight.

Sir William was known throughout the world in connection with the much-advertised cough medicine bearing his name. He founded a big drug store in Manchester. He lived in the United States for several years.

Repeal Convention Bill Is Passed in California

Sacramento, Calif., March 6 (A.P.).—The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate today a bill setting up the method for holding a State convention to vote on proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The vote was 66 to 12.

The bill provides for two sets of 22 electors, one group for repeal and the other against repeal. They would be nominated by petition, one from each of the twenty congressional districts and two at large. The election would be held with the August, 1934, primary unless a special election is called sooner.

Man Falls Dead in Bank On Getting Change of $5

Tulsa, Okla., March 6 (A.P.).—Dave Goodall, 71, presented a $5 banknote at a bank teller's window today and was handed five $1 bills in change.

Picture-Wire Gang Given 4 Life Terms

Two Youths Sentenced in St. Louis for Murder and Robbery.

St. Louis, March 6 (A.P.).—Ralph Jarboe, 18, and Harold Urban, 17, "picture wire bandits" who committed six robberies here on successive nights, killing a Negro in one of the holdups, today were sentenced to four concurrent terms of life imprisonment after they pleaded guilty of charges of murder and robbery.

The youths, who said they came here from Toledo, Ohio, were identified as the robbers who committed seven holdups in Indianapolis before coming to St. Louis.

CHINA PROPER NOW MENACED WITH INVASION

Army Driven From Jehol Plans Last Stand at Great Wall.

FIGHTING CONTINUES IN CAPTURED STATE

Conquerors Are in Favorable Position to Widen Their Possessions.

Peiping, China, March 6 (A.P.).—China's defeated army, driven back from Jehol City, has formed a defense line against a possible invasion of China proper and will make its last stand 20 miles south of Koupeikow, Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang's headquarters said today.

The town of Koupeikow guards a gate through the Great Wall 65 miles northeast of here and 50 miles south of Jehol City.

Fighting Continues in Jehol.

Fighting still continues in the Province of Jehol, the Chinese reported. There was an engagement at Hsifengkow pass, 45 miles southeast of Jehol City, and another near the town of Weichang, near Chihfeng.

Having at last gained possession of the passes into Chihli plain, the Japanese now are in a favorable position to descend on North China at will. The invasion of Jehol has revived among Chinese here the fear that the Japanese may advance to the Yellow River when the occasion offers.

Mah Reported Alive; On Way to Vladivostok

Hsinking, Manchuria (Tuesday), March 7 (U.P.).—Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, hero of the Noni River campaign against the Japanese in the first Manchurian fighting and who has been reported dead several times, was reported today to be alive and en route to Vladivostok.

Bill Would Punish Hoarders by Jail

Pennsylvania House Gets Measure to Bare Safe Deposit Contents.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 6 (A.P.).—A fine of $1,000 or three months in prison is provided for money hoarding under a bill offered in the Pennsylvania House tonight by Representative Edwin C. Emhardt, of Philadelphia.

The measure provides that banks may require persons renting safe-deposit boxes to remove hoarded money and refuse access to the boxes if the renters decline.

All new and present box renters would be required to fill out questionnaires which would reveal hoarded cash. False statements in the questionnaires would make the renter liable for prosecution for perjury.

Boy, 11, Describes Beatings in Home

Accuses Mother and Boarder; Sister Still Unconscious From Attack.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 6 (A.P.).—An 11-year-old boy testified in a packed municipal courtroom today that his mother and a roomer had flogged him so severely that he fainted in school. The mother, Mrs. Margaret Britton, 33, and Cody Calloway, 38, the roomer, were bound over to circuit court under $10,000 bonds each on a charge of felonious assault upon the boy, Sylvester Britton.

Kathleen Britton, 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Britton, taken to a hospital the same day suffering from injuries police said resulted from a flogging by Calloway, is still unconscious and hospital authorities say she may not recover.

Testifying at the examination today, Sylvester Britton, in tears throughout the questioning, asserted Calloway beat him with a stick February 8 and that his mother beat him again after Calloway finished. As he was helped to the stand, the boy sobbed:

"I'm afraid I'll be whipped."

Reserve Bank Has List Of Big Gold Hoarders

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—The Federal Reserve Bank has on file a list of the gold hoarders it seeks to force to put money back into circulation. Those who drew out gold during the last few weeks were required to identify themselves.

One withdrawal amounted to $500,000 in gold.

ARMY RULES GREECE AFTER FUTILE VOTES

President Zaimis May Quit as Gen. Plastiras Heads Military Regime.

Athens, March 6 (A.P.).—A military government was established in Greece today by Gen. Plastiras, head of the 1922-24 revolutionary government, who said in this way he hoped to avoid disorder.

Gen. Plastiras declared that the slight majority won in yesterday's general election by former Premier Tsaldaris would not permit the establishment of a stable government.

In a proclamation announcing the military regime and promising tranquillity, economic reconstruction and social consolidation, the general said that all public gatherings would be banned.

The cabinet headed by the veteran Premier Venizelos resigned at midday and it was reported that President Zaimis might resign.

Gen. Plastiras' manifesto said that two elections in five months proved that the parliamentary regime is disadvantageous to Greece since it failed to establish a stable government.

4 Deny Guilt in Hearing On Ohio Fire Fatal to 13

Cleveland, March 6 (A.P.).—Ray I. Turk, of Cleveland, and three men said by police to be members of a Pennsylvania arson ring pleaded not guilty today to first degree murder charges in connection with the Ellington Apartment fire last June 7 when 13 were burned to death.

The three men besides Turk were Paul Childs, Samuel Neamans and Jack Hirsch. L. J. Kamons, also indicted on a murder charge in the case, is now in a penitentiary in Pittsburgh for arson. Authorities said they would seek his return to Ohio.

Umberto Gabbi Expires In Rome; Noted Doctor

Rome, March 6 (A.P.).—Dr. Umberto Gabbi, university professor, senator and president of the International Society of Hydrotherapy, died here tonight. He was 72.

Dr. Gabbi held professorships of medicine in the Universities of Messina, Rome and Parma. He was the author of books on medical subjects.

Frankley Is Proposed For Aeronautics Post

Los Angeles, March 6 (A.P.).—Gerald McClelland, vice president of the Ligue Internationale des Aviateurs, said tonight a conference will be held at Washington tomorrow in support of Lawrence W. Frankley, Los Angeles lawyer, for Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics.

Hundreds of Yorkshire Dwellings Are Flooded

Bentley, Yorkshire, England, March 6 (A.P.).—Hundreds of houses and thousands of acres of land in Yorkshire were flooded today as rain-swollen streams went out of their banks.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

So long as there are people in the world they will require merchandise of every conceivable type and the supplying of that merchandise will require labor and raw materials! . . . With that realization in mind the slogan of the country today should be "Business as Usual." Though circumstances have temporarily affected cash as the medium of exchange, the value of merchandise and of labor remains the same—the value of the one may still be measured against that of the other.

Merchants, and business men in general, are showing their confidence in the early solution of present difficulties by making it possible to defer payment for merchandise or service until the problem is solved. By taking advantage of the credit privileges which they extend, the activities of the city and Nation may be continued with little inconvenience and the employment of labor assured . . . It is both a patriotic and an economic duty for all who have credit privileges to make use of their charge facilities and to maintain—

PRESIDENT MODIFIES ORDERS TO EASE FLOW OF BUSINESS; SCRIP DUE HERE THIS WEEK

D. C. Houses Open Today for Certain Duties.

TO CASH U. S. WAGE CHECKS

Commercial Pay Roll Facilities Will Be Made Shortly.

The resumption of normal business activity moved forward rapidly last night when the announcement was made that all District banks, closed by the presidential banking proclamation, will reopen today to transact business authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The clearing house committee of the Washington Clearing House Association recommended that its member banks be ready to perform the following functions:

Banks Cash U. S. Pay Checks.

1. All Government pay checks be cashed at any bank.

2. All note departments be opened for acceptance of payments on obligations.

3. All banks be opened to provide change.

4. Safe deposit boxes be made accessible.

5. Disbursement of funds be made to facilitate the movements of food products.

Prospect of Scrip.

The regulation of the Secretary of the Treasury that permitted the return of all cash or checks received by banks after the closing of the last business day was not embodied in the Clearing House recommendations, but it was explained that this privilege would be discretionary with each bank.

The prospect of Clearing House scrip, backed by sound security, as a medium of exchange in the Capital became increasingly apparent last night when it became known that a committee of the Clearing House Association has been studying this question since Saturday. The probability is that the scrip will make its appearance before the end of the week. Authorization to issue scrip will first have to be made by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Clearing House Committee withheld any definite recommendations with respect to the authorization of the Treasury which would permit the creation of trust accounts for new deposits, which would be payable upon demand.

The committee took the view that the method of conducting this phase

Two Seized, Charged With Plot on Hitler

Munich, Bavaria, March 6 (A.P.).—Two waiters were arrested here today on a charge of having plotted the assassination of Chancellor Hitler.

Faith Is Evident Here As Trade Holds Gait

Increase in Business Is Reported by Some Stores; Special Steps Are Taken to Care for Regular Customers.

Undisturbed by the closing of banks and evincing faith in an early return to normal conditions, Washington citizens continued to patronize local stores yesterday as if nothing untoward had happened.

The large department stores reported steady business and the drug stores and soda fountain trade proceeded as usual. Chain grocery stores continued to enjoy their usual trade, extending credit to known customers.

As evidence of the faith and optimism of citizens, 400 shoppers thronged to the basement of the Hecht Co. fifteen minutes after the store was opened yesterday morning, Charles Ben Dulcan, general manager, reported.

Mr. Dulcan reported that more than 4,500 units of merchandise were sold in one department of the store before 1 p. m. yesterday and 100 additional mail and telephone orders accepted for later delivery. The store's officials reported a "big day" throughout the store.

The jewelry store of R. Harris & Co. also reported a gross business considerably larger than that of any other Monday during the last few weeks.

Woodward & Lothrop and other large department stores reported business as usual. Book stores were well patronized.

The American Express Co., 1414 F street northwest, announced that financial papers such as travelers' checks, money orders and American Express unlimited checks will be cashed as usual.

Directors of the Washington Board of Trade, meeting yesterday morning,

GOVERNORS' PARLEY APPROVES HOLIDAY

Many State Proclamations Will Ask Support for President's Plans.

(Associated Press.)

Twenty-six governors and representatives of 13 other State executives adopted yesterday a resolution approving in effect President Roosevelt's proclamation of a modified national bank holiday after hearing the Chief Executive outline briefly his reasons for the step.

Unanimously and without discussion, the measure, drafted by Govs. White of Ohio, Green of Rhode Island and Buck of Delaware, was adopted.

The State executives had the banking situation and the general economic crisis uppermost in their minds.

In a session that heard little debate the governors also adopted a resolution by White which said: "We look approvingly upon the President's plan for better land utilization."

Then came quick action on a resolution by Gov. Ehringhaus of North Carolina, which expressed confidence in the leadership of the President and urged that "he may be granted immediately by the Congress such broad power as may be necessary," to enable him to take care of the present situation.

Immediately afterward, the governors and their representatives started for home.

Pressed for time, the State executives passed over the subject of con-

Retired Attorney Apparent Suicide

J. E. R. Ray, 74, Is Found Shot to Death Here; Leaves Letter.

J. E. R. Ray, 74, 112 N street northwest, was found dead in his room late yesterday from a bullet wound in his head, evidently self-inflicted.

Tied in the corner of the room was his dog, Betsy, a pedigreed Boston bull, his constant companion in recent years. Persons at the home where he lived quoted him as having said on numerous occasions that his love for the dog was all that kept him from committing suicide.

The body was found by 11-year-old Edwin May who had gone to his room to call him to dinner. A retired lawyer, Mr. Ray had lived in the room for the last eight months. He was an omnivorous reader, and his book cases included classics. He was a native of Tennessee, but his only living relative is believed to be a nephew in Green Bay, Wis., to whom he left a letter.

Senator Howell Retains Gains He Made Sunday

(Associated Press.)

Attendants at Walter Reed Hospital reported last night that Senator Robert B. Howell had held the gains he made Sunday in his fight against pneumonia.

The brief bulletin at the hospital, where the senator was taken ten days ago, said there was virtually no change from Sunday, when a slight improvement was noted.

PARTY CHIEFS PUSH QUICK-ACTION PLANS

Senate Democrats Bound to Caucus Decisions; House Ready for Speed.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

House and Senate leaders yesterday prophesied quick enactment of whatever emergency legislation may be proposed by President Roosevelt to meet the emergent national economic situation.

The Seventy-third Congress is to convene in its first extra session under call of the new President at noon on Thursday. At midnight of that day the Nation-wide bank holiday prescribed by Mr. Roosevelt will expire. There have been suggestions that the Chief Executive will propose additional legislation confirming and extending the authority of his bank holiday action.

Whether Congress will act on Thursday on the proposals which are to be submitted by President Roosevelt remains to be seen. There seems to be no doubt that whatever emergency measures he proposes will be enacted, but there seems to be considerable doubt they will be enacted on Thursday.

Senate Democrats met in party caucus yesterday and reelected Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, as party leader. Afterward Robinson indicated action on the President's proposals as soon as they were submitted. He said Congress would consider bills providing for issuance of scrip, impounding of securities by banks, and acceptance of deposits for purchase of Government securities. He didn't contemplate passage of legislation providing for a general re-

2 Dead, 6 Hurt as Walls Of Poorhouse Collapse

Memphis, Tenn., March 6 (A.P.).—Pinned to their cots by a brick wall that collapsed under a 30-mile wind, two inmates of the Shelby County Poorhouse were killed as they slept early today, and six injured companions were buried beneath debris for 30 minutes before firemen rescued them.

Fifty-three other elderly persons were asleep in other parts of the building. They were saved.

Unmasked Bandits Get $60,000 Gems

Only Employe in Place Is Beaten, Bound and Locked in Closet.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—Two unmasked bandits rifled the safe of Richter's Jewelry Co. here today, police reported, and escaped with 38 pieces of jewelry valued at $60,000.

George Jacobson, salesman, was the only employe in the store when the two men entered on the pretext of having a watch repaired. He said they struck him, then bound him and placed him in a closet. His screams attracted a woman in an apartment above the store. She called police, who freed Jacobson.

The bandits, both of whom were armed, Jacobson reported, were about 30 years old.

7 Regulations Are Issued to Assist Bank Users.

ROOSEVELT'S ACT APPROVED

Leaders in Congress Promise to Speed Laws Needed.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Assured by a chorus of public acclaim that Sunday's sweeping bank-holiday proclamation had checked unwarranted fears in every section, President Roosevelt yesterday promulgated, through the Secretary of the Treasury, the first relaxation of his war-time emergency decrees.

Through a series of seven Treasury regulations banks were authorized to carry on such operations as are necessary to move food supplies through the regular trade channels; to redeem Treasury checks in cash; to open safe deposit vaults to their renters; to make change, and to create special trust fund accounts of new deposits at the several Federal Reserve Banks.

Another regulation authorized the interbank settlement of all open transactions not entered on the books at the last close of business prior to the emergency edict.

U. S. Pay Roll Continuance.

Under the seventh regulation, banks are authorized to receive currency in settlement of all obligations "payable at or to such institution."

The second official order is of special interest to Washington, for it assures the continuance of the Federal Government's pay roll on a cash basis. There will be no interruption in the fortnightly distribution of Uncle Sam's pay, nor will there be any difficulty or inconvenience in converting the Treasury checks into cash in the normal way.

The order governing commercial documents on food shipments, and that relating to special trust fund accounts, prescribe that in none of these resumed operations shall either gold or gold certificates be issued by any bank.

All Banks Affected.

The Treasury orders are all-inclusive in their phraseology. Each begins with the words, "Any banking institution," or "All banking institutions." Under the law, therefore, these orders apply to all the institutions defined in the President's proclamation as within the scope of the emergency decree.

While these beginnings toward a resumption of banking operations throughout the Nation were being

Guard Kills Himself In Interior Building

Apparently a suicide, James P. Welsh, 52, 1623 G street southeast, retired White House policeman and a Government building guard, was found shot to death in a men's rest room on the fifth floor of the Department of Interior Building early today by fellow guards, who heard a shot fired.

The bullet entered his left chest. Two notes were found, one addressed to the Metropolitan Police and the other to his family. Both indicated worry and despondency were the cause of his act.

NEW RULES ASSURE PERISHABLE FOODS

Continuous Supply Is Facilitated by Presidential Easing of Restrictions.

Protection of a dependable supply of perishable food products for the Washington market has been facilitated by the revised regulations for banking procedure, announced by the Government last night. Washington wholesale distributors welcomed the consideration given the food business as a partial solution to a difficult problem. Any prolonged interruption of funds from the wholesale markets to producers would seriously curtail shipment and lead to a shortage of fruits, vegetables, eggs, butter and other perishables.

While considerable confusion in connection with payment for arriving shipments and deliveries to retail outlets was encountered yesterday both in the water front and the Northeast wholesale markets, supplies of fruits and vegetables were ample. Shipments arriving Sunday and yesterday had been started to market before the bank holiday was announced.

Distributors said, however, that growers and shippers were seeking assurance of prompt payment before starting other shipments to market. In the absence of some special arrangement for handling checks and drafts in payment for these foodstuffs, an appreciable reduction in supplies would develop by Thursday, last day of the bank holiday as ordered by Presidential proclamation.

Conditions in Washington were no different from those in other large cities which, as far as perishable products are concerned, live from hand to mouth, depending upon the daily arrival of a continuous supply of products. Inquiry at the office of the National League of Commission Merchants last night brought from Horace H. Herr, secretary, information that Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Pittsburgh had sent telegraphic warnings of the danger of a shortage of supplies in those markets if terminal distributors were unable to find a way of advancing or transferring funds to producers.

First Louisville Scrip Is in Circulation Today

Louisville, Ky., March 6 (A.P.).—Louisville's first scrip, issued by the Courier-Journal and Times, will appear tomorrow.

Employes will receive their salaries in part scrip and part cash. The scrip can be used at stores that advertise in the newspapers. The merchants will use their scrip to pay advertising bills, but for no other purpose. Scores of merchants have accepted the plan. The scrip will be in denominations of 50 cents, $1, $2, $5 and $10.

PARTY CHIEFS PUSH QUICK ACTION PLANS

organization of the Nation's banking system.

In their caucus the Senate Democrats voted by 50 to 3 that a majority of their members should constrain the full membership, and that two-thirds of the total Democratic membership should constitute a party quorum sufficient to dictate party policies. Senator Edward P. Costigan, of Colorado; Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, and George McGill, of Kansas, voted against the proposal.

Adoption of the party control proposal marked an historic episode in the history of the Nation. The Senate always has been jealous of the prerogative of its individual members and always, heretofore, has refused to bow to the dictates of party caucuses, no matter how faithfully the individual senators might follow commands of party leaders.

Conference on House Side.

On the House side there was a conference between Vice President John N. Garner, Speaker-elect Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), of Illinois, and Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, Republican leader. The outcome of that conference did not indicate that there would be action in the House on the President's proposals on Thursday, but, rather, that action would be delayed until the first of next week.

All, however, indicated there was no doubt about approval of the President's emergency legislative proposals. The question of delay hinged on the formalities of organizing the new House.

A suggested program was that the House meet at noon on Thursday, elect Representative Rainey as Speaker and elect its other officers. That it then name a committee to notify the President and the Senate it was in session and ready to do business. Following his formal notification of the fact that Congress was in session, President Roosevelt is to send a special message in which he is expected to outline his emergency proposals.

First Message Anticipated.

President Roosevelt's first message to Congress is expected to be delivered in writing. He is not expected by House leaders to appear personally before a joint session of both Houses to deliver his message, although, like many other things there may be changes in present estimations.

While waiting to hear from the President the House would elect the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, which constitutes the Democratic Committee on Committees. They would get together immediately and name the Democratic members of the few other committees which might be deemed necessary to deal with the President's proposals. It has been suggested that in addition to the Ways and Means Committee it would be necessary to name the members of the committees on accounts, rules, banking and currency and appropriations. Possibly other committees might be named. Perhaps some of those enumerated may not be found necessary. The Republicans would name their committee candidates the following day and the committees would be ready to function on Monday.

All of this program could be thrown into the discard at a moment's notice and the House and the Senate could speed at least some of the emergency legislation through the legislative mill on Thursday. Possibly that will be done in view of the pressure for quick action and the dispensing with formalities. The Rules Committee of the House, for instance, could report special rules to get around technicalities and Speaker Rainey could jam them through the House. Thuswise could be rushed to enactment a measure giving congressional sanction to the somewhat-questioned authenticity of hte President's power to declare a national bank holiday.

Business Houses Placing Special Guards Over Cash

Hotels Report Difficulties Few in Collecting From Visitors; Mayflower Advanced Cash to Few Guests; Scrip Will Be Accepted.

Getting cash out of the bank is not as much of a problem as getting it in for some hotels and restaurants who find their tills crowded with currency as a result of the inaugural crowds, but have no place to put the money for safe keeping.

There were no reports of inaugural visitors being stranded by lack of cash, as most of them had bought round trip tickets. The roads yesterday were crowded with lines of automobiles bearing homeward sightseers. And each had left his share of cash in the city.

The hotels reported that nearly all bills were paid in cash, with a few traveler's checks being presented. Most of the large delegations brought along their own disbursing agents who were well equipped with currency. Those who stayed as roomers in private homes also paid with ready money, according to the inaugural housing and hospitality committee.

It was reported that some of the restaurants were posting special guards over the strong-boxes in which they keep their week-end receipts, while others were cashing checks for well-known customers and getting rid of the surplus. Still others were taking advantage of the Postal Savings Banks as a temporary depository.

Any scrip sanctioned by the Government will be accepted by the Mayflower Hotel, officials said last night. They are also circularizing their patrons urging them to use any of the hotel's facilities on a credit basis. During the inaugural, according to R. L. Pollio, manager of the hotel, checks were cashed for guests and currency was advanced in some cases. The hotel, which had prepared for the visitors by having on hand a large quantity of change, was also able to change numerous bills of large denominations, it was said.

PRESIDENT MODIFIES ORDER TO HELP FLOW OF BUSINESS

whipped into shape by Treasury and Federal Reserve officials, other conferences nearby struggled heroically with the vexatious problem of an emergency circulating medium.

Clearing house certificates, as authorized in the President's proclamation Sunday, are ready for issuance in several important financial centers. Details of the projected intercity clearance arrangement, however, presented a problem of baffling proportions and complexities. A final decision on this knotty problem is expected by Treasury officials today.

Secretary Woodin, accompanied by Assistant Secretary Ballantine and George W. Davison, chairman of the Central-Hanover Bank & Trust Co., conferred with President Roosevelt an hour last night during the dinner recess of the Treasury conferences. Mr. Davison was author of the scrip plan worked out in New York City. There were indications that the White House conference dealt with this general problem. While no authoritative word came from the discussion, there were indications later that the President would interpose no objection to whatever clearance plan might be worked out in the Federal Reserve Board discussion.

The Treasury conference ended soon after 11 o'clock and the New York party returned home on a midnight train.

Tentative authority to New York State officials to set up a State-wide system of clearing house scrip was extended by Treasury officials, on condition that some Nation-wide clearance arrangement is not announced here by tomorrow noon. This information was immediately communicated to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, but no formal announcement of the plan was made at the Treasury.

Even the tentative plan can not be applied in New York without special action of the State Legislature. Meanwhile, it is expected the Nation-wide Treasury plan will be announced by Secretary Woodin today or tomorrow.

Governors Pledge Help.

Scenes reminiscent of war times marked the progress of the banking conferences yesterday as leaders in both the legislative and executive branches pressed forward in their program to restore normal banking functions at the earliest possible moment.

Congressional leaders of both parties pledged immediate enactment of whatever emergency proposals may be submitted by President Roosevelt on Thursday. Federal Reserve officers hastened to perfect the emergency regulations.

Enlarging upon the text of his Sunday proclamation, the President himself told a group of 38 governors, or personal representatives of the State executives, that encouraging progress was being realized hourly and received their pledge that every support would be accorded the Federal authorities in their rapidly developing program.

Roosevelt Explains Goal.

Although the governors' conference had been called a month ago to coordinate State and national relief measures, Mr. Roosevelt took advantage of the opportunity to present his guiding thoughts on the banking situation.

The great objectives of his proclamation, he explained, were first, to protect American gold supplies against unwarranted speculative raiding; secondly, to stem the mad hysteria of hoarding, which gradually was paralyzing business.

This second objective, he added, was to be achieved eventually by some form of circulating medium for the country in addition to outstanding currency, because a large part had been put into hiding.

"I have confidence," he told the governors, "the public will accept that circulating medium."

Special Deposits Plan.

Taking up the next step, namely, the creation of special deposit arrangements, the President explained:

"We should provide some method by which banking can go on with new cash coming in. It is proposed that through the Treasury Department every bank will be authorized to open new accounts, and the money so deposited in the new accounts can be withdrawn any time. The only way in which that money can be kept absolutely safe beyond peradventure of doubt is by using methods to keep it safe—first, keeping the money in cash the way it is put in; secondly, depositing it in the Federal Reserve Bank, and third, purchasing Government bonds with it.

"Recognized Government bonds are as safe as Government currency. They have the same credit back of them. And, therefore, if we can persuade people all through the country, when their salary checks come in, to deposit them in new accounts—which new accounts will be held in trust, and the money kept in one of the new forms I have mentioned—we will have made progress."

Scrip Here Tomorrow.

Later the governors approved a resolution expressing confidence in the President's emergency edict and urging the Congress and all citizens "to cooperate with him in such action as he shall find necessary or desirable in restoring banking and economic stability."

As Federal officials still tussled with the larger national problem, members of the Washington Clearing House Association met again last night to prepare for the gradual bank reopening here.

Extending their trading holiday for an indefinite period, the New York Stock Exchange will remain closed until money again is flowing in normal volume through the arteries of commerce. Under the original suspension order, voted last Friday, trading was to be resumed tomorrow. A special subcommittee of the governing board has been selected to decide upon the termination of the suspension. This group will maintain close contact with the New York Clearing House Association.

Meanwhile the principal New York bankers are agreed to resume business today under the Treasury regulations. Other large cities are expected to follow the lead of New York and Washington from day to day throughout the week.

Legislative Program.

Little progress was made yesterday in perfecting the legislative program which is to be submitted to the special session of Congress Thursday, but President Roosevelt's advisers expressed confidence that comprehensive recommendations calculated further to strengthen national banking confidence would be ready for the House and Senate.

It appeared probable last night that the President would motor to Capitol Hill to deliver his message in person.

If such action still appears advisable, Congress may be asked first to extend the extraordinary banking powers assumed by the President Sunday. By its own terms, the emergency proclamation expires at midnight Thursday. Should Mr. Roosevelt then feel an extension necessary, he would, as a matter of course, ask Congress to affirm the dictatorial authority by legislation. This could be accomplished on the opening day.

Even should it be necessary, however, the extension of authority probably would not be for more than two or three weeks. In some informed quarters the view was expressed last night that with an adequate legislative program before Congress, the emergency control measures might be abandoned entirely this week.

Recess Then Expected.

Congressional leaders are agreed that the banking measures shall be enacted as quickly as possible, and a recess then taken for several weeks before consideration of the general program of the special session. Democratic leaders feel there still would be time before June 30 for the essential budget legislation required by the end of the fiscal year. After that, the broader program of permanent legislation promised in the party platform would be in order.

Congressional circles attached considerable significance to that part of President Roosevelt's address to the Governors yesterday which dealt with long-time banking policy. In this section of his greeting, which later was released for official publication, the Chief Executive threw out a hint of legislation looking to a uniform banking system.

"All I can say," the President declared after his review of Sunday's action, "is I am grateful for what the States have done in this emergency and we want, if possible, to have a general banking situation, that is to say, covering National banks and State banks, as uniform as possible throughout the country; and at the same time we want to cooperate with all of the States in bringing about that uniformity. I have no desire to have this matter centralized down here in Washington any more than we can help. I don't believe there is much more to say about banking."

Extent of Drain Bared.

The first public figures of the Federal Reserve Board indicating the extent of the crazy drain upon bank resources which precipitated the present emergency were made public last night as bankers and Government fiscal officers still plotted the next step to normalcy. The regular weekly statement of member bank condition in the leading cities showed that for the week ended last Wednesday combined deposits shrank $962,000,000. Combined with the deposit losses of the previous week, aggregating $416,000,000, the total withdrawals in 25 principal cities were in the neighborhood of $1,378,000,000. A similar drain fell upon the nonmember banks, whose losses are not reflected in the weekly summaries of the Federal Reserve Board.

This destructive hysteria continued with increasing force throughout the period March 1 to March 4. Its full force may be judged by the fact that Federal Reserve member deposits normally aggregate only about 66 per cent of the national total, and that the weekly statements reflect the operations of banks handling only about 60 per cent of all Federal Reserve transactions.

It was this condition which the President's holiday proclamation effectively checked.

Now money is flowing back to the banks and normal confidence throughout the country is but a question of days.

Iowa Will Not Relax On Banking Deposits

Des Moines, Iowa, March 6 (A.P.).—Lieut. Gov. Nelson Kraschel announced tonight Iowa banks will not be permitted to reopen for acceptance of new and segregated deposits as allowed under Secretary of the Treasury Woodin's modification of the national banking holiday order.

U. S. POSTAL BANKS WILL REMAIN OPEN

Federal Reserve System Is Furnishing Cash for Heavy Demands.

The Postal Savings banking system will continue functioning unless ordered to the contrary, it was indicated at the Postoffice Department yesterday.

There was an unprecedented volume of business, officials said, both of the cashing and of the issuing of certificates. It is believed that deposits will more than balance withdrawals.

Need of the system for cash is being met by the Federal Reserve banks and through postal receipts. Money for the cashing of money orders is also being supplied by the Federal Reserve banks.

A conference on the problem was one of the first duties of James A. Farley, new Postmaster General. After conferring with F. A. Tilton, retiring Third Assistant Postmaster General, and Horace A. Donnally, solicitor of the department, it was announced that the system would operate as long as cash was available, or until contrary orders from the Secretary of the Treasury were received.

As a temporary measure, the Washington Postoffice yesterday morning stopped receiving certified checks in payment for postage. Postmaster William M. Mooney explained that the move was made because this paper could not be handled through the Treasury.

Sports Event Barter Plan Proves Success

New York, March 6 (U.P.).—New York City's first modern experience in barter at a sports event proved successful tonight when many fight fans traded foodstuffs, clothing, books and household utensils for gallery seats at the semifinals of the annual Golden Gloves bouts at St. Nicholas Arena.

The New York Daily News, sponsor of the bouts, offered 2,700 gallery seats and standing room for 1,500 fans on a barter basis for those who lacked cash because of the banking holiday. Five cents cash was required for the tax. About 10 per cent of the gallery and standing spectators took advantage of the offer.

She Resented Carousing, Says Slayer of Mother

Bellingham, Wash., March 6 (A.P.).—Shortly after police found the battered body of Mrs. Elsie Worstell, 60, in her home today, her son, Ben Worstell, 27, was arrested and confessed, the county prosecutor announced, that he had killed her because she sought to prevent him having a "good time."

GOVERNORS' PARLEY APPROVES HOLIDAY

solidations to cut down the cost of State and municipal governments. The intricate subject of taxation originally on the program also was left for a future meeting.

From many State capitals proclamations are to be issued tomorrow calling for support of the "President of the United States and our institutions."

The governors adopted a resolution to that effect proposed by a number of prominent men, including Alfred E. Smith, Newton D. Baker, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, leaders of farm organization and church dignitaries.

The resolution was proposed to the conference by a nonpartisan committee of which Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is chairman.

Other signers of the letter were Louis J. Taber, of the National Grange; Edward A. O'Neal, of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Cardinal Mundelein, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Rabbi Stephen Wise, H. I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Walter Lippman.

Roosevelt Found Law Empowering His Action

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt himself uncovered the wartime act under which he proclaimed the drastic banking holiday and gold embargo.

Intimates of the new President say he had this legislation investigated several weeks ago in preparation for emergency.

Legal experts at first had believed it repealed, but the Roosevelt inquiry proved otherwise.

PARLEY WILL FIGHT REPEAL AMENDMENT

Churchmen Confer Today on Dry Campaign; Bishop Hughes to Speak.

A large conference of churchmen to fight ratification of the repeal amendment will open today at 10:30 a. m. at Calvary Baptist Church. Church leaders of 25 States and 26 denominations are registered for the parley.

Dr. E. H. Hughes, Methodist bishop of Washington, will deliver the opening address. There will be an afternoon session at 2:30 o'clock and a public mass meeting at 7:30 p. m.

The local committee, which is headed by W. W. Millan and includes leaders of the various denominations of the District, announced yesterday that the conference would consider plans for defeating repeal, methods for uniting all denominations in the fight and plans for the supporting of dry candidates for election to the special conventions to be called to vote upon the repeal amendment.

The discussion also will cover the duty and limit of action of churches in political campaigns, local dry enforcement problems and the duty of the church in furthering temperance education.

"Spend It in Old Dominion," Is Slogan

Richmond, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—"It is springtime in Virginia; come spend your scrip in the Old Dominion," was the slogan with which Col. Leroy Hodges, president of the State chamber of commerce, greeted a conference of State chamber leaders here today.

The conference was called to work out plans for placing the facilities of the State chamber at the disposal of the governor for any service he may request, and to assist the local organizations throughout the State in meeting the present emergency.

Roosevelt Can Sign Cotton Bill, Cox Says

(Associated Press.)

Representative Cox (Democrat), Georgia, said in a statement yesterday that President Roosevelt has the constitutional authority to sign the Government's cotton pool bill which President Hoover left unsigned last Saturday.

Cox said the Supreme Court has held the President may approve a bill after Congress had adjourned "and no distinction is made between the case of adjournment at the close of a session and final adjournment."

Airplanes Rush Funds To U. S. Banks in Cuba

Havana, Cuba, March 6 (A.P.).—Airplanes today brought funds to local branches of American banks, closed along with all other Cuban financial houses by President Machado's decree declaring a banking holiday until Thursday.

Financial circles appeared optimistic, believing Saturday's uneasiness among depositors here had largely ben dissipated. The Havana clearing house met this evening to consider further the situation induced here by banking holidays in the United States.

Still Hopeful Over Crisis, Dixie Rears Back and Grins

Atlanta, March 6 (A.P.).—The South rattled its pennies today and grinned.

And from the lazy Susquehanna to the crawling Everglades, across the gumbo land of the Evangeline country to the tumbling plains of the Pecos, the figurative challenge was: "Are we downhearted?"

The echo rolled: "No!"

For the Dixie of Kings Mountain, Chalmette, the Alamo and Appomattox has a sense of humor as well as the gallantry, courage and honor that have been proved on a thousand fields.

Folks down here have a way of laughing when the going gets rough.

Take the Ensley, Ala., Negro who was offered his weekly pay in scrip. His comment was: "I'll wait 'til the boss man gets the sho' 'nuf money, 'cause I don't want to get messed up with that mesmerized money."

Or the 7-year-old Georgia boy who slipped his family's change and bought three little chickens so "We'll have eggs and never get hungry." The mother hugged the little fellow and cried. The father laughed out loud. The chickens were roosters.

Then there was the 90-year-old grandmother in Mississippi—she has a trunk full of Confederate money and saw her pa's home burned in '64—who said disdainfully, "Humph, blood couldn't bust this country, you know money can't."

And at Jackson, Miss., the white folks got worried a bit until the Negro mammy waddled in with her life savings—$250. It was musty and soiled, but it was a gift from servant to master.

New Orleans street cars could be ridden on credit. Straphangers bought a supply of "tokens" and had them charged to their electricity bills. The Fair Grounds Race Track there used mutuel betting receipts to cash checks to keep the horses fed.

Everybody was in the same boat and when folks get that way they laugh and like it.

HOOVER URGES ALL TO BACK ROOSEVELT

Indorses Banking Holiday and Gold Embargo From New York Hotel.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—A plea for all citizens to support President Roosevelt in his effort to untangle the banking and business crisis came today from the man he succeeded in the highest office of the land, Herbert Hoover.

Departing from the rule he laid down informally before leaving the White House—that he would issue no statements or interviews—Mr. Hoover answered the inquiries of newspapermen as to his views on the national bank holiday and the ban on gold export with these words:

"The President's proclamation should receive the whole-hearted support and cooperation of every citizen."

The former President spoke through his secretary, Lawrence Richey. There was no amplification of his terse remark. Throughout the day and during the evening he remained in his apartment on the thirty-third floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, apparently attending only to private affairs and visiting with friends.

If Mr. Hoover is taking any more direct hand in the efforts to straighten out the Nation's financial condition other than to keep himself informed of each step, no intimation of it came from his immediate party or his conferees.

Word of the death of Mayor Anton Cermak, victim of an assassin's bullet, was relayed to the Hoover apartment early this morning and the former President expressed his sorrow.

Richey told newspapermen that Mr. Hoover deplored the tragedy and felt that "everyone will be deeply grieved about it."

Two Dead, Eight Hurt As Reds Attack Nazis

Hamburg, Germany, March 6 (A.P.).—Two Communists were killed and eight persons, including three policemen, were injured here tonight in a clash resulting from attacks by Communists on groups of Nazis.

Steel-helmeted police and Nazi auxiliaries in armored cars were rushed to the scene. The police conducted extensive searches of housetops from which the Communists were said to have fired on the Nazis.

Two Fleets Stage Decisive "Battle"

123 War Craft Join in Engagement Off Coast of California.

Aboard U. S. S. California At Sea, off San Clemente Island, March 6 (A.P.).—A mock naval battle between two high sea fleets was staged today in the waters of the outer Santa Barbara channel, between Catalina Island and San Clemente Island.

It was the first contact in a four-day test of the seamanship and battle fitness of the bulk and pride of the American Navy. All the elements of a great battle entered into the spectacle, except gunfire. Noiseless light flashes from the powerful searchlights of the battle craft substituted for the roar of turret and superstructure guns, torpedoes and bombs.

One hundred and twenty-three war craft participated, the 21 submarines being the only vessels of the combined fleets at sea in these exercises that did not join.

Manila Banks Carry On Trade as Usual

Manila (Tuesday), March 7 (A.P.).—Banks here did business as usual today with withdrawals normal as yesterday. Officials of one bank said their institution had set tentatively an arbitrary rate of $4.87, the normal gold par value of the pound sterling, in dollar exchange.

Other banks did not trade in dollar exchange or only accommodated travelers at usual discounts.

WALSH'S FUNERAL IS HELD IN SENATE

Body en Route to Montana; Widow Collapses; Unable to Make Trip.

Leaving the Capital bowed in sorrow, the body of Senator Thomas J. Walsh began its journey yesterday afternoon to Helena, Mont., where services will be held Thursday in the Catholic Cathedral and interment in Resurrection Cemetery by the side of the senator's first wife, who died in 1917.

The Nation's dignitaries, led by President Roosevelt, joined members of the family about a flower-banked bier in the Senate chamber yesterday morning for the impressive ritual of a Catholic ceremony.

A few feet from the members of the family, who sat in front of the silvered-bronze casket, sat the President, as he paid homage to the Democratic leader whom he had chosen to be his Attorney General.

Others Are Nearby.

Not far from the President were Chief Justice Hughes and associate justices of the Supreme Court. Members of Congress, the Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps and the commanders of the military services, also were present. Mrs. Roosevelt looked on from the Presidential gallery, while hundreds of others watched from the other galleries.

Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, assisted by the Most Rev. John McNamara, auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, and pastor of St. Gabriel's Church here, and other prelates, officiated at the obsequies.

In a brief eulogy of the distinguished legislator who had served in the Senate 20 years, the Archbishop said: "He loved and served his God—he loved and served his fellow man."

Widow Remains Here.

Senator Walsh's widow, the former Senora Nieves Perez Chaumont de Truffin, of Havana, whom the senator married a few days before his death last Thursday, was in a state of collapse after the funeral and was not permitted to attempt the journey West. She will remain at her apartment in the city under the care of a physican.

Members of the family accompanying the body to Helena are Mrs. Emmet C. Gudger, daughter of the late senator; Capt. Gudger and their daughter, Ellen; John Walsh, a brother, and Mrs. John Walsh; Miss Sally Walsh, a sister, and John Wattawa, a nephew of the senator.

The four senators accompanying the body are Wheeler, of Montana; Kendrick, of Wyoming; Schall, of Minnesota, and Frazier, of North Dakota.

Youth's 11,357 Pennies Prove Boon in Illinois

Aurora, Ill., March 6 (A.P.).—Those 11,357 pennies David Welling, 16, had saved toward his college expenses were a life saver to this city.

Business men, caught short on pennies for change, besieged the youth's home and pennies were soon back in circulation.

SENATORS CONFIRM SIX APPOINTMENTS

No Further Naming Will Be Made Until Roosevelt Clears Emergency.

After the Senate, in special session yesterday, confirmed six official appointments made by President Roosevelt, announcement came from the White House that the Chief Executive's entire attention had turned toward emergency banking problems and no further appointments would be made in the immediate future.

The President proclaimed a "moratorium" on patronage for the duration of the present financial crisis and let it be known that he had no time for the consideration of appointments now. Earlier in the day, sitting in the Senate executive chamber, President Roosevelt sent to that body the following six appointments for confirmation:

William Phillips, of Massachusetts, Undersecretary of State; Wilbur J. Carr, of New York, and Raymond I. Moley, of New York, Assistant Secretaries of State; Henry Morgenthau, jr., of New York, chairman of the Farm Board; former Representative William F. Stevenson, of South Carolina, and T. D. Webb, of Tennessee, members of the Home Loan Bank Board. Stevenson is expected to be chairman.

Postmaster General James A. Farley named the following as Assistant Postmasters general:

First Assistant Postmaster General Joseph Christopher O'Mahoney, 48, born in Chelsea, Mass. Educated at Cambridge Latin School, Columbia and Georgetown Law.

Second Assistant Postmaster General William Washington Howes, 46, born at Tomah, Wis., educated at University of Minnesota and University of South Dakota. Former South Dakota State senator.

Third Assistant Postmaster General Clinton B. Ellenberger, 57, born in Monroe County, Pa. Educated at State Teachers' College and Drexel Institute, Philadelphia. Banker.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Silliman Evans, 39, born in Johnson County, Tex. Educated in Texas public schools. Recent airways president. All were sworn in yesterday.

After making the appointments, Postmaster General Farley told reporters:

"I am going to put my feet under my desk and find out what it's all about," he said. "Extreme care will be exercised in the filling of all positions in the administration—that means it will be handled slowly to make certain that efficient men and women will be obtained to fill positions."

WASHINGTON TRADE CONTINUES ITS GAIT expressed confidence in the ability of local bankers "to provide an adequate means of circulation which will permit the fullest conduct of business in the city."

"The fact that on Friday in the face of nearly every State having its banking system on a legal holiday or restrictive basis the banks in Washington were, in the main, functioning normally, is a source of greatest satisfaction," a statement issued by Ben T. Webster, president of the organization, read.

Continues as Usual.

"There is no reason, with conditions in the District basically sound as they are, and the evidence of quick and effective cooperation between the Government, business men and bankers, that business should not continue as usual," the statement added.

Air transportation companies announced a liberal policy of accepting checks upon presentation of reasonable and satisfactory credentials and identification.

Dr. M. G. Gibbs, president of the Peoples Drug Stores, announced that the stores will continue to operate on a cash basis. "We do not consider any change in our business policy necessary at the present time," Dr. Gibbs said. "However, our attitude may change from day to day, depending on developments."

Special meetings of the department store and coal divisions of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association resulted in the declaration that the situation is clearly a temporary one and that no emergency measures are necessary.

James E. Colliflower, president of the association, announced the decision of stores to urge customers to take greater advantage of charge accounts and to encourage new accounts.

No Unusual Credit.

Coal dealers, Edward D. Shaw, executive secretary of the association, announced, decided to continue business without any unusual extension of credit.

The Cameo Theater in Mount Rainier and the Arcade in Hyattsville, operated by Sidney Lust, are going on a scrip book basis, patrons to pay for book of admissions when they can get money out of banks, it was announced by the theaters last night.

Dikeman's Restaurant at 609 Fifteenth street northwest, announced last night credit would be extended to its customers.

Five-dollar meal tickets will be issued by the restaurant on promises to pay at the expiration of the local bank moratorium.

The Federation of Business Men's Associations, composed of 3,000 Washington merchants, took formal action yesterday, indorsing President Roosevelt's action in declaring a bank holiday. Members of the association will extend the usual credit to customers, it was announced by Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the association.

Navy Doctor's Alimony Suspended by Holiday

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—Judge Francis B. Allegretti took cognizance of the bank holiday today when he granted a divorce to Mrs. Lucille Luongo Simons, 21, of Washington, D. C., from Dr. Harold Simons, a United States Navy physician, on a charge of desertion.

Dr. Simons' attorney told the court his client would be unable to pay the $520 in back alimony agreed upon, as his bank account is affected by the holiday, and the judge ruled he could pay when his assets are released.

Robert Young, of Films, Is Married in California

Santa Ana, Calif., March 6 (A.P.).—Robert Young, 26, motion picture actor, and Miss Betty Lou Henderson, 22-year-old University of Southern California graduate, were married here today by a justice of the peace.

Senator Byrd Names Arnold as Secretary

(Associated Press.)

Lester Arnold, of Winchester, Va., who served in Harry Flood Byrd's office when he was Governor of Virginia, will be the secretary to the new junior senator from the Old Dominion.

Byrd's office was open for the first full day yesterday, with Mrs. Florence Petty and Miss Emily Bercaw, formerly with Senator Swanson, still on the job. They will remain with Senator Byrd.

MARINE FOUND SHOT IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

Hyattsville Private Missing From Duty Since Last Thursday, Police Say.

Shot through the chest by his own service .45-caliber automatic pistol, Benneville A. High, a Marine Corps private, was found in a gas-filled room yesterday in his mother's home in Hyattsville, Md.

According to County Policeman Ralph Brown, High was listed as a deserter from the Marine Corps since March 2. Police had been notified and were keeping a watch on the home of his mother, Mrs. C. W. Fisher. Yesterday Mrs. Fisher returned from shopping and smelled gas. She went upstairs to her son's room, but found the door locked. She summoned neighbors, who broke it down.

High, critically injured, was found in his underclothes lying on the floor. The room was filled with gas escaping from an open jet on a lighting fixture. The Bladensburg rescue squad was called and brought him to the Naval Hospital here.

Mrs. Fisher, according to Policeman Brown, said that her son had been at her house for several days. She did not know why he had allegedly deserted. He enlisted on December 1, 1932.

$500,000 Radio Bid Is Ordered Accepted

Newark, N. J., March 6 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Guy L. Fake today ordered that the bid of $500,000 by the Radio Corporation of America for the De Forest Radio Co., of Passaic, be accepted.

A group of stockholders protested the action, but Leslie S. Gordon and Ralph E. Lum, receivers for the company since June 1, testified the R. C. A. bid was the best obtainable. William Harris, counsel for the stockholders, declared they were not notified of the proposed sale until the "last minute" and that the "R. C. A. offer was only 25 per cent of the company's worth, including many patent rights."

CAPITAL BANKS TO REOPEN TODAY FOR CERTAIN DUTIES

of the regulation would require careful study and establishment of an accounting system before definite suggestions could be made.

Uniformity of procedure under this authorization is desired by the committee and it expects to transmit to the banks in a very short while its recommendations on the transaction of the special trust accounts.

Perhaps the most important of the modifications which will affect the District generally is that which will permit Government pay checks to be cashed at all banks. The one qualification which embraces all of the modifications is that any deposits that are made may not be redeemable in gold or gold certificates.

So far there has been no provisions made which will exempt commercial pay rolls from the President's impounding order. However, The Post learned in an authoritative quarter last night that facilities for the payment of wages will be established within a few days.

Should clearing house scrip be issued here—and the probability is that it will be issued—it would be backed by sound security, a prominent banker informed The Post last night.

Would Have Same Value.

The amount of scrip issued would be commensurate with the value of the securities posted by the various banks. For all purposes, this scrip, secured as it is, would be a medium of exchange and have the same value as a bank note of the same denomination as the scrip.

The source from which The Post received its information said: "There is every indication that there will be a normal reestablishment of business within the next few days. The scrip to be issued will be just as valuable as if it were backed by gold."

The securities given by the various banks to back the scrip would be evaluated by a Clearing House Committee, it is understood.

Will Honor Drafts.

To hasten the shipment of food and food products, all local banks will release bills of lading on the shipment and will honor drafts in connection with shipment, transportation or delivery of the food products. The banks also will permit the withdrawal of such amounts of currency as are necessary in this connection.

The Post learned last night that many banks of the District, even before the regulations were issued by Secretary Woodin, had been following this policy because, as one banker expressed it, "Common sense required that it be done."

The Clearing House also recommended that trust departments in all of the banks be opened for the usual transactions of business. These departments handle such items as wills and deeds of trust.

Banking institutions which have real estate departments, the committee recommended, should keep the departments open for the receipt of rents, the care and preservation of properties and the transaction of all ordinary real estate business which does not partake of a banking nature as prohibited by the proclamation of the President.

Vaults to be Open.

While the necessary machinery is being established for the receipt of new deposits in trust, the Washington banks will open safe deposit vaults to their customers for the safekeeping of their cash and currency.

These new trust accounts will be subject to withdrawal on demand. The banks which are empowered to create these accounts are those which were engaged in receiving deposits prior to yesterday. This would exclude the Commercial National Bank which is in the hands of the comptroller.

The release of the assets in the safe deposit boxes will make available millions of dollars in cash as well as many millions in mortgages and loan securities which are cached in the vaults.

The board of governors of the Washington Stock Exchange voted yesterday to close the exchange until further notice. This indefinite action was taken to preclude the necessity of another meeting in the event that the bank holiday is extended beyond Thursday.

Are Payable Today.

Any notes which fell due yesterday will be payable today, because yesterday was a legal bank holiday.

Throughout the day, customers of the banks, although inconvenienced, accepted the action without protest, and everyone, the bankers declared, seemed to view the situation in a spirit of helpful cooperation. Business houses as well as individuals evinced a fine spirit of helpfulness, the bankers said.

THREE MEN TO RULE CHICAGO FOR WHILE

30,000 Expected to Attend Martyr's Funeral for Cermak Friday.

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—A saddened city planned a martyr's funeral for Anton Joseph Cermak tonight as mourning civic leaders worried over selecting a new helmsman for Chicago's government.

In the massive Chicago Stadium, crepe draped in contrast to the gay colors and blaring music of last summer's political conventions, 30,000 will attend the last rites for Mayor Cermak Friday.

Six months ago the man whose life was ended by an assassin's bullet came home from a European vacation necessitated by a nervous breakdown.

Ticker tape and confetti showered down upon him as he rode at the head of a parade through the downtown district. Thousands lined the streets and yelled "Welcome home, Tony," until their throats were sore.

Wednesday morning there will be a different homecoming.

Led by city officials and councilmen, hundreds will march part way from the railroad station to the home where Cermak's wife died five years ago. There will be another procession when the body is taken Thursday morning to lie in state in the rotunda of the City Hall for 24 hours.

For the immediate present a "triumvirate" appointed by Cermak to rule in his absence will continue in power. The members are Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, Comptroller M. S. Syzmczak and Alderman Henry Sonnenschein.

Secretary Dern Holds Reception for Officers

Secretary of War George H. Dern yesterday morning held a reception for all officers of the War Department on duty here at his office in the State, War and Navy Building.

Members of the general staff and officers on duty in the offices of the Assistant Secretaries of War, as well as the chiefs of the several branches of the service, attended with their staffs in uniform.

Checks for Taxes Will Be Accepted

No Difficulty Anticipated In Paying Off Per Diem Employes.

District Tax Collector Chatham Towers will continue this week to accept checks in payment for realty and personal taxes, he said yesterday, but no receipts will be issued until the banks reopen and the checks are paid.

Auditor Daniel J. Donovan anticipates no difficulty in meeting the weekly pay roll of per diem employes as this money is drawn from the Treasury and disbursed in cash. Other District employes are paid in checks drawn on the Treasury, but the next pay day does not arrive until March 15.

Public welfare directors said the shortage of cash will not affect their unemployment relief work this week as this money likewise is drawn from the District Government's account at the Treasury.

Cash Grain Market to Close.

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—Unable to operate its cash grain department properly without the protection of futures trading, Chicago Board of Trade directors voted today to close the cash grain markets here tomorrow. The shutdown will begin Wednesday and will last until the resumption of futures trading.

PASSING OF CERMAK MOURNED IN CAPITAL

Personal Grief Is Expressed by Roosevelt; Col. Hodges Detailed to Rites.

(Associated Press.)

The tragic death of Mayor Anton Cermak, felled by the assassin's bullet intended for President Roosevelt, was felt deeply yesterday by the Chief Executive and the many others in the Capitol who held him in high esteem.

Unable in the present state of national affairs to attend the funeral, Mr. Roosevelt detailed Col. Campbell B. Hodges, his chief military aid, to go to Chicago. He expressed his personal sorrow, issuing a statement declaring that "the country at large and the great City of Chicago in particular will miss a strong and resolute character."

"An irreparable loss," said Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois. He canceled plans for an extended stay and, though he had arrived only yesterday morning, left for Chicago right after the governors' conference at the White House.

The Council of Slovak Democratic Clubs of America, remembering Cermak as a Czechoslovak and as one who "while an American at all times, never forgot the land of his birth," sent a resolution of condolence to the family.

Reece Files Denial Of Stealing $90,000

Charge of Placing Funds in Lock Boxes Secretly Also Scouted.

Nashville, Tenn., March 6 (A.P.).—In a chancery court answer to State charges, Lem L. Reece, Elizabethton attorney, denied today that he connived with any one in connection with the alleged abstraction of approximately $90,000 of bonds from the Blue Sky division of the State insurance department.

Reece, brother of Joseph I. Reece, former insurance commissioner, said in the answer that he had no knowledge that the bonds had been deposited with the division until they were posted as stolen in New York on February 7. He denied allegations that he secreted any proceeds of bonds or coupons in lock boxes.

Former Commissioner Reece said in an answer recently that Lem Reece sold the bonds in New York, but did so for a client, not knowing of their alleged theft. Both answers sought dissolution of an injunction obtained by the State impounding properties of the Reeces in banks and lock boxes.

Edward M. Jenks Expires in Goshen

Retired Newspaperman Formerly Assistant in Congress Library.

Goshen, Conn., March 6 (A.P.).—Edward Monroe Jenks, 81, retired New York newspaperman and former Assistant Librarian in the Congressional Library at Washington, died tonight after an illness of more than a year.

Mr. Jenks, a native of Boston and a descendant on his mother's side of Benjamin Franklin, was at one time real estate editor on the New York Herald Tribune, the New York Sun and the New York American.

He also served as librarian in the public libraries of New York, Boston, Albany and West Point. He was a graduate of Columbia University.

His widow, a daughter, Mrs. Edward Beakell, at whose home he died, and four grandchildren survive.

MISS HELEN SMITH RITES,

Victim of Fall from Window Is Buried in Arlington Cemetery.

Funeral services for Miss Helen Smith, 18, who died Thursday at Walter Reed Hospital from injuries received December 27, when she fell from a window of her third-story apartment in the Ontario, were held yesterday in the Fort Myer chapel. Interment was in Arlington National Cemetery. Miss Smith, daughter of Lieut. Col. Rodney H. Smith, U. S. A., lost her balance when she opened the window.

DEBT NEGOTIATONS LOSE STELLAR ROLE

Are Temporarily Obscured by Concentration of Officials on Bank Crisis.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Negotiations on the Anglo-American debt settlement have been pushed into the background by the concentration of all Government energies on the domestic financial tangle. Yesterday Secretary of State Cordell Hull spent his first working day in his new office, although he had been in conference with the President and the rest of the Cabinet almost all of Sunday.

The formal announcement and induction into office of William Phillips, of Massachusetts, as Undersecretary, and Raymond Moley, of Ohio, as Assistant Secretary, were made yesterday.

During the afternoon employes of the department presented a flag to the retiring Secretary of State. Col. Stimson replied with a few words and was visibly affected. Secretary Hull also was present.

The new State Department officers had several visitors during the afternoon. Norman H. Davis, American delegate-at-large to European conferences, called with Frank L. Polk, Undersecretary of State in the Wilson administration.

Repotrs that President Roosevelt intended to extend formal recognition to Russia could not be verified at the department. It is believed more likely that the President will suggest some intermediate form of recognition, such as a trade delegation or special commercial mission before full diplomatic relations are restored.

Election Set April 11 For Citizens' Group

An election to fill three vacancies on the citizens' committee of Martin's Addition to Chevy Chase, Md., will be held April 11 from 7 to 10 p. m. at the Brookeville Pharmacy, 6423 Brookeville road, according to an announcement by Roy A. Tomlinson, chairman of the board of elections.

Nominations must be in writing and must be received by the chairman of the board, whose address is 418 Turner street, on or before March 31. Names of nominees will be posted in the pharmacy until April 4 when a complete list will be posted. All voters are entitled to vote for three candidates to fill the places of Ralph H. Chase, Fred J. Leonard and Andrew M. Newman, whose terms expire.

Buyer Responsibility Urged on Advertisers

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—The Association of National Advertisers, Inc., in a letter to members says its board of directors believes advertisers in their own interest "should take full cognizance of the responsibility which falls upon them as buyers of space."

As buyers of advertising, the letter states, members "have a community of interest with the substantial publishers of the country in maintaining their publications as useful means which we can continue to employ in our sales activities."

Victory of Nazis Is Hailed in Rome

Paper in Poland, on Other Hand, Predicts Further Strained Relations.

Rome, March 6 (A.P.).—Commenting on the Nazi victory in the German elections, Il Giornale D'Italia today expressed hope that Italo-German friendship and collaboration would "become even more decisive factors in the civil progress of an unquiet Europe which is seeking justice and unity."

The German voting, the paper asserted, signified "definite salvation of the nation from Bolshevism, elimination of internal and foreign mortification, the return of grand traditions, and the acceleration of internal constructive work."

Warsaw, Poland, March 6 (A.P.).—The progovernment Gazeta Polska, commenting today on the Hitler victory in Germany, said relations between Germany and Poland would be still more difficult than they have been in the past.

Economy League Asks Retrenching

President Roosevelt Told Veteran Pension Cuts Key to Situation.

With the Federal Government running behind about $9,000,000 a day and faced with the necessity of borrowing $1,000,000,000 before March 15, the National Economy League yesterday urged President Roosevelt to announce an immediate drastic retrenchment program for the next fiscal year.

The only possible way to balance the budget is to reduce expenditures in the Veterans' Administration by at least $450,000,000 a year, Maj. Henry H. Curran, director of the league, telegraphed the President. This can be accomplished without injustice to any war veteran disabled in war service.

"The key to the lock is the pension cut," Maj. Curran declared.

Faux Pas?

French Delegate at Arms Parley Hopes Germany Will Have Colonies.

Geneva, March 6 (A.P.).—Albert Sarraut, French delegate to the world disarmament conference, created a sensation at today's meeting by declaring that France hopes Germany will some day take her place again among the world's colonial powers.

Count Rudolf Nadolny, the German spokesman, who had just been appointed a member of a subcommittee to consider limitation of effectives and overseas forces, was quick to thank the Frenchman for his amiable words.

Other French delegates immediately began to show signs of keen dismay, explaining privately they believed M. Sarraut had committed a serious error, and that his remark must not be taken as representing the view of the French government.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

GOVERNMENT employes went to work yesterday for the first time under the "new deal." They had been anxious to turn face-up the cards dealt them under the "new deal." But jobs were a minor topic in the day's discussions. You probably can guess what the leading subject was.

If you saw almost the entire personnel of the Census Bureau milling about Secretary Roper's office yesterday morning, it was because they came to view the many floral tributes. Daniel Roper once served in Census.

National organizers Matilda Lindsay and John D. Cloud will review the recent session of Congress, insofar as it relates to Government employes.

NOT all the relics associated with the life of the Great Emancipator are housed in the Lincoln Museum on Tenth street. Swarmi Fedd learns that the American flag which draped Lincoln's box in Ford's Theater April 14, 1865, where he was shot, is displayed on the second floor, north side, of the Treasury Department. The flag is now aged nearly threescore and ten years.

A distinct feature of this national emblem, as compared with others to which history attaches, is a tear in the fringe, about 6 inches long. In leaping from the box, after the fatal shot, Booth's spur caught in the fringe, causing him to fall and break his ankle. Draped in slumber, this flag is a mute symbol of history and tragedy.

The soil in front of the Agricultural Department has had a restless existence. First, it was sowed to soybeans. These were plowed under. Then the area was sowed to rye grass. Now the soil, responsive to the spade, is having its dream life disturbed again, and 24 holes are being dug. These pits will receive American elms and, when planted, the group will represent a part of the permanent landscaping plan.

ALLEGED HIJACKING HEAD TAKES STAND

Plummer Admits to Court in Baltimore He Called U. S. Dry Official.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 6.—After his identification as the leader of a gang of hijackers who assaulted dry investigators in Calvert County last September, William Plummer today took the witness stand in his own defense in the United States District Court and denied all connection with the hijacking.

Plummer was described as the leader of the enterprise by William Carley, alias Louis Brown, and Henry G. Carter, who already have been sentenced. Plummer was the first defense witness. He said he had not taken part in the hijacking, that he had known nothing about it until the following day, and that he had not seen Carter nor Carley prior to his arrest.

The witness also branded as false the testimony of William R. Blandford, deputy prohibition administrator of Washington, who said the defendant had been instrumental in causing the seizure of the liquor which later was hijacked.

Plummer admitted calling Blandford on the telephone, but said he did it at the request of two men who told him they wanted to give Federal officials a tip.

The defendant denied he had taken Blandford and the other officers to the place where the liquor was seized, and denied, too, Blandford's story that Plummer had asked to be given a certain portion of the seized liquor in return for the tip.

Swanson Enters Office Informally

Jahncke Will Remain as Aid Until Successor Is Appointed.

(Associated Press.)

The new Secretary of the Navy, Claude Swanson, took over his new office yesterday. There were no formalities.

Secretary Swanson climbed the one flight of stairs to his office and took off his overcoat himself as he opened the door. The former senator was greeted in his office by Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary under the Hoover regime.

Most of the callers, who included Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps, Secretary Swanson had known for years during his long service in Congress and as a delegate to the Geneva arms conference. Mr. Jahncke will remain in his post as Assistant Secretary until his successor has been named.

Farley, as Did Brown, Has High Hat Trouble

(United Press.)

Postmaster General Farley is having silk hat trouble, it developed yesterday, similar to that suffered by his predecessor, Walter Brown. Farley rolled up to the White House yesterday in a taxicab with a slightly dented silk hat set squarely on his brow.

"Yeh," said he, "it looks like I'll have to get an auto that fits my hat. I understand there's one down at the Postoffice Department Building."

Brown amused the Nation a few weeks ago when it was revealed that he had traded in at Government expense a small sedan for a big one so that there would be room for his hat.

NOTED MAYO CLINIC DOCTOR FOUND DEAD

Poisoning Suspected in the Death of Sistrunk at Hotel in New Orleans.

New Orleans, March 6 (U.P.).—Dr. Walter E. Sistrunk, 49, noted Dallas, Tex., surgeon, was found dead in his room at the Hotel Roosevelt here late today, apparently from poisoning.

The prominent surgeon, who for 19 years was a member of the staff of Mayo Brothers Clinic at Rochester, Minn., was en route to Atlanta to address a group of surgeons and others on "vocal infections," and had stopped in New Orleans for a brief visit with James Rainey, his brother-in-law.

A coroner's autopsy revealed suggestions of poison, but no traces of a container were found in the room.

Discovery of the death followed the report of a hotel telephone operator that the receiver in Dr. Sistrunk's room was down and she could not get an answer.

Investigation of the doctor's wallet revealed about $30 in cash, two railway tickets from Fort Worth to Washington, and one ticket from New Orleans to Atlanta.

Blind Invalid Writer Dies.

EUROPE NEARS WAR, NOVELIST DECLARES

Sinclair Lewis Returns With Forecast of Hostilities Within Two Years.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Sinclair Lewis came home from Europe today with predictions of a central European war within two years, and with plans for another novel.

"I am convinced, seriously convinced," said Lewis, "that a war will break out in central Europe before two years are out. The economic situation is such that it is utterly impossible to avoid it.

"The small nations there are strangled. When I left this country in August I should have called such talk alarmist, but after my months in Vienna, I am sure it's right. All of central Europe, Germany, France, Italy, will all be drawn in. There are 20 irritations from which it could grow, each one worse than the last. Wilson's 14 points are 14 points of danger."

In his best imaginative vein he drew a picture of disaster, with Russia standing on the sidelines until the nations were so weakened that their inoculation with communism would be an easy matter. The only bright spot on the horizon, as Lewis sees it, is that neither the United States nor England will be drawn into the conflict.

He declined to discuss the novel on which he now is working, but said he would finish it this summer at his farm in Vermont.

Hollywood's Executives Study Plans for Closing

Hollywood, March 6 (A.P.).—Unable to meet pay rolls because of the financial stringency, motion picture executives met here today in an emergency conference and announced they contemplated closing altogether.

"Because of the present emergency the studios are considering stopping all their work," said the brief statement issued by a spokesman for the heads of six studios.

Woman's Duty Held Like Men's by Mrs. Roosevelt

Advises Display of Courage as She Sets Precedent by Opening Weekly Press Conferences at White House to Feminine Writers.

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

"Woman's duty at this time is the same as that of man, to exhibit courage and common sense," was the message Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the beginning of her first week in the White House. The advice was sent out to the women of the country through the newspaper women who attended the first of her weekly press conferences yesterday noon in the Red Room.

Mrs. Roosevelt talked over quite frankly her aims and desires to perform the task before her to the best of her ability and also to make the work of the newspaper women, which she described as most important, as unhampered as possible.

Mrs. Roosevelt made history at this conference because it is the first time a wife of a President has established a regular organized conference with the newspaper women and which is to be held each week. Her business-like directness left no doubt of what she expected of the women accorded this privilege. There will be no chance of Mrs. Roosevelt being misquoted or misinterpreted. Her secretary, Mrs. Malvina Thompson Scheider took down a stenographic report of the conversation. Mrs. Roosevelt brought with her into the Red Room a gay round box of conserved grape fruit which she passed about to the newspaper women. She was dressed in a black wool skirt and white silk blouse with a ruffled front, held by a round jade pin, matching the pendant of jade she wore on a slender chain about her neck.

Mrs. Roosevelt explained that the machinery of the White House had been proceeding as usual yesterday, but that this morning some of the changes for which she has arranged will be inaugurated. She had previously announced that the operating expenses of the White House will be reduced under her regime and that the custodians to be placed in charge of the workings of the domestic machinery and property will be her neighbors in Hyde Park, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nesbitt, who are already established in the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt brought a number of servants from Hyde Park, including her husband's valet and her personal maid, Mary.

The oval drawing room furniture will be supplemented by furniture brought in from the Monroe room and Val Kil furniture brought down from New York will be used toward the filling in. One of the personal accessories added is a silver tea set, which is said to have been presented to Mrs. Roosevelt on her wedding day by her bridesmaid cousin, Alice Roosevelt, now Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. Books and the collection of marine prints and various silver cups belonging to the President also will bring a touch of their Hyde Park home to the Roosevelt family.

Mrs. Roosevelt only stopped her work of making the White House family quarters home like to attend the funeral of the late Senator Walsh.

From the press conference Mrs. Roosevelt greeted the governors now in conference and presided at the buffet luncheon for them. Among the additional guests was former Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross.

Little Anna Dall and Curtis Dall, who are known to the Roosevelt family and, of course, will be to the Nation as "Sistie" and "Brumsie," went to visit friends yesterday afternoon and played in the park nearby. They will remain at the White House until tomorrow.

A tea was given yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt by the Newspaper Women's Club of Washington, at the National Press Club.

Luckies Please!

Monte Carlo, Monaco

In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always "Luckies Please"

Character and mildness... the Lucky combination

Wherever you find joy in life... there you find Lucky Strike. For Luckies offer you Character—tempting flavor and the full, smooth quality of the finest tobaccos—the "Cream of the Crop".

But that's not enough. A cigarette should be mild. And so these fine tobaccos are subjected to the famous "Toasting" process. It is "Toasting" that makes Luckies mild—just as surely as fine tobaccos give Luckies character. And for these two reasons—character and mildness—"Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

MEETING THE SITUATION.

Public reaction to President Roosevelt's proclamation of a bank holiday has been admirable in its cheerfulness and co-operative spirit. Instead of arousing fears, the decisive action of the President allayed them. It had been felt that something heroic would have to be done, and Mr. Roosevelt's bold stroke electrified the people. His act was compared with that of a clear-headed surgeon who, in the midst of a panicky crowd, applies a turniquet to a man bleeding from an artery and stops the flow of blood.

Stoppage of the flow of gold was the prime necessity. President Roosevelt's action instantly stopped this bleeding. Steps may now be taken more deliberately to mend the situation.

The regulations issued by Secretary Woodin will materially ease the situation, while safeguarding the gold supply. Funds for moving food will be available; pay-rolls will be provided for; clearing-house certificates are authorized; safe deposit boxes will be accessible; the Treasury will cash all Government checks; and the postal savings bank will remain in operation.

Clearing-house certificates answer all the requirements of money for the emergency period. They are exchangeable in any amount, and are secured by the combined resources of banks. By means of these certificates all the activities of business may be continued without interruption.

President Roosevelt evidently has in mind a single joint resolution or act of Congress designed to cope with the situation created by the drain of gold. As the House must organize before legislating, it is possible that the bank holiday will be continued for a short time. But the proposed legislation will be drawn up ready for action, and since there is but one mind on the subject, no delay beyond next Monday is apprehended. Presumably banks will resume operations under limitations safeguarding the gold supply. Exports of gold must be prevented until foreign speculation quits the futile effort to throw the United States off the gold standard.

It may be wise for the Senate committee on banking to investigate this foreign speculation in American gold, for the purpose of identifying the individuals in this country who have aided foreigners in the attack upon this country's financial integrity. The law heavily penalizes such operations after the President has forbidden them, and no further injury from that source may be looked for.

NO RADICAL PARADES.

Washington police did well to break up the Communist parade at Twelfth and P streets yesterday. The group had no permit to conduct a demonstration. It was the duty of the police to stop the marchers and to maintain order. In doing so the police found it necessary to bruise a number of heads, and to arrest 38 persons. The prompt action of these officers will stand as a warning to other radical groups that they can not violate the law and defy officers of the law with impunity.

Radicals always make themselves conspicuous in times of great emergency. The foremost purpose of the Communist organizations is to foment riots and increase unrest. While the entire Nation is in a state of tension they attempt to create turmoil. They would exploit the misfortunes of the country to stir up hate and disorder. At every point they must be stopped by the strong arm of the law.

This is no occasion for radical parades. Such demonstrations are doubly unjustifiable when the people's money is tied up in closed banks and the Government is doing its utmost to work the situation out on a practical basis. Let there be a holiday on radical demonstrations. The District Commissioners would do well to deny all requests for permits to parade or to arouse public feelings in any other manner.

CHANCE FOR BANK REFORM.

The public may be inclined to regard the banking crisis as just another phase of the depression, but its origin lies in the weaknesses of the American banking system. Apparently a crisis was necessary to bring Congress and the public to a realization that the country can not continue under the haphazard and inefficient banking system now in use. Perhaps the most important ultimate result of President Roosevelt's national banking holiday will be a sweeping revision of Federal and State banking laws.

In the last 12 years one-third of all the banks in the United States have failed. The number mounts to more than 10,000 failures. Even in the most prosperous years of American history banks were closing their doors at an alarming rate. Since 1920 deposits aggregating more than $5,000,000,000 have been involved in bank failures. No other country in the world could have continued to do business normally with such frightful casualties among its banks.

The banking field has been open to virtually any one with a few thousand dollars in capital. Back in 1900 the United States and State governments had chartered 14,000 banks. By 1920 the number had grown to more than 30,000. Banks grew much faster than did the population, in spite of the concentration of people in cities where large banks are practical. If the country had not been growing in wealth and business at a rapid rate, failures would have been far more numerous than they have been.

Foremost among the weaknesses of the American banking system is the competition between the States and the Government in chartering banks. Every time Congress attempts to tighten up regulations on national banks there is a tendency to shift from national to State charters. Sound banking on a nation-wide scale is impossible under such circumstances.

Most banks are too small for safety. They may serve the needs of their local communities without difficulty in normal times, but adverse local conditions threaten them with insolvency. It is questionable, too, whether there is enough banking talent in America to conduct from 20,000 to 30,000 financial institutions. Unsound banks and dishonest bankers must be weeded out. The only way in which confidence can be reestablished on a permanent basis is to make certain that henceforth the banks which accept the public's money shall be worthy of trust.

All banks of the country are now closed. Banks that are insolvent should not be permitted to reopen, except under such reorganization as will insure their future soundness. The United States has far too many banks. A thousand strong banks would serve the country much better than 30,000 have done in the last decade. More stringent requirements as to capital and larger reserves are essential to meet the requirements of the future.

Congress will have a good opportunity in ironing out the defects of the banking system, after the crisis is over, to bring all banks under the Federal Reserve system. The ideal solution would be a unified banking system under which all banks would look to the Government for charters. For the present, however, Congress will be doing the Nation a great service if it forces all banks to meet the requirements for Federal Reserve membership.

A valiant attempt was made to pass a new banking act in the last session of Congress. Senator Glass pushed his bill through the Senate, with one unfortunate amendment, but the House would not consider it. Failure of the House to act in the face of a banking crisis amounts almost to criminal negligence.

When the present emergency has been met the new Congress must buttress the whole banking structure to avoid a repetition of the collapse of small, poorly managed banks—a situation that subjects even the strongest banks to unwarranted strain.

HITLER ARRIVES.

The result of the German elections on Sunday indicates that the Reich will be ruled by Chancellor Hitler indefinitely. Ninety per cent of the electorate went to the polls, the largest proportion ever voting. The National Socialists won 288 seats in the Reichstag, which combined with 52 members of the Nationalist party, assures the government coalition a substantial majority. If the Communists and Socialists should be excluded the Hitlerites would have a clear majority of their own.

The cabinet is to meet today to set the date for the convening of the Reichstag. The general impression is that the Reichstag will meet in brief session to confer wide powers upon the present government and adjourn, possibly for two years. The Hitler party vote increased 11 per cent over that of the November election, giving the National Socialists the largest legislative representation ever held by a single political group since the formation of the republic.

The achievement of this unique record, however, far from establishing democratic rule, is generally believed to spell its doom. Hitler's whole campaign for more than a decade has been one of opposition to the republic and parliamentary rule. He is now in the saddle and, while the Nationalists have never been Hitlerites at heart, they are now associated with his National Socialists in the presidential cabinet and can hardly withhold their support when outnumbered in the coalition more than five to one.

There has been much criticism of the harsh measures recently employed by Hitler to suppress Communists and Socialists. Whether justified or not, the result of the election shows that Germany has resolved to give Hitlerism a trial. Intimidation and repressive measures may have kept some of the radical voters from the polls, but they did not force support of Hitler candidates, and the latest vote is 20 per cent larger than in the November elections.

The Hitlerites have predicted that the Sunday election would be the last to be held in Germany for four years. Whether the eventual attempt will be to establish a Fascist state is still a matter of conjecture. It is reported that the Chancellor has promised President von Hindenburg that he will not disturb the Nationalist members of the cabinet, placed there as a restraining influence upon the fiery Nazi leader. However, he also has at his right hand his free-lance cabinet member without portfolio, Herman Goering, the fearless fighter, and Wilhelm Frick, the suave diplomat, well balanced supporters of the eloquent chancellor. If Hitler should achieve his dream of a Fascist dictatorship it will be due in no small measure to these two men, who have fought his battles for years, and to his able half-American publicity man, Ernest Hanfstaengl, who introduced modern high-powered methods to "sell" Hitler at home and abroad.

ANTON CERMAK.

Mayor Anton Cermak has succumbed to the effects of an assassin's bullet after a valiant fight for life. All that medical science could do was unavailing to overcome the complications that followed in rapid succession to exhaust his strength. His sacrifice at the hands of a degenerate will be universally mourned throughout the nation.

Mayor Cermak's rise to the leadership of the second city of the union is a testimonial to the democratic spirit of America. Born of humble parents in Bohemia, thrown upon his own resources at 11, he made his way by hard work to business and political prominence. His career points the opportunity that this land offers to every youth with the spirit and determination to work and secure an education in spite of all handicaps. Chicago will miss Mayor Cermak. His death will be a sad blow to the President, for whom the assassin's bullet was intended. With him the country will join in paying tribute to a worthy citizen and official, and in expressing sorrow for the sacrifice of a useful life.

Every jobchaser who has come here, only to find that checks can't be cashed and that he must wait till the crisis is over, is a crisis all by himself.

The New York Stock Exchange decides that it can't chalk up imaginary dealings in imperceptible currency. Chalk costs money.

If getting along without money for a while would turn people's thoughts to other things, it would be a great help.

Now let's see the infant Seventy-third Congress, like Hercules in his cradle, strangle the serpent Fear.

Now is Vice President Garner's chance to come out against publicity of loans to banks by the R. F. C.

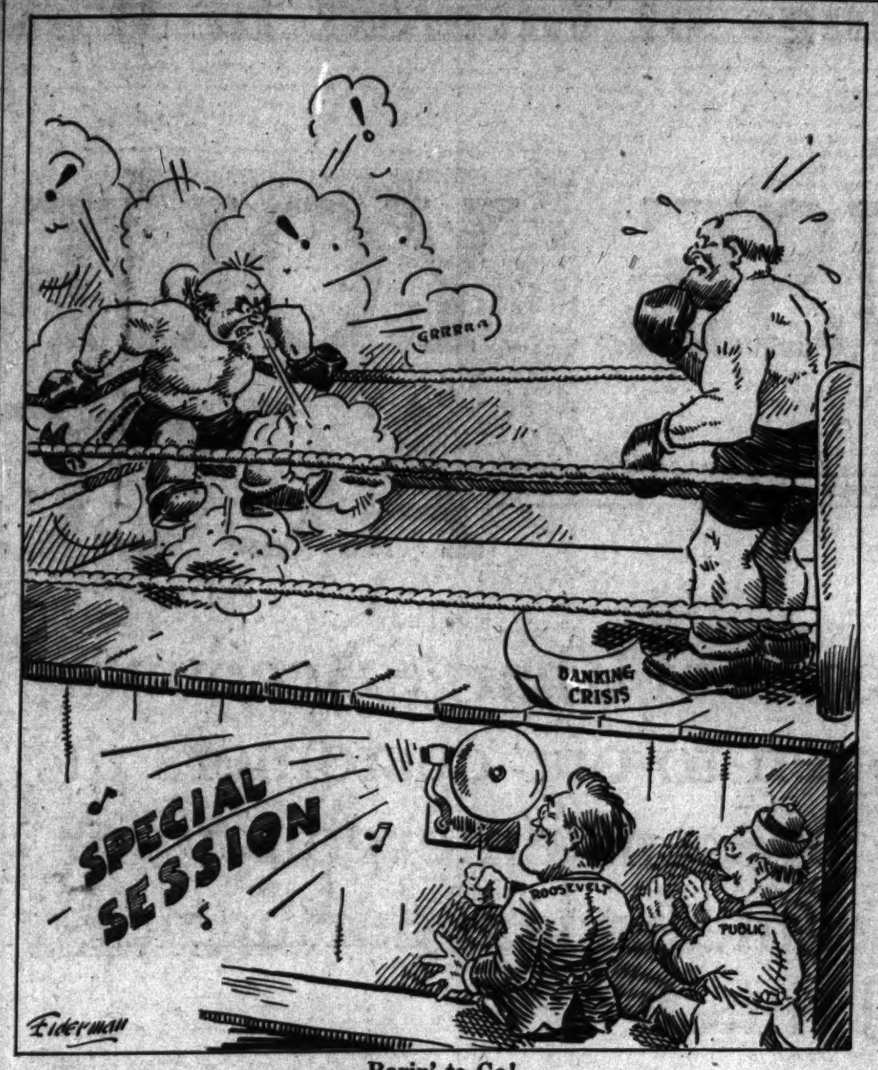
From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

He will now begin the greatest fight of his career. Not since Lincoln has any President faced such a fight. Whatever may be considered the odds against his winning it, there are yet signal odds in his favor. Notable among them is leadership. The fight which he is to make must be won by a leader; and Franklin Roosevelt has demonstrated that he is a leader. He demonstrated it as Governor of New York. He demonstrated it in his candidacy for the Presidency, both before and after the meeting of the convention which nominated him. He has demonstrated it in the formulation of the policies which he has led his party to adopt.

It is greatly in his favor, also, that he begins his administration with a Congress controlled by a heavy majority of his own political party, a majority all the more willing to follow him because it was swept into power by the same expression of popular will that swept Roosevelt into the White House. That he will be able to direct that Congress, it is reasonable to believe. Walter Hines Page, in discussing Grover Cleveland, whom he regarded as the greatest Democratic President since Jefferson, pointed out that the test of a political leader comes not when he is in opposition, but when he has a victorious majority at his back. "Mr. Cleveland," Page wrote, "is remarkably strong as the leader of a great party in opposition. He is not correspondingly strong as the executive of a victorious party." There is the explanation of such failures to enforce his policies as Cleveland suffered.

But Franklin Roosevelt, while not lacking the stamina and virility of the rugged Cleveland, is endowed with certain qualities of leadership which were denied the great New Yorker who preceded him from the governorship to the Presidency. Cleveland would have been a more masterful leader if his force had been supplemented by Roosevelt's sunny personal charm, human sympathy, magnetism and imagination, without which no leader can be sure of commanding individuals as well as masses. President Roosevelt will be backed by a victorious party in Congress, and he will be better able to improve such an advantage than President Cleveland was able to do.

But he will not, and need not, depend alone on his party to accomplish his aims. Never before has a President taken his seat with such unmistakable evidences of the good will of his opponents. The Republicans of Congress, like the Republicans of the Nation, are, in the main, ready to forget partisanship in their desire for the good of the country. Whether or not they fully share Mr. Roosevelt's confidence in all the features of his proposed "new deal," they are willing that it shall be tried out fairly, and willing to help in its trial. The untoward experiences of the last three years have impressed upon them that they are now patriots before they are partisans; and good Republicans, like good Democrats, are anxious that the new President shall succeed, without any thought of credit to one political party or another.



Rarin' to Go!

POST HASTE

Congress hopped the train for Washington yesterday, even if the other shirt had to follow by parcel post.

One queer character was discovered by Diogenes in the city who admitted he hadn't any bank account.

The Capital loses Amos and Andy, but Congress returns on Thursday.

The President prefers to handle trouble with gloves, but one former boxing commissioner can show him how to insert the horseshoe if necessary.

The Hitler victory may scare up France and Poland, but the shock is liable to be fatal to the armament conference.

Congress is going to make a record for promptness this time; it will get here to find the dotted lines all ready for their fountain pens.

The first crisis for the new Cabinet was financial, and so was settled with all the harmony of a Woodin symphony.

Now comes the tug of warless vets to pull the leg of Congress.

If we are to begin the beer ballot battle again in a fortnight why not cut out the fractions and ease the strain on alleged brain content?

Some operations are suspended, but you notice that interest, rent and taxes keep right on doing business.

It may be idle to speculate on whether we are off the gold standard or not, but at least speculation in gold dollars is idle.

European grief over the American bank crisis is somewhat assuaged by the hope that it will chasten pride and render us more understanding of woes they have long endured.

If you happen to have a gold coin left be careful during the next few days not to earmark it or you'll be liable.

"Don't you never take nothing serious." Sure, and hasten to repeat the good advice that now is the time for all good men to hang together—or——

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE WHITE CANE.

I saw a white cane glisten as he slowly walked along,
And it seemed to catch my fancy as I mingled with the throng.
I thought it rather curious, for all the canes in town
That I have ever noticed were either black or brown.
And then as he came closer flashed
the thought into my mind:
"I know the white cane's meaning—
'tis the symbol of the blind!"

It's just a mild suggestion to the hurrying passerby
To be a little thoughtful of the brother drawing nigh.
When he sees that white cane gleaming in the glory of the day
There is one who walks in darkness who needs help to cross the way.
'Tis a blind man's modest symbol that where'er his pathway wends
He is certain great and lowly, rich and poor are all his friends.

I've forgotten who began it or from whom the notion came,
But the white cane for the sightless is a thought deserving fame.
In life's feverish helter-skelter we go rushing right along Little heeding, little noting who may need us of the throng.
But the white cane, tapping, tapping,
as a symbol of the blind Should remind us to be watchful, to be thoughtful, to be kind.

Easy Way to Become a Good Driver Is to Learn From One Who Has No Wrecks.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE mistakes of the ignorant are pardonable, but there is no excuse for those who do a thing the wrong way when they know the right way.

When America began to arm for the war against Germany, there was nobody on this side of the Atlantic who knew the mechanics of modern warfare.

To train the draft army in methods of offense and defense used in our previous wars would have been unspeakably stupid.

Here was a problem, but the solution was too obvious to be overlooked. Experienced officers of the allied armies were invited to come over and teach our recruits their new trade.

So simple! And yet our country has forgotten how easily that problem was solved, and now is groping in darkness to find the solution of another problem that requires no greater degree of wisdom.

The problem is to restore faith in banks.

The foundation of all banking is confidence. Without the confidence of its depositors, no bank in America could survive a fortnight in good times or bad. Given the complete confidence of its depositors, no honestly managed bank would fail.

Lawmakers, eager to restore faith in banks, are devising many schemes to make them safe.

One of these schemes would guarantee deposits—which means, in simple terms, using the taxpayer's money to pay the cost of stupidity and crookedness.

Two States have tried it, and neither has yet finished paying for the experiment.

Other suggested plans may be good or evil. No man can know until they are tried. And the trying of new plans in times like these is playing with dynamite.

What, then, can we do?

Well, if thieves raid your hen roost and don't trouble your neighbor, wouldn't it be a good idea to examine the padlock your neighbor uses?

Canada's banks have survived. England has suffered more than America, yet her banks have stood like Gibraltar.

Are Britons more honest or more able than Americans? Perhaps not. But they have banking laws and customs that make banks safe places to keep money.

A man deserves suffering if he is too dumb to try the remedy that cured his neighbor.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Repeal Conventions.

Boston Transcript.

The dominating idea of referring the Blaine resolution to conventions was to give every voter in the United States the right to say Yes or No to the proposition: "The Eighteenth Article of Amendment to the Constitution of the United States is hereby repealed"—that is the form in which it passed Congress. To think of electing "unpledged" delegates upon such a proposal is silly. The method of acting upon this question is one of pure democracy, and the delegates to the convention are only figure-heads, whose sole official function is to vote in accordance with their instructions, for the people will have spoken.

In view of these and other considerations which we believe to be sound, we believe that the repeal convention should be composed of as few delegates as are necessary to register the popular will. The issue is nonpartisan, consequently the political complexion of the units finally established will cut no figure. It is even not important that the delegates be men and women of prominence, although naturally they are likely to be, under any scheme of nomination.

Give Miss Perkins a Chance.

Kansas City Star.

In the case of Miss Perkins, it may be assumed that President Roosevelt selected her on the basis of her ability and experience. He has known her work as commissioner of labor in New York, and she evidently has his confidence. It is unfortunate that the president of the American Federation of Labor and the other officers of that organization for whom he speaks should not share that confidence. But in view of what is generally known about Miss Perkins' record, the public, as a whole, is apt to be sympathetically disposed toward her appointment even if it suspends judgment until the new Secretary of Labor has had a chance to show what she can do.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Balance Budget, Put on Sales Tax, Cut Out Unwarranted Payments to Veterans and People Will Solve Their Own Problems.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A crisis, such as this one, is of benefit ultimately to the Nation for the reason that it is a symptom, not a disease. It is a symptom that indicates that a very necessary economic adjustment is in process. When the adjustment is completed the symptom will disappear and the patient will be much better.

At the present moment there is a tendency to become frantic. Let us not lose our heads. A crisis such as this is really not too severe. It does not threaten the life of the Nation. We must not pass frantic legislation now which will be very embarrassing later and which may create a permanent injury. People can get along very well on clearing house certificates or other forms of scrip for a short time. Let us use our heads and calmly remove from business the restrictions which now are binding it, rather than inject further doses of high-power governmental credit stimulants into its veins. What we have been doing is binding business tightly and then attempting to stimulate it with enough strength to enable it to break the bonds.

This will not work. This crisis shows that it won't. Let's cut the bonds. If we do this business will take care of itself; and it will arise with such strength that it will soon be able to care for such harassing things as unemployment, farm problems, &c. Business has indicated that it is raring to go. On the slightest improvement it will demonstrate it again; and by improvement I mean removal of restrictions by restoration of confidence in the Government.

Instead of passing legislation guaranteeing bank deposits, let us go at the problem by: (1) Balancing the budget. (2) Readjusting present methods of taxation and applying a general sales tax, properly modified to remove some of the objectionable features. (3) Let us reduce the cost of Government without impairing its efficiency; and let us squash these powerful lobbies by forceful action and cut the veterans' appropriations so that only the deserved payments are made.

In obtaining this legislation it will cut through the thongs which now are binding business. Not all the thongs, but enough of them to permit business to break the others. Then the power of the Nation will arise. Confidence in the Government will be restored. The great strength of the Nation will carry easily many of the burdens which now seem to weigh upon it so oppressively.

This crisis has given a wonderful opportunity for the new leadership to triumph quickly if it will seize the weapon and use it vigorously.

Washington's Injunction in Bequeathing His Swords Should Be Read in Every School.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It has been a matter of some surprise and of no little regret that the legend which has been a part of the exhibit of the swords of Gen. Washington should have been removed, as it was some months ago at Mount Vernon. The testimony was small and not readily legible, so that it was read with difficulty, but visitors all wanted to see it. Sometimes the delay so caused clogged the passage of the crowds through the mansion, to avoid which the legend was removed, but the guide announced that "these were Washington's swords."

The inscription was: "These swords are accompanied with the injunction not to unsheath them for the purpose of shedding blood except it be for self-defense or in defense of their country and its rights, and in the latter case keep them unsheathed, and prefer falling with them in their hands to the relinquishment thereof."

It is a satisfaction to know that the inscription has been restored to its place, but it is felt that a larger type of letter be employed so that it may be easily and quickly read. Thus it might be photographed with the swords, from which a plate could be produced; then printed copies could be offered with other souvenirs, or better, could be furnished to the schools throughout the Nation so that one might be hung in every schoolroom in the land. The words of Washington ring true, always, and the inspiration of his injunction regarding defense and preparedness was never more important than now.

ARTHUR GIBSON MORSE.

Another Teacher, a Mother, Thinks Spanking Would Help Headstrong Pupils.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am quite in accord with the sentiment expressed by "A Teacher" in the letter "Missed Thrashings." Being a former teacher myself and now the mother of two husky and active children, allow me to appreciate the value of corporal punishment judiciously administered.

I have followed with interest the careers (?) of several incorrigibles and have always felt that a few good thrashings, given early enough in their lives, would have kept them from growing up to be the ne'er-do-wells they are today.

I am in favor of allowing corporal punishment in our public schools. It is being used today in other countries even on quite mature students, and it was used with good results in the little country school that I attended in the good old U. S. A. about 30 years ago, and no doubt is still being used in many of the "little red schoolhouses" in the mountain sections and back-country sections.

Is that the reason most of our leaders of today are products of the small country school? W. D. B.

Governors and Wives Luncheon Guests At White House.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. ROOSEVELT entertained at luncheon yesterday for the governors of the States who came here for the inauguration and their wives.

Mrs. Roosevelt was the guest of honor at a tea given yesterday by the Newspaper Women's Club of Washington at the rooms in the National Press Club. Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, and her secretary, Mrs. Malvina Thompson Strider, was received at the Fourteenth street entrance of the Press Building by Miss Margaret Hart, chairman of the entertainment committee of the club, and other members of that committee.

In the clubrooms Mrs. Roosevelt was welcomed by Mrs. Hobart Brooks, president of the club, and her party was given corsage bouquets. These and the decorations, which were masses of spring flowers, were supplied through the courtesy of Mr. George Hess, director of the United States Botanic Gardens. The guests were members of the club and a few out-of-town newspaper women who had come to Washington for the inauguration.

Mrs. Roosevelt to Attend Philharmonic Concert.

Mrs. Roosevelt will attend the farewell concert to be given by the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, Arturo Toscanini, conducting, at the Constitution Hall, at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon. This will be the first appearance of Mrs. Roosevelt as First Lady of the Land at a formal concert.

Among those who have taken seats, in addition to the brilliant box parties being arranged, are: The German Ambassador and Frau Friederich W. von Prittwitz und Gaffron; the Minister from Denmark and Mme. Inaugural Stands Are Coming Down Crew of 50 Men Hired on Work to Last Ten Days.

Thousands of feet of sturdy Virginia pine and fir boards will be reclaimed from the inaugural stands, which are being taken apart by the Hechinger Engineering Corporation, which detailed 50 men to the dismantling work yesterday.

The crew started on the stands at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue and are awaiting the removal of all chairs from the frame structures at the Treasury, Riggs National Bank, Lafayette Park and White House to begin wrecking operations there.

About ten days will be required to complete this work. The contracts of the builders stipulate that the stands have to be removed by March 20.

Commissioners Confer On Budget of District

The District Commissioners conferred at length yesterday afternoon with Auditor Daniel J. Donovan regarding the status of the 1934 District budget, but no plan of action was decided upon because of the uncertainty as to what procedure will be required by the new budget director, Lewis Douglas, and the House Appropriations Committee.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board, said that the Commissioners have received no instructions so far. He expressed the hope that the original budget as submitted by the Budget Bureau might be accepted.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York, March 6.—"The strangest sight in New York is the breadline."

Such is the most vivid impression of Chrystyne Hastings on her first visit to this cauldron of 7,000,000 people. Chrystyne is 14 years old and the youngest member of the 100-voice Tuskegee Institute Choir, which came up for the opening of Radio City, sang before President-elect Roosevelt and then stopped off to sing before Herbert Hoover before returning to Alabama.

In her few days' visit the little Negro girl probably saw more of New York than most of the native Manhatters see in a life-time. She visited the tallest buildings, museums, the zoo, Chinatown, the water-front, Broadway and the Bowery. All of it did not impress her.

"It was the first time I ever saw a breadline," she said. "We have no breadlines down home, although we do have the depression."

What's the Hurry?

Chrystyne thinks New Yorkers are so busy they have no time really to enjoy themselves. "You don't know Sunday from Monday," she says, firmly.

Another disappointment was our famed Chinatown. Chrystyne thought it would have some luxurious palaces like those seen in the movies, and all she could find were crooked, dingy streets, with Chinese signs on the ramshackle buildings. "They were kinda mysterious, though," she admitted.

She received a shock when she found Madison Square Garden surrounded by old clothes shops, secondhand jewelry stores and cheap lunch counters. Then she began excitedly to describe the beauties of Tuskegee, where the buildings, though not multistoried, at least stand on their own grounds, surrounded by flower gardens.

Chrystyne's eyes glistened at the mention of Fifth avenue. "I bought two dresses, several pairs of hose and a beautiful pair of shoes."

"You see so many different types of people in New York," she concluded, in a philosophical mood. "It would be a fine place to study human nature. But, after all, people are the same everywhere. Some people are sufferin' and some people are happy. That's all.

"I'd like to come back for a little while, mebbe for a year."

SO THIS IS RENO

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: It seems so strange to me not to know where you are. I haven't had a letter from you today, but if you left on Thursday you should be in a warm place by now. I do hope you haven't put off going. Of course, I am awfully interested to hear your plans.

It was funny last night. Josephine got a letter from her lawyer in New York, also one from her father, and I got one from my Eastern lawyer, all impressing on us the importance of being a permanent resident of Nevada. Like nearly every one else out here, we have been very lax about it and checking off our days and talking about leaving, and Joe has complained to her now intimate friend, the chambermaid, about her homesickness, &c., and how long the 90 days seemed. But yesterday's mail jolted us a bit, so this morning her chambermaid came in and commenced consoling her, as usual. "Well, Mrs. McIntyre, another day has gone and you will be going back pretty soon." Imagine her amazement when Joe sat straight up in bed and replied, icily, "Back? What do you mean, back? I've decided to live here permanently." And when my telephone rang and it was a native who was planning a picnic party to the mountains in two weeks and wanted to know if I would still be here, I assured her that I was here forever. "How nice," she went on in great surprise. "You're going to live here permanently, are you?" I was getting in a hole by then, so I said, "Yes, or that is, off and on." When I went down to Joe's room she was still in her nightdress, hiding her return ticket under the paper of a bureau drawer.

This afternoon I went driving with Mrs. Kaye and her mother and played bridge with them tonight and with Clare. I eat almost all my meals in Clare's apartment. At last I have joined the paper-bag brigade!

Best love, ELIZABETH.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

The child born on this March 7 will in all probability be one who demands a great deal of attention. He will not be the type to find or create his own amusements. He should not be cared for by any one inclined to indulge his every whim and fancy.

Born on March 7, you are a very self-reliant person. You are not at all lacking in confidence in your own abilities. You will undoubtedly be successful in business; you are a hard worker and you are quick to see and seize every opportunity that comes within striking distance. You are a good analyst of character and frequently you are able to see your competitors' weak spots and turn them to your advantage. You are shrewd, but not dishonest. You are out to make money and you will do anything legitimate to get it.

If March 7 is the date of your birth you are not at all the hard business man when you get into your home; you are very much the family man, fond and thoughtful of your wife, loving and tender toward your children. The women born on this date make splendid mothers, but sometimes they seem either unable or unwilling to develop sufficient backbone to discipline their children.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

THE maternity dress has ceased to be a problem. No longer need we wear obvious wrap around things, or huge, sloppy things that seem to fit nowhere. The new mode in this type of dress fits perfectly at the shoulder and sleeves, and is so constructed that its very silhouette is let-out-able at the hips and bust, without destroying the line at all.

I have had many a request from readers to design maternity dresses, but the thing about it is that there is no especial maternity dress to design. Any dress that is modish today, sober and quiet, but well made and elegant, can be so constructed that it is an excellent maternity dress. It has to be made for this, and the shops and departments in the big stores can do it to perfection.

If you are making your own dresses, I suggest simply that the shoulder be well fitted, and the sleeves have wide seams that can be let out if necessary, and that from shoulder to hem there are pleats or jucks, straight up and down ones, which can be let out and pressed down flat so that it never seems as though the dress had been altered at all. A bertha collar or capelet effect is good, too. And belts are rather unnecesary.

You say you have never really and truly had all the lovely handkerchiefs you wanted? And that you just love nice hankies? Well, now, you would be surprised to know how many lovely ladies are in your very same predicament—that's why we have made an illustrated leaflet which tells you how you can have all the lovely handkerchiefs your heart desires—and for so few pennies, too. All made by your own clever fingers, all made in spare finger time that you never even thought you had—and all original and lovely, too. Just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for the leaflet, and see for yourself.

Au Revoir.

Lone Star Sheriff Lurks Back of Cuff

Cafe Patrons Are Warned Cards They Signed Will Go to Him Unless.

Dallas, Tex., March 6 (A.P.).—Bank clerks and others of the financial district who made their usual lunch visit to Louie's Chili Parlor today dismissed their bills by saying, "Put it on the cuff."

"Okay," said Louie, as he handed a blank white card for the customer to sign.

Then he turned it over to reveal it was one of Sheriff Smoot Schmid's campaign cards.

"He'll get it if you don't pay," Louie added.

100 Men With Trucks Clear Parks of Debris

Mementos of the inaugural visitors have been cleared from the park system, it was reported yesterday by officials who said that many truckloads of torn paper had been collected from the Monument Grounds. This accumulation was left over by visitors who watched the fireworks Saturday night.

A hundred men and six trucks were employed on this one clean-up job alone. In addition to collecting the waste paper, the workmen filled the holes dug for the fireworks displays, tore down the temporary bandstands and took down the ropes around the flower beds. The mass of the debris left along the route of the parade has been cleared away by District workers, but last night a few odd corners were still filled with torn newspapers and candy wrappers.

Payment for Printing Of Transcript Extended

An extension of 30 days without application in the payment of fees for printing transcript not due prior to March 1, was allowed yesterday by the United States Court of Customs Appeals.

The court further ordered that the time for filing briefs be extended on special application during the present emergency in all cases where briefs were not due prior to March 1.

Reno Divorce Business Takes Sudden Holiday

Reno, Nev., March 6 (A.P.).—There is a holiday on divorces, too.

Several women, here to have their marital bonds broken, today were unable to pay filing fees at the county clerk's office because their money was in the First National Bank, closed by Presidential proclamation.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

JUICY "FRANKS" MAKE HIT IN MOST SELECT CIRCLES

By ANN BARRETT

THE humble frankfurt? No, sirree! Not the 1933 kind that are seasoned just right, smoked just right, and have skins so thin and tender they can hardly hold the juicy insides in.

This kind of frankfurt (in baby form) is to be found more and more often ranged coyly in rows in imported dishes at some society late supper. (Lilyan Tashman features them at her famous parties.) And big, fat frankfurts are more and more often to be seen on a bed of baked sauerkraut or next a mound of potato salad.

All these ways, juicy red-hots rest proudly on their own merit. Not only because they're so good but because they're so easily cooked.

Baked Sauerkraut and Franks.

As for sauerkraut and franks, here's a big, one-dish version of that combination that's simply swell. Mix 2 pounds of sauerkraut with 2 tablespoons of uncooked oatmeal. (Yes, oatmeal. It thickens the juice.) Put this in a greased baking dish and bury 8 big, fat franks in it. If there is not enough kraut juice to cover the kraut, add a little water. Cover the dish and bake in a slow oven (325) about two and a half hours. Then take out the franks and cover the kraut with 2 cups hot mashed potato. Sprinkle this with 4 tablespoons of grated Parmesan cheese and set back in the oven to brown. Meanwhile, broil the franks and serve them on top of the sauerkraut and potatoes. Mustard and a good, spicy apple sauce team up fine with this dish.

Cooking Tips.

In fact, I find them much easier to cook than many people seem to believe. Since the meat they contain is finely minced and smoked, seven or eight minutes' boiling is enough to turn them out to the queen's taste—or the king's. But don't leave them in the water beyond that time, or they'll shrivel and lose flavor.

And—here's a still better bet. Take the frankfurts out of the boiling water at the end of five minutes. Split them lengthwise, brush them with melted butter and broil them till brown. Or brown them in a hot oven (450). Then eat 'em and be glad—in sandwiches or rolls, or "as is" with mashed or creamed potato. Or slice them, put them up into a cream sauce and serve with waffles or steamed rice. Another trick (borrowed from abroad): slice them thinly (after boiling, broiling or roasting) and add them to lentil soup, lima bean soup or split-pea soup. Good!

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR ONE OF WOMEN'S LEADING BEAUTY PROBLEMS.

PERHAPS the problem that worries women in quest of beauty more than anything else is superfluous hair. One reason perhaps is the fact that they feel it is decidedly unfeminine.

The soft, natural covering of down should not be confused with superfluous hair, by which we mean an excess growth. It is natural for humans to have a soft, light, protective "fuzz" on the skin of the entire body. And it is a mistake to attempt to remove this.

Before attempting to remove superfluous hair on the face, it is wisest to attempt to bleach it. In time the hair will not only become quite light, sometimes even imperceptible, but in addition constant bleaching may devitalize the strength of the hair.

If bleaching is not found sufficiently satisfactory, electrolysis by a reputed specialist is recommended. Ask you physician to recommend such a specialist to you. Electrolysis is the only method I know of permanently removing superfluous hair. A small portion of the hairs may return and need further treatment.

Depilatories and wax epilators are very satisfactory for temporary removal, but these are recommended for arms and legs more than for face.

On the continent hair on the upper lip is considered a mark of beauty and women do not attempt to remove this growth. Americans, however, distinctly abhor this, feeling that it does not belong. Wax may safely be used to remove the hair on upper lip.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

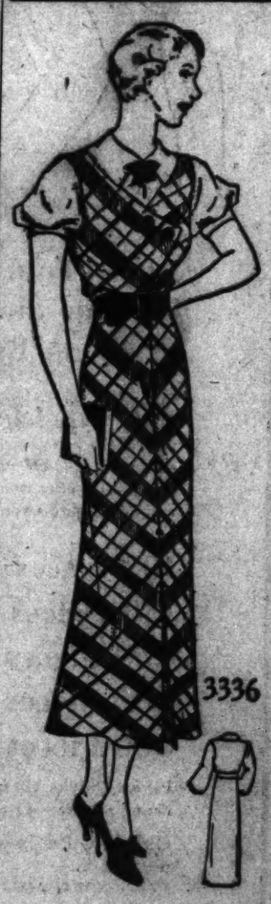
IT is well known that men with Buerger's disease should discontinue the use of tobacco. Physicians disagree as to other methods of treatment of this disease, but they are in accord that tobacco is harmful and must not be used in any form.

Buerger's disease is a disorder in which the legs cramp and give under a man. The cramp generally comes on during walking and other uses of the leg, being in contrast to the cramps which so frequently trouble old persons at night. The trouble may progress to the point where it causes gangrene, and amputation is not infrequently necessary.

It is caused by a chronic inflammation and thickening of the walls of the blood vessels of the leg, accompanied at times with some formation of clots. In many cases there is spasm of the muscles of the vessel walls. Physicians have ways of testing the circulation in a case of this disease to determine how much of the trouble is due to spasmodic contraction of the blood vessels and how much of the obstruction is due to thickening of the walls from inflammation and clotting.

The physicians in attendance choose between cutting certain nerve roots, alternating hot and cold leg baths, alternating raising and lowering of the legs, application of radiant heat and other forms of heat, and protection against exposure to cold. As has been said, they all agree as to the need of quitting tobacco. Some physicians go so far as to advise everybody with any sort of leg cramps to discontinue the use of tobacco.

Fifth Avenue Fashions



A JUMPER for chic.

You'll have guessed that the original was in plaided woolen, now so voguish. It is in rich yellow and brown mixture. The guimpe was plain toning yellow pique.

Rabbit's-hair woolen in slate blue is very effective with the guimpe of white crepe silk.

A printed crepe with plain toning crepe guimpe is lovely for town.

Style No. 3336 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 35-inch material for dress with 1⅛ yards of 35-inch material for blouse. Price of Pattern, 15 cents.

NOT "PAPA-MAMA" BRIDGE.

ALTHOUGH she has been playing Contract Bridge only for eight months, Mrs. Oswald Jacoby has developed a very fine partnership with her husband. However, one of the general features is that Mr. Jacoby seems to play practically every hand, and usually at three no trump.

It is a sort of unwritten rule in the family that if Mr. Jacoby bids three notrump, Mrs. Jacoby passes, but every once in a while she rebels. The following is an example. It was the first hand of a rubber in a match against Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Phipps.

The hand:
North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Mrs. Jacoby.

♡ K J 10 5
◇ A K 8 7 4 3 2
♣ J 7

Mrs. Phipps	Mr. Phipps
♠ A K 9 7 6	♠ Q J 5 4

♣ 10 2	♣ 9 6 5

Mr. Jacoby.

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West

1—The proper Opening bid.
2—A horrible bid, but occasionally bid by Mr. Jacoby, particularly when playing with his wife.
3—Three diamonds is probably better, but Mrs. Jacoby decides to show all her suits.
4—Continuing his course.
5—Looks like a sure set of 2 or 3 tricks.
6—The proper bid.
7—Mrs. Phipps will not let Mr. Jacoby escape from the trap.
8—Mr. Jacoby, caught by his own bad bid, tries to escape a Double, but 9—does not escape.
10—In desperation, Mr. Jacoby is forced to bid his own suit.
11—Mrs. Phipps continues to double.
12—Mrs. Jacoby is still bewildered and rebellious.
13—Mr. Phipps must make one bid.
14—Mr. Jacoby determines to play the hand at all costs.
15—Mrs. Phipps still doubling.

The remarkable feature of the hand is that, due to Mrs. Phipps having the Ace-Queen of hearts alone there is absolutely no defense against six clubs, which Mr. Jacoby proceeded to make by setting up his diamonds.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Miss Perkins in Office; Is "Madam Secretary"

(Associated Press.)

The first woman Cabinet member took over her office yesterday and immediately set two rules: Her name was put down in the Labor Department's files as Frances Perkins, and she decided she should be addressed as Madam Secretary.

She credited coinage of this title to Henry T. Rainey, who is to be Speaker of the House in the new Congress.

The Meanderer

Has an Eye Out for Spring Suits at Low Cost—Tells of a Tilt-Top Card Table With Many Uses.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

"What must I pay for a nice spring suit?" one of the Meanderer's regular readers—one who self-styled herself as a regular reader, much to the Meanderer's gratification—asks over the telephone. Her question is the same one that many other Washington women are asking.

Discriminating women who want value with their smartness may find in any shop in Washington a spring suit for $16.50. One of the modish suits chosen for display in one store's recent authoritative style show—a beige tweed suit of jacket, skirt and cape, one which featured a light cape over a dark jacket—cost just $16.50. Then the Meanderer ventured to ask suit prices in another fashion center, where exclusive merchandise is the rule. She wondered if this modest $16.50 tag could be hanging to any spring suits there. "Surely, we have some $16.50 suits," was the answer to the Meanderer's inquiry. "They are among our fashions for young women."

Lower still than $16.50 are some clever spring suits in a smaller shop on F street, where it isn't difficult to find a presentable suit for $10.95. Two of these less expensive suits would be charming for the high school or collegiate girl, or the business girl who likes gay colors. They are in high shades of red and yellow, full-sleeved, with matching jacket, skirt and cape. The fullness in the sleeves of these suits is held in rucks which make for trimness of shoulder line.

Pleasing, indeed, among the many spring togs I saw on this little tour, is a silk suit in navy or black, in a large, exclusive department store with windows on Fourteenth street. This silk suit has an attractive dress with collar and jabot of organdy, and a three-quarter length silk coat to match. The coat is trimmed with horisontal rows of fagoting, over the entire body and sleeves of the garment. Surprised, indeed, was the Meanderer to see that this useful, attractive, practical silk suit costs just $29.50.

Clam-shell is a new brownish-gray shade of a suit and dress about which the Meanderer would like to use many superlatives. The soft crepe woolen of the dress is trimmed with an organdy yoke neatly embroidered with small flowers, all in the exactly matching clam-shell shade, and a small, perky tailored bow in the same color finishes the high neck of the frock. A cape-coat of woolen with large metal buttons completes this distinctive costume.

At last a truly attractive card table, which may not need to be put out of the way when the game is over, is the tilt-top table with a big square top and Duncan Phyfe base, the Meanderer discovered in a store which occupies most of a square off Fourteenth street. The tops of the tables have decorations of artistic prints—interior prints or floral prints—made moisture proof. When not needed for cards, these tables may stand guard as fire screens, or may serve effectively as occasional tables.

Little vanity cases of real morocco in several colors with bright combs, and powder and lipstick containers are gifts inaugural visitors may take home, confident of pleasing those for whom they are intended. Black, brocaded cigarette cases in Scotty designs may serve the same purpose with equal suitability.

3,000 Hot Sandwiches Given Inaugural Police

Three thousand hot sandwiches, purchased by Mrs. Charlotte B. Randall, of 3707 Ingomar street, warmed the stomachs of Police Chief Brown's stalwarts during the inaugural ceremonies.

The recipients included the police stationed here from New York, Philadelphia and other cities whose assignments prevented them from leaving their posts to obtain food. Mrs. Randall has often been the benefactor of the policemen and firemen of Washington and nearby Maryland on such occasions.

Modernize with Gas FOR YEAR ROUND COMFORT

before you're SURE OF HOT WATER?

"Heater patting" is a thing of the past—and so is "waiting for hot water." Modern automatic gas water heaters need no such nursing. They operate automatically, provide an abundance of hot water at all hours of the day and night, without those frequent trips to the basement on your part.

Modern heaters turn themselves on and off, as hot water is drawn, to keep the tank full and to assure plenty of hot water for bathing, shaving, the dishes, and hundreds of other household tasks.

There is a heater that will do all this for you and save you time and trouble. Your plumber is a water heating expert. Consult him or call either of the 'phone numbers below for the size, type, and cost of the heater you need.

RUPERT M'NEILL, 44, WAR VETERAN, DEAD

Was Former D. C. Detective and Wore Purple Heart Military Decoration.

Rupert McNeill, 44, a former precinct detective, died Sunday at Naval Hospital, where he had been a patient for the last month.

Mr. McNeill, who fought through the war with the Sixth Regiment, Marine Corps, had been slated for promotion in the Police Department, when heart trouble forced him to retire four months ago. Four days ago he was awarded the Purple Heart decoration for meritorious service in the World War.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary C. McNeill; a 10-year-old son, John, and a daughter, Elizabeth, 8. He lived at 958 Twenty-sixth street.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 8:30 a. m., at St. Stephen's Catholic Church. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

CHARITY IS ASSURED OF INAUGURAL SUM

Committee Awaiting Audit to Name Exact Amount; Success Hailed.

Members of the inaugural committee yesterday declared that a substantial sum would be turned over to charity as the profit from the various inaugural functions.

However, they declined to estimate the amount of funds in excess of expenses until an audit is complete.

The audit is one of the many features of the work of the committee which remain in the restoring of the city to normality.

Washington citizens and businesses advanced a guarantee fund of $100,000 which must be paid from the inaugural receipts in addition to the other expenses of the committee.

The profit for charity is assured, the committee said, because both the inaugural ball and the Constitution Hall concert were sellouts while the parade stand seat sale was excellent, although not to capacity.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Prices on the stock exchange closed quiet and steady after moderate and cautious business owing to financial situation in the United States and also on the latest Far Eastern news. Early losses in British industrials and gold mining shares were mostly recovered, but foreign issues were easy. Dealings in American and Argentine shares were restricted by the absence of dollar and South American exchange rates.

Paris—Trading on the bourse was indecisive and irregular following the American gold embargo and the German election results. The market remained calm, awaiting further measures by either President Roosevelt or Congress. Firmness in the pound sterling tended to boost the market, especially international issues. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse were very firm throughout the day, some issues advancing as much as 4 points. The closing was firm.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN ON WINNIPEG SALES

Chicago Receipts Stored in Elevators; Dealers See Heavy Trading.

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—A spectacular new advance of Winnipeg wheat prices to the topmost point since November 7 helped to stimulate optimism among grain traders today.

The maximum rise for wheat was about 2½ cents a bushel, compared with Saturday's finish, and most of the gain was held. Strength in the Canadian market was attributed largely to buying on the part of Eastern United States brokerage houses and Canadian exporters. Owing to bank holidays neither immediate nor future deliveries of wheat were traded in today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Belief was generally expressed by Chicago grain traders th when United States exchanges opened shortly, there would be a large volume of business. Chicago shippers said forwarding of wheat and other grain was being done in many sorts of ways, chiefly by means of cash, or ordinary trade credit, or through deposit of collateral.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET WILL CLOSE

Cash Grain Exchange Does Limited Business; Eggs Sold on Street.

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—Midwest commodity markets wavered as the full influence of the national bank holiday became effective today, and some were forced to suspend operations.

The Chicago Livestock Exchange, center of the Nation's meat packing industry, stumbled through a hectic day and announced the yards would be closed Tuesday at 2 p. m. "until further notice." Inability to work out a plan for payments to livestock producers forced the suspension.

The closing of the livestock market found Chicago with about one week's supply of fresh meat on hand. The amount of pork on cooler rails was equal to about two days' normal withdrawals. The Omaha Livestock Market will remain open at least temporarily, and packers said they would issue checks to producers, payable after the banks reopen.

Transactions in butter and eggs were made on the "street." Prices were set by the individual transactions. The Mercantile Exchange, home of such dealings, was closed. Fruits and vegetables were traded on a liberal scale and a firm undertone prevailed in these commodities. Most sales were for cash and extra police were assigned to the big produce market southwest of the Loop because of the large amount of cash handled.

The cash grain market at the board of trade operated on a limited scale. Dealings in corn were active and prices ⅞ to ¾ cents higher. Other grains were generally inactive. Provisions were sharply higher because of the shutdown of the stockyards and the threat of scarcity.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for March 2 were $9,321,350.76; expenditures, $49,139,722.41; balance, $194,453,660.21. Custom duties for two days of March, $1,132,062.71.

New York Bankers Work To Relieve Nation's Finance

Stock Exchange to Remain Closed During Holiday; Commodities Being Bought by Speculators in Hope of Price Rises.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—The leading banks of the Nation were working feverishly today upon emergency plans sponsored by the Federal Government to permit resumption of the financing of commerce.

New York and many other large cities had virtually completed plans to put hundreds of millions of dollars in clearing house certificates into circulation, which would tend to replace bank checks in settling transactions, and augment the supply of cash. Some $250,000,000 in certificates were said to be already printed in New York.

Governors of the New York Stock Exchange met and announced it would remain closed until further notice, and it was indicated that other principal commodity and security exchanges would follow its lead.

But a substantial amount of business continued to flow through regular channels in commodities and goods for immediate or early delivery, on the basis of extension of credits until such time as accounts may be settled.

While bankers and economists mostly insisted that the monetary situation did not necessarily have in it the elements of inflation, efforts were reported on the part of speculators to accumulate commodities in expectation of a price rise as soon as normal trading is resumed.

Late in the day, rules modifying the President's bank proclamation were announced in Washington, permitting banks to collect and handle drafts or other documents, and to pay out necessary currency, in connection with the movement of foodstuffs.

There are some 260 clearing house associations in the country, and the bankers pointed out that as soon as the associations could get scrip printed, the member banks could start at once permitting the cashing of salary and other checks, paying out the new certificates. This, it was felt, should bring an immediate stimulus to business.

Also, return to banks of hoarded funds was expected, since funds received for new deposits would be fully withdrawable, for they would have to be kept liquid, either in cash or certificates, on deposit with the Federal Reserve Banks, or in the form of United States Government securities.

Pound Sterling Moves Higher to $4.18 at Close

Montreal, March 6 (A.P.).—The pound sterling moved upward on the foreign exchange today. Banking offices here reported the pound at $4.18 at the close of the London market, with $4.20 being bid and $4.30 asked.

It was difficult to determine the position of the Canadian dollar. In terms of French francs the premium on gold in terms of the Canadian dollar was about 17½ per cent. Canadian express companies announced that they had stopped selling money orders payable outside Canada.

Silver Prices Advance; Quotations to Be Given

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Bar silver strong, 2½ cents higher at 29¾.

Handy & Harmon, New York silver authorities, announced today that while all trading in silver in the New York market had been suspended in accordance with the presidential proclamation, in order to provide a price basis for the settlement of normal commercial transactions covering the use of silver in the arts and industries, they would continue to quote an official price daily until further notice.

While the raw sugar futures market remained closed and will continue closed up to and including Thursday, the spot market was open as usual and a much firmer tone was in evidence with prices showing gains of 14 points, as compared with the closing price of last Friday.

Sales of Cuban were reported at 3.00 delivered, a new high for the year thus far. Both output and local refiners showed increased interest, while offerings were comparatively light. The sales reported included 24,000 bags of Puerto Rican for prompt shipment at 2.90, 25,000 bags of Cuban at 2.89 and 60,000 bags of Cuban at 2.93 on Saturday while today 175,000 bags of Cuban for March shipment sold at 3.00. At the close there were further buyers at the 3.00 cent level, but there was nothing firmly offered below 3.05.

COTTON PRICE RISE EXPECTED IN SOUTH

Liverpool Reports Quiet Market With Little Trade Buying.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—While closing for trading for the period of the bank holiday, many members of the trade gathered on the cotton exchange today and the financial and foreign news was very closely studied, although the latter was considered without much significance in the absence of foreign exchange rates.

Notwithstanding reports from Washington reaffirming the gold standard and the sound money policies of the administration, ideas of cotton and commodity values generally were very much confused. Spot cotton men here said that while mills were making numerous inquiries with reference to values, no actual business had been reported, but that some of the advices reaching here from the South indicated expectations of higher prices.

Liverpool cable advices reported a quiet market with little buying or offering and the trade awaiting developments. The market there closed at 4.58d for May and 4.57d for October or about 10 to 12 points lower as compared with the closing quotations of last Friday, but according to cable advices received by the New York Cotton Exchange service traders there are expecting a rise in the price of sterling, which would considerably more than offset this decline in the English penny quotations.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Print cloths sold today at 3¼ cents for April deliveries, ¼ cent up from the low point. Trading of finished lines was quiet, with values virtually unchanged. It was announced that proposed reductions of rayon yarns were withdrawn. Buriaps were inactive due to exchange conditions. Wool goods are being bought for nearby use moderately.

STEEL MARKETS.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Steel prices, per 100 pounds, f. o. b. Pittsburgh: Blue annealed sheets, hot rolled, 160@170; galvanized sheets, 260; black sheets, hot rolled, 200; steel bars, 160.

You Cannot Turn THE UNITED STATES Into Cash

CURRENCY is not a measure of the nation's wealth. Currency is only a medium of exchange. Bank deposits throughout the country are approximately forty three billion dollars. There are only about seven billion dollars of currency in circulation. Our total national wealth is estimated at three hundred billion dollars. The United States is only good as a going concern. All values would entirely disappear if you tried to liquidate America.

This country has suffered currency difficulties before and in no instance has the spirit and ingenuity of business failed to meet the emergency. It will not fail now.

The time for alarm is over—now let us go ahead with our business. There are two things that corporations, individual business men and the public generally can do to help:

1. Keep on buying, using credit, paying by checks or temporary clearing house certificates.

2. Upon the expiration of the present moratorium deposit all available currency in the banks, enabling them to function properly. This will permit business to resume on its customary cash and credit basis.

This company will carry on its business in the usual manner during the bank holiday. Checks will be accepted in payment for goods from those to whom the company would normally extend credit. Clearing house certificates will be accepted at par value in payment for all merchandise purchased.

SULLIVAN GRANTED WRIT IN FIRE TRIAL

Judge Woodward Issues Mandamus Against Directors of Department.

A writ of mandamus directing the directors of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department to review the appeal of the deposed chief of the department, Thomas J. Sullivan, was issued yesterday by Judge Charles W. Woodward in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md. Chief Sullivan was removed by the trial board of the department after a trial he refused to attend because denied right of counsel.

The former chief had appealed to the directors from that ruling of the trial board and that only witnesses who were members of the fire board could be called. He asked a ruling on his right to counsel. The directors failed to reply and his attorneys, failed to reply and his attorneys, Peter & Simpson, of Rockville, filed suit for a writ of mandamus to compel a ruling.

In issuing the writ, Judge Woodward said that he had considered the case from all angles and that he had reached the conclusion that Chief Sullivan was entitled to counsel and to the right to defend himself in accordance with the common law of Maryland.

will be held, but details will not be gone into.

Negroes in Federal Service Are Dined

DePriest and Eight Others Holding High Posts Are Testimonial Guests.

A citizens' testimonial and banquet was tendered last night at the John Wesley Zion Church to Representative Oscar DePriest, of Illinois, and eight other colored men who have served in high positions in the Federal service by the senior choir of the church, Blanche Arnwood Washington presiding.

The work of Recorder of Deeds Jefferson S. Coage was the theme of the Rev. W. H. Thomas. Dean Kelly Miller, of Howard University, spoke of Negro executives in the Department of Commerce and Labor, referring especially to Karl Phillips, Commissioner of Conciliation in the Labor Department, and J. A. Jackson, head of the Small Business Unit in the Department of Commerce.

Accomplishments of colored men in the office of education, with especial reference to the work of Dr. Ambrose Caliver, were treated by Dean Dwight O. W. Holmes. Dr. C. H. Marshall spoke of the Negro in the Public Health Service, lauding the extensive work of Dr. Roscoe C. Brown there. Henry Lincoln Johnson, jr., paid tribute to Judge W. C. Hueston.

The Rev. E. C. Smith outlined the record of Judge James A. Cobb on the Municipal Court bench, while Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, gave a historical account of the Negro in Congress. Bishop W. W. Matthews, formerly of Liberia, praised the difficult diplomatic work of Charles E. Mitchell, Minister at Monrovia, and Mrs. Julia West Hamilton spoke of the work of John Gainey and Emory A. Bryant in the postal service.

Schools to Furnish Apple Fete's Court

3 States and District Will Provide Attendants to "Queen Shanandoah."

Winchester, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—Representatives of girls' schools and colleges of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia will make up the court of princesses to attend "Queen Shenandoah," the tenth of the royal line to reign over the Shenandoah Valley's annual Apple Blossom Festival here.

Letters received by J. P. Arthur, director general of the celebration, show that the schools have taken enthusiastically to the invitation.

There will be 30 girls in the queen's court and selections are expected to be made within a few days.

The princesses will attend their queen during the coronation ceremony on the afternoon of the first day, and will ride on gaily decorated floats in the queen's triumphal parade the following day.

Maj. Baker Freed In Motor Fatality

Brother of Former Secretary of War Absolved of Blame in Court.

Petersburg, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—Maj. Frank Baker, United States Army, retired, was freed of a charge of manslaughter before Justice Clements in police court this morning in connection with an automobile accident which cost the life of Charley Lee, 24-year-old Negro.

Testimony presented today tended to establish that the accident was unavoidable and that Maj. Baker directed his car sharply off its course in a vain effort to avoid striking the man who came suddenly into the path of the car from the shoulder of the road.

Maj. Baker is a brother of Newton D. Baker, a member of the Cabinet during the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

Tobacco Factories May Have to Close

Richmond Hopes Treasury Will Modify Rule on Tax Payments.

Richmond, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—From authoritative sources close to leading tobacco manufacturers tonight came indications that unless an Internal Revenue Bureau ruling requiring cash or Liberty bonds in payment of Federal revenue stamps is modified, manufacturers here must close their plants within the next 24 hours.

The plants here employ in excess of 5,000 persons.

Negotiations with the Treasury Department are under way, it was said. The manufacturers are seeking a modification of the ruling by being permitted to offer their uncertified checks in payment of stamps pending the duration of the national banking holiday.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

AFTER all, the tremendous popular success being scored by Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, Amos 'n' Andy, in their first local stage appearance at Loew's Fox this week, merely perpetuates what has been a tradition of the American theater almost from time immemorial. There has always been a blackface combination of some sort to occupy a unique place in the estimation of theatergoers.

Freeman Gosden

Passing lightly over the kings of minstrelsy, when that form of typically American entertainment was in its heyday—the Willis Sweatnams, the George Thatcher, the Lew Dockstaders, the George Primroses, the Al G. Fields, the George "Honey Boy" Evanses—for more than 50 years there was the team of McIntyre and Heath to provide precisely that quality of popular amusement now being purveyed by the boys made great by radio.

Before McIntyre and Heath, with their ham trees and biscuit bushes, had definitely passed from the scene, there came along Moran and Mack, "The Two Black Crows," to carry on where their predecessors had left off as major personages of the theater. Their vogue was extended and intense, phonograph records doing for them, to great extent, what the broadcasting studio has done for Amos 'n' Andy.

This, to be sure, was not as permanent a team as either McIntyre and Heath or Gosden and Correll. In name, yes; in actual personnel, no. It just happened that Charles Mack was shrewd enough to register the team name of "Moran and Mack" and reserve all rights to its use, so that whenever a new partner had to be taken on he automatically became just another "Moran." There have been several of them—feeders of varying degrees of skill, or stooge's as they are now called, for the lazy and deliberate drollery of Charlie Mack, the enduring head man.

Gosden and Correll, perhaps to a greater extent than any of their forerunners in the same field, share the burden of their "in person" appearances equally. Each does a bit of explaining what it is all about and each demonstrates with interesting and amusing clarity precisely what it is he does in their nightly broadcasts, and how.

Mr. Gosden, Amos, perhaps gets the hang of this duality of effort a little more perfectly than Mr. Correll, who is always Andy, in voice and dialect, even when detailing, as Charles Correll, what it is that Andy is about to do and say.

At any rate, to one who has always been able to take his Amos 'n' Andy or leave it alone, through the loudspeaker, the team of Gosden and Correll, as they functioned at the Fox on Friday, seemed considerably better than it ever had before.

There is not any one in sight as yet to succeed them, but there probably will be when the time comes!

It would not be any part of this column's authentic information to know who originated the idea of that "42nd Street Special" that is making a transcontinental round trip under the joint auspices of the Warner Brothers and the General Electric Co. But now that this most sumptuous example of de luxe transportation has departed the National Capital for other destinations to the North and East, it may perhaps with propriety be said that the major purpose of the enterprise—to participate in the ceremonies attending the inauguration of Franklin Delano Roosevelt as President of the United States—savors strongly of General Electric and one or two of its other publicity enterprises that have been content with no tie-up this side of the White House.

It will be recalled that one of the greatest sales promotions in the history of big business was put over by G. E. under the guise of a Golden Jubilee Celebration in commemoration of the invention of the incandescent light by Thomas A. Edison, the late wizard of Menlo Park. So cleverly contrived was this publicity drive for Mazda Lamps, that the President of the United States became an active participant in those aspects of it which seemed to be wholly scientific and in appreciation of the achievements of a unique figure in science and invention.

The present junket bears all of the earmarks of the same crafty guiding intelligence. The Warner Brothers stars, of course, are the "front" of the enterprise—the "bait" that inevitably lures great throngs to the train that is no more a "plug" for Hollywood and the Warners than it is for that electric kitchen and the inventive genius of General Electric's laboratories.

The advertising and publicity acumen that conceived the notion of making President Hoover an accessory to a national drive for Mazda bulbs, and the later idea of crashing President Roosevelt's inauguration with a boost for electric cookery and refrigeration, deserves to be rated with the creative inspirations that have placed American salesmanship in a class by itself the world around.

Two White House tie-ups in a row is what might be termed batting 1,000 in any commercial league.

A few more items, you say? Don't be silly. Hadn't you heard that we've declared a moratorium?

And I'm just waiting for some smartcracker to warn me to be careful and not take in any Woodin money!

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

NATIONAL

"THE PICCOLI!" The American Theater Society presents as its third attraction Vittorio Podrecca's world-famous marionettes, manipulated and vocalized by a living company of 23.
PRINCIPAL SINGERS.
Emilio Cabello, Thea Carugati, Giuseppe Casta, Augusto Galli, Carlo Pessina, Lia Podrecca, Mario Serangeli, Dario Zani, Irma Zappata, Rosina Zotti. (Orchestra and Singers under direction of Emilio Cardellini.)
Manipulators and Operators: The families of Gorno, Dell' Acqua, Possidoni, Forgioli, Borgogni, Donati, Braga, Roagni, Venelli, Gabrili. Technical direction: L. and M. Gorno.

By NELSON B. BELL.

It was the perfection of puppetry that Sig. Vittorio Podrecca revealed to an enthusiastic and cosmopolitan audience in the National Theater last night.

As amazingly skillful in manipulation and the synchronization of voice and action as it is reflective of a keen sense of theater, the performance offered by this world-famous "Teatro dei Piccoli" is gay, variegated and vivacious. Beginning with the simpler features of the conventional marionette show, the program progresses through three parts with constantly increasing complexity and a consequent enhancement of both interest and amusement.

In a brief and multilingual introductory summary of the character of his offering and its comprehensive purposes, Sig. Podrecca let fall the statistical observation that it utilizes 800 puppets and employs a living company of 23 vocalists, instrumentalists, manipulators and operators. It is only necessary to view a performance of "The Piccoli" to become immediately aware that Sig. Podrecca's statements are restricted rigidly to fact.

The first part of the program consists of seven programmed features, wholly dissociated in content and narrative; part two comprises a tabloid presentation of Sidney Jones' Japanese operetta, "The Geisha," and a "Little Tropical Revue" that embraces six clever items, and part three consists of four unrelated acts, of which the last, "Concert Party," in which a concert pianist first executes a solo number and then accompanies four vocalists in the quartet from "Rigoletto" is easily the piece de resistance of the entire evening.

No subject on the bill but is handsomely done, with complete lighting, scenic and costume effects, but out of the total group some presentations assert themselves as especially fine. Among these I should unhesitatingly catalogue "Bil-Bal-Bul, the Little Acrobat," Redemtor's "Night in Venice" and "The Bullfight," in part 1; all of part 2 and "The Learned Donkey" and "Concert Party" of part 3.

The effect of principals, chorus and atmospheric background is achieved with a remarkable illusion of reality in "The Geisha" and in the "Tropical Revue," the numbers "In the Manner of Josephine Baker" and "Salome, the Equatorial Dancer," are hilariously realistic.

Sig. Podrecca, beyond any artist devoting his talents to the creation of this form of entertainment, possesses the secret of rhythm, coordination and tempo and the gift of manner and method that enables him to attain real characterization in the mode of any nationality or race. One of his performances in essence is truly equivalent to a tour of the theaters of the world.

"The Piccoli" can not be minutely and infallibly defined. It must be seen—and then in proper perspective—to be adequately understood and enjoyed. It seems advisable not to sit too close. The twelfth row, instead of the customary fourth or fifth, seemed perfect to this vision last evening.

At the matinee performances, "The Sleeping Beauty," especially written for the Teatro dei Piccoli, in three acts and seven scenes, by Gian Bistolfi, with music by Ottorino Respighi, will be substituted for part II.

It is a pleasant duty to bestow without favor warmest praise upon the artists and the artisans whose names precede these rambling comments in type far smaller than the merit of their work deserves.

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

COLUMBIA

"SECOND HAND WIFE." Fox picturization of the novel by Kathleen Norris, featuring Sally Eilers, Ralph Bellamy and Helen Vinson. Directed by Hamilton MacFadden. Reviewed Monday afternoon by Richard Q. Jones.

Here is one of those satisfying pictures that, despite its adherence to a well-known and well-worn pattern, is genuinely entertaining for its charming simplicity and its believable and ingenuous acting.

Notwithstanding the many pictures on the subject of second marriages, rebounds, office wives, &c, "Second Hand Wife" (the second-handedness, by the way, is not too clear), is far from being a carbon copy of any previous story, even though an abstract of it might lead to that mistaken belief.

With the development of Patsy Cavendish into an infant violin prodigy, Mrs. Cavendish becomes enamoured of fame and fortune, and, sub rosa, of Lotsi Vadja, the maestro. Soon a divorce, and Carter Cavendish marries the charming Sandra Trumbull, winner of an office popularity contest and his pro tempore secretary. With the passage of time, Carter's interest in Patsy grows, until Sandra decides to leave him so that he may remarry and have the family reunited. But, discovering a legal flaw in the divorce suit, as well as the first Mrs. Cavendish's purely pecuniary interest in Patsy, everything is finally settled to the satisfaction of Carter, Sandra, and Patsy.

Sally Eilers, in the title role, and Ralph Bellamy, as Carter, are excellently cast, giving to their several delineations the strength the parts require. Helen Vinson, the first wife, is sufficiently callous to meet the most exacting demands. But wee Karol Kay, whose Patsy is perhaps the real pivotal character, is fine as the youngster whose childhood is about to be sacrificed to her mother's vanity. Too, if she did not play the violin (and it appears quite certain she did), her recital sequence is the grandest bit of faking the audible cineme has done.

Out Chandu-ing Chandu, Flip the Frog puts the k. o. on "Coo-Coo, the Magician" in about as weirdly concocted an animated cartoon as has been issued. Eddie Gribbon and Joyce Compton are teamed in "A Wrestler's Bride." But to see Eddie without "Slim" Summerville does not seem quite right! The Paramount News, featuring the inaugural, completes the bill.

Six Marine Officers' Promotion Announced

Orders issued at Marine Corps headquarters yesterday announced the promotion of six officers to the next higher grades.

The officers and their new grades are: Col. Edward W. Banker, Lieut. Col. Harold H. Utley, Maj. Gilder D. Jackson, jr., Capt. William P. Kelly, First Lieut. Edward T. Peters and First Lieut. William W. Benson. The transfer of First Lieut. James S. Monahan from headquarters here to the Department of the Pacific also was announced.

TAX RATE REDUCTION URGED BY BAR GROUP

Slash in Salaries of County Officials Also Asked in Arlington.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

A comprehensive report, submitted by the special tax relief committee of the Arlington County Bar Association and carrying with it recommendations for a reduction of county officials' salaries, a lowering of rate of public utility companies and a substantial cut in the budget for next year, was adopted by the association yesterday. Lowering of the tax rate from $2.45 to $2.20 was favored.

It also was recommended that steps be taken at once by Arlington County officials to seek lower power rate for the people of the county.

The committee asked that the salaries of county officials should not be in excess of the compensation of the Circuit Court judge, which is $4,500.

Upon motion of Edgar W. Pumphrey, a special committee of three, consisting of Edgar W. Pumphrey, Boardman Munson and W. Thomas French, was elected to study the question of corporations and persons other than lawyers practicing law drawing deeds, wills and other legal papers.

The Public Utilities Commission of Arlington County last night requested the Board of County Commissioners to employ an engineer to assist in the gathering of data in the gas-rate reduction case. The case is to be heard by the State Corporation Commission on March 23, and Edmund Campbell, chairman of the Utilities Commission, said the local commission felt sure a reduction would be granted by the State commission.

To meet the urgent needs of citizens whose funds are tied up in the bank at Clarendon, the Clarendon Business and Professional Men's Association yesterday unanimously adopted resolutions assuring the continuance of credit to its approved customers and to other citizens who can obtain a proper credit rating.

The Arlington Woman's Club yesterday, unanimously indorsed a resolution recommending to the county board that po reduction be made in the operating fund of the school budget.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy yesterday appointed Mrs. Clarence E. Miles, president of the Arlington Woman's Club, a member of the Arlington County Welfare Board.

Frederick County Taxpayers Urge "Anyone" Be Named to Succed Kline.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 6.—Armed with petitions signed by more than 1,200 citizens, a group of taxpayers of Frederick County appeared before the county school board today and demanded a "new deal" in the matter of a division superintendent of schools.

Voicing a protest that confidence had been lost in the present superintendent of schools, Leslie D. Kline, leaders of the taxpayers group appeared before the school board as it assembled to elect a superintendent for four years beginning next July 1.

Wyatt H. Richard and J. W. Richard were spokesmen for the taxpayers They demanded a new superintendent, adding "We don't care who, as anyone will be better than the one we have."

Mrs. Nicholson Charges Repealists' Persecution

Opponents of prohibition will make an attempt to "hand pick" delegates to the State conventions for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, told the Friendly Forum, of the First Congregational Church, in an after-dinner speech last night.

She also said dry leaders were being persecuted by the repealists. Although Washington citizens are voteless, she explained how they could communicate with friends and urge them to uphold the Volstead act.

Skyline Drive Link Nearing Contracts

Rights of Way of 10 Miles in Central Extension Obtained.

Luray, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—Rights of way for 10 miles of the Skyline drive extension in the central part have been secured, S. H. Marsh, of the Conservation and Development Commission, announced here.

In all, 20 miles of road now have their rights of way secured so that when present plans for contracts are completed contracts may be let for the proposed extension in the Shenandoah National Park area.

These contracts will be let around April 15.

Contracts for construction of the first 10 miles will be let from Front Royal south, and following upon that the 10 miles for which the rights of way have just been secured.

Blame Fixed

Utah House Refuses to Ask Divine Guidance Out of Man-Made Errors.

Salt Lake City, March 6 (A.P.).—The Utah House of Representatives refused today to go on record as imploring divine guidance from the State's economic situation "which through our ignorance and fundamentally wrong concepts of public finance is now beretting us in the midst of plenty."

It eliminated the closing section of an unemployment relief bill, containing the prayer, and then passed it.

The bill, providing for an unemployment commission with widespread powers to determine upon a program of State construction work, now goes to the Senate.

SCHOOL WARRANTS ISSUED TO BE HELD

Bank HolidayPrevents Cashing Now of Authorizations by Fairfax.

The School Board of Fairfax County, Va., yesterday authorized the issuance of county warrants for the payment of obligations and salaries without regard to the national banking holiday. These warrants are merely orders on the county treasurer, directing him to pay out of the county school funds in his possession. It is understood that Dr. F. W. Huddleson, county treasurer, is not honoring the warrants at this time, as he has no funds on hand to meet them because of the new State law requiring him to deposit the funds he receives daily in banks. They will be met as soon as the local banks reopen for business.

At the meeting of the board on April 4, the divisional superintendent of schools will be appointed for a term of four years, beginning July 1. The position will be filled from a list of eligibles certified by the State board of education. Wilbert T. Woodson is an applicant for reappointment. Mrs. Elsie A. Davis, rural supervisor of white schools in Fairfax County, was reappointed for the 1933-1934 school term.

A letter was received from the State superintendent of secondary education complimenting Fairfax County on its high schools, the varied program of instruction and advancement it has made during recent years.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will hold a special meeting tonight in the courthouse for discussion of the proposed county budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The Fairfax County Tax Payers League will meet tomorrow night in the courthouse to consider the program for tax reduction mapped out by the six committeemen of the league recently appointed by Chairman R. Colton Lewis.

The Home Demonstration Club, of Forestville, will meet this afternoon for a demonstration on reupholstering furniture by Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent. The demonstration clubs at Merrifield, which will meet tomorrow, and the Burke Club, Thursday afternoon, will study the possible uses of feed sacks for clothing and home furnishings.

The balance of the schedule of Miss Thomas for this week includes clothing demonstrations before the following 4-H Clubs, Burke: this morning; Oakton, McLean and Forestville, juniors and seniors, tomorrow; Potters Hill, Lorton, Franconia and Annandale, Friday. Mrs. Kathie Baker and Mrs. J. P. Southerland will have charge of the Franconia meeting and Mrs. Charles Bladen and Mrs. Mason Hirst, at Annandale.

175 Gallons Taken In "Armed" Sedan

Montgomery Police Seize Two Prisoners and Guns in Speedy Car.

Montgomery County police yesterday captured a high-powered sedan loaded with 175 gallons of alleged alcohol and arrested two men on the Ridgeville road near Damascus, Md. John R. Mitchell, 22, of Washington, driver, had a .32-caliber pistol tucked in his belt and a .38-caliber pistol was hidden behind the front seat, police said.

Mitchell was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and he and his companion, George Wilson, 30, of Baltimore, were charged with transportation of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell. Mitchell was released on $1,000 bond and Wilson on $500 for their appearance March 16 in county police court at Rockville, Md.

Driving along the road the Montgomery policemen, Corpl. Harry Merson and Policeman Ralph Howard, noticed the sagging rear of the car. They followed it nearly a mile and then ordered the driver to halt. Search revealed the alleged liquor in a secret compartment under the floor boards.

Virginia Resumes Power Rate Quiz

Coal Operators Contend Old Dominion Company Assets Inflated.

Richmond, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—The State Corporation Commission today resumed hearings on the case of the Old Dominion Power Co., as counsel for the Virginia Coal Operators Association, petitioners for a rate reduction, began cross-examination of the power company's witnesses.

All of today's hearing was consumed by A. K. Morrison's cross-examination of H. M. Watt, executive vice president of the Kentucky Utilities and of the defendant company, a subsidiary.

The coal operators are contending the power company's assets are inflated and that the commission should allow a 30 per cent reduction in coal mine power rates. Engineers for the coal operators have testified that the present value of the company's properties for a rate base is less than $2,000,000.

ALEXANDRIANS FIND READY CASH SCARCE

Shortage Expected to Prove Inconvenient Before End of Holiday.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

The closing of banks in Alexandria has disclosed a shortage of cash which is likely to cause considerable inconvenience.

The stores are apparently doing a normal business, but few of them are cashing checks, except for their regular customers and then in small amounts. The deposits in all four banks Saturday are understood to have been in excess of withdrawals.

There are several large pay rolls due shortly, including those of the Fruit Growers Express, the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad and the Southern Railway. Bankers refuse to venture a guess as to the percentage of withdrawals which will be permitted when business is resumed, but it is intimated means will be found to take care of these pay rolls.

The city is not accepting checks in payment for city work, but this will be resumed as soon as matters are straightened out, according to City Manager Wallace Lawrence. Elliott P. Hoffman, clerk of the corporation court, is accepting checks from regular customers only.

Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, of Alexandria, yesterday issued a proclamation indorsing the work being done by the Business and Professional Women's Club, and setting aside this week as National Business Women's Week in Alexandria. The club, he says, has rendered splendid assistance whenever called upon in civic, educational and welfare work in the city.

Dr. Felix Swope will be the principal speaker at the weekly meeting of the Alexandria Rotary Club, in the George Mason Hotel today. The program will be in charge of Blair McLeod.

Next week the Rotary meeting will be held on Wednesday, when a joint St. Patrick's Day celebration will be held by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs in the George Mason Hotel. The Rotary committee in charge of arrangements consists of Jack Tulloch, Joseph Everly, Harold Martin, Herbert Cross and Blair McLeod.

William J. Neal, president of the Holy Name Society of the District of Columbia, has accepted the invitation of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Alexandria, to attend the communion breakfast of the society in George Mason Hotel next Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

A meeting of the George Washington Chapter, Reserve Officers Association, will be held at 7 o'clock this evening in the George Mason Hotel, when Capt. G. I. Smith, of the Third United States Cavalry, will deliver a lecture on horsemanship and horse training, followed by motion pictures. A number of the officers will attend a dinner in honor of Capt. Smith.

Columbia Engine Company, No. 4, of the Alexandria Fire Department, will give a banquet in honor of its sixty-second anniversary in McBurney's Hall, Thursday night. The men's committee on arrangements will meet in the engine house at 7 o'clock tonight, and the women's committee at 8 o'clock.

A meeting of the Mary Custis Lee-Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening in Lee Camp Hall.

Mrs. Loshia Maude Jernigan, 47, wife of Albert L. Jernigan, died Sunday at her home, 116 North Henry street. Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Miss Dorothy Crue and Mrs. Lottie Miller. The funeral services will be conducted from the Cunningham funeral home at 2 p. m. tomorrow by the Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, and burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Mrs. Verna Kate Jefferson, 36, wife of Robert S. Jefferson, died Sunday at her home, 520 South Fairfax street. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. today from the Cunningham funeral home, by the Rev. George James, pastor of the Alexandria Full Gospel Assembly, and interment will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Train Riders Held In Another's Death

Five at Martinsburg Claim Companion Rolled From Tender of Engine.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 6.—Six train riders, all giving their residences as Connellsville, Pa., were held here today at the request of Pennsylvania authorities for questioning in connection with the death of Mike Kellar, a companion, killed Saturday when he either fell or was knocked from a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train at Sand Patch, Pa., 25 miles west of Cumberland.

The men gave their names as Dillon Delegot, George Bobbis, John Claxtob, Leroy Brown, Joseph Zgola and John Kruby.

Questioned here the men said they, with Kellar and another man, who left the train at Cumberland, were riding blind baggage on the train to the inauguration at Washington. Five of the six men said Kellar rolled from the tender of the engine as the train passed Sand Patch. The sixth man said he was asleep at the time.

and those ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICIALS, suddenly called in the present acute financial situation to a most exacting service. We particularly include in this those who may not be entirely familiar with Washington.
We believe the importance of the work you are about to undertake will give you but little time to devote to inspecting various properties in the effort to secure for yourself or for yourself and family a home while in Washington which will meet your requirements of location, size, service and price. In a sincere effort to help solve this most important problem, may we invite you to inspect the apartments at THE FAIRFAX.
THE FAIRFAX is located at Twenty-first Street and Massachusetts Avenue (one square west of Dupont Circle). While out of the crowded and congested part of the city it is but a short distance from your office and the principal departments. The apartments range in size from two rooms and bath to five rooms and bath, furnished and unfurnished, housekeeping or nonhousekeeping. The furnished apartments include linens, silver, china, glass and kitchen utensils, together with full hotel service. The prices are adjusted to the prevailing conditions. An excellent restaurant is maintained with meals at most moderate prices.
We believe the facilities THE FAIRFAX has to offer warrant your inspection and careful consideration. Your inquiry is invited.

THE POST'S STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER TAKES A TURN AROUND THE NATS' TRAINING CAMP

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

ALL NATS ASSEMBLED AS MANUSH, HARRIS ARRIVE

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

IF the dispatches from Biloxi are correct, and I can see no point in misrepresenting the matter, Joe Cronin seems to have discovered some deep, dark secret about the business of baseball that has escaped the best minds of the game since Abner Doubleday plotted the first diamond in 1839 at Cooperstown, N. Y.

His announcement that Oswald Bluege will occupy the second spot in the Nats' 1933 batting order is bound to precipitate a general raising of eyebrows among fans and players alike, who have no difficulty in recalling Bluege's anemic batting average of .258 last season.

Cronin's announcement is especially startling in view of the presence on the club of none other than Heinie Manush, who has always been regarded as the answer to a manager's prayer for a second-place hitter with his ability to lay 'em down, wait 'em out, hit 'em out and beat 'em out.

Cronin's Reasons Not Apparent.

But Cronin is a wise young man in the ways of baseball and he has his reasons, you may be sure, for such a radical shaking-up of the Nats' batting order, although what those reasons may be is hardly apparent to this department.

The Biloxi correspondents have pointed out that Bluege was one of the best bunters on the team, and that he was an easy man to push around the bases, once on, and that, of course, is all very true, but I doubt if these qualifications compare to the all-round talents of Manush.

I don't think that even Cronin or the Biloxi correspondents would be so bold as to say that Bluege is as clever a bunter as Manush, whose adaptness at laying 'em down is a legend among opposition pitchers. And if it is, the primary purpose of a second-place hitter to push the lead-off man around the bases, a brief comparison of the batting records of Manush and Bluege ought to still all argument in that direction.

Interrupts Scoring Threat.

Ever since this department was big enough to lift a baseball, it has always been the custom of big league managers to seek a concentration of their hitting power in consecutive positions in order that every third inning, at least, should bring a mighty scoring threat to bear, but as I see Cronin's move, it is an interruption to the scoring power of the club, with Bluege batting second.

With Buddy Myer as lead-off man, the Nats' boast one of the man, the Nats boast one of the the scoring threat of the Nats would fade perceptibly with Bluege occupying the second hole. Of course, there would be Manush, Goslin, Cronin, Schulte and Kuhel following in order, but the connecting link between this batch and Myer will not be as strong. Thus the Nats would not be taking full advantage of the percentage of a sustained threat.

Of course, with Manush hitting second, the Nats would present three left-handed hitters in a row to the opposition and it is with this idea in mind that Cronin has devised the plan for interrupting such a succession of southpaw slugging by inserting Bluege, but I doubt if such an arrangement would be more effective than taking full advantage of the concentrated hitting power of the men at his command, be they left-handers or not.

If Manager Cronin is anxious for any more of my advice or opinions, the same can be procured at any news stand for three cents—or scrip.

A.A.U. Court Thriller to Howitzers

Calvary 29-27 Victim; D. and H., Mercury Fives Advance.

CALVARY M. E.'s annual attempt to annex the District A. A. U. unlimited championship was frustrated at the first barrier last night as the Kensington Howitzers nosed out the Churchmen by the narrow margin of 29-27 in a thrilling encounter at Tech High School. The tournament is being sponsored by The Post.

Other games on the card saw Delaware and Hudson win over St. Martin's, 33-12, in the unlimited division; the Western Flashes scored over Jimmy's quintet, 21-15, in a 135-pound engagement, and Mercury A. C. established itself as a serious contender for the 145-pound honors by winning a decisive 41-22 victory over Company F, National Guard.

Paul Gottwals, who has escaped bewhiskered Father Time these many years, stole the show with his capers last night. Playing guard for Calvary, Gottwals was all over the floor and much of the time on it, but in action every second. He scored three times from the field, once on a beautiful shot from the side that drew a hearty round of applause from his friends scattered among the audience.

Calvary Stages Rally.

Reinhold, Cox and Bakahlen led the Howitzer attack. After lagging behind throughout the greater part of the fray Calvary suddenly came to the fore with a rush that all but closed the gap between the teams. Shots by Scrivener, Booth and Gottwals were prominent in the rally.

Delaware & Hudson finally fell into stride to forge ahead of St. Martin's to a 33-12 victory. The combination of Garber, Weigel, Beach, Ball and Cappelli was the smoothest working of the many tried by Manager Buck Buckley.

St. Martin's clung tenaciously to the heels of its opponent during the first half and was only two points away as the half ended with the score reading 12-10 in D. & H.'s favor. A chunky guard by name of Curtin, and an elongated center, Von Drehele, provided most of the power in St. Martin's drive.

D. & H. literally poured the ball through the hoop and coasted in with the decision.

The familiar colors of the Mercury A. C. were hoisted to victory by a group of serious youngsters who went about their business of stopping Company F National Guards, of Hyattsville, with all the skill and self assurance of veterans. The teams waged a fairly even fight in the first half, which ended with Mercury ahead, 19-12.

Taylor was the spearhead in a belated second-half drive that sent the score skyrocketing upward for the eventual winners. The troopers found

Win Over W. Virginia Means Title for Pitt

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Panthers can clinch at least a tie for the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference title this week, provided they defeat West Virginia's Mountaineers at Morgantown Saturday night. On the same evening, third place Carnegie Tech will take on Georgetown here. These two games comprise the week's schedule.

Pitt, now setting the pace with five victories and one defeat, plays only two more games—with Georgetown Saturday and with Carnegie Tech March 17. The Panthers' 40-30 triumph over Temple at Philadelphia last week virtually eliminated Temple from any part in the title. The Owls finished their campaign with five victories and three defeats and can gain a triple tie for the title only if Pitt loses to both West Virginia and Carnegie and if Carnegie beats Pitt but loses to either Georgetown or West Virginia.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pts. for	Pts. against
Pitt	5	1	214	146
Temple	5	3	239	258
Carnegie Tech	3	2	154	158
Georgetown	2	4	181	191
W. Virginia	0	5	122	194

Notes, Checks, Food, &c., Good for New York Bouts

Almost Anything Taken in Lieu of Cash for Admission to Mat Matches and Golden Glove Tournament.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, March 6 (A.P.).—With a whoop and a hoorah, amateur boxing and professional wrestling today leaped merrily into the midst of the banking situations and turned it into an opportunity to play Santa Claus with the regular customers.

Jack Curley, master of the wrestling herds, with a show on in Madison Square Garden tonight, offered to take promissory notes, accept checks, or pawn the ticket-seeker's watch for a couple of ringside seats, while the Daily News A. A., promoting the annual Golden Gloves tournament, went him several better.

Golden Glovers Ask Only 5 Cents Cash.

The Golden Glovers, now in the semifinal stage, asked only that the prospective spectator bring 5 cents in cash to St. Nicholas rink for the semifinals tonight, along with 50 cents worth of canned goods, haberdashery, drugs, soap, foodstuffs, hardware, ornaments, or anything else, alive or otherwise. The 5 cents cash was for Federal tax.

While the Garden announced formally that the financial situation would have no hearing on athletic programs already scheduled, Jimmy Johnston, in charge of boxing, emitted the lone squawk at the idea of reverting to barter.

"There'll be none of that with Friday's fight show," he said. "If they have no dough—cash money—they stay outside. If they've got any food, let them lug it home, where it belongs. With grub as scarce as it is, they should get their heads examined for trying to change it into fight seats.

"Say, can you imagine what a guy would look like trying to swap in $7 worth of cabbages for a couple of ringside seats? It'd cost him a couple more bucks for a horse and wagon to haul them up to the door.

Might Hurl Cabbages At Fighters.

"Then we'd have to lock the stuff up somewhere or they'd wind up hurling it at the athletes. None of that for me."

Outside of New York, the bank holiday had more serious effects.

Two race tracks, one at Agua Caliente and the other at New Orleans, called off their programs, but Hialeah Park officials, at Miami, decided to complete the last six days of their meeting. At Oriental Park, in Havana, it was announced there would be no shutdown. Betting at Hialeah fell off about 40 per cent.

A minor boxing show at the New York Coliseum was canceled for tonight. A match between Steve Hamas and Lee Ramage in Los Angeles, scheduled for tomorrow night, was postponed a week.

Checks of persons properly identified will be accepted at the Chicago Golden Gloves finals Wednesday night.

Stribling Chased By Paris Referee

Georgian Disqualified for Holding Charles; Bout Booed at Start.

Paris, March 6 (A.P.).—William L. (Young) Stribling, of Macon, Ga., was disqualified for holding tonight in the eighth round of a heavyweight match with Pierre Charles, of Belgium, here.

With Stribling holding repeatedly, the contest was the dullest fight witnessed in Paris in many years. As early as the second round and again in the third session, the referee warned the American heavyweight against holding.

The crowd soon started to boo the fighters as they broke out of one clinch only to go into another. With Stribling doing more pushing than hitting, Charles was able to do little damage.

At the start of the eighth Stribling gave evidence of wanting to fight and pounded the European around the ring. Near the end of the session, however, he started to hold again and was disqualified.

Stribling weighed 188 pounds, and Charles 208.

Ruth Spurns $50,000; "Threatens" to Retire

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6 (A.P.). Babe Ruth, New York Yankee slugger, will retire from baseball rather than accept an offer of $50,000 for the 1933 season, he said in an interview here tonight.

But in the same breath he added that he anticipated no trouble reaching an agreement with Col. Jacob Ruppert, and that he would report for practice with the rest of the Yankee regular squad on Wednesday.

"Financial conditions throughout the country have not changed my mind in any way regarding my 1933 contract," said Ruth. "I believe I am worth more to the Yankees than $50,000, and I will retire from baseball before signing a contract that calls for this amount. I have made no counter offers to the Yankee management, but I believe Col. Ruppert and myself can get together without a lot of trouble."

BROWNING BEATS STEIN.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Jim Browning, 230, Verona, Mo., tossed Sammy Stein, 205, Newark, with his looping scissors in 46 minutes 48 seconds of their wrestling match in Madison Squarden Garden tonight.

Dick Shikat, 238, Philadelphia, and Ed (Strangler) Lewis, 240, Los Angeles, went 1 hour 5 minutes to a draw.

Youngest Ferrell Dies From Bullet

Inquest Will Determine Suicidal Intent of Fifth Ball-Playing Brother.

Greensboro, N. C., March 6 (A.P.). Ewell Ferrell, 20, youngest of five baseball playing brothers, died in a hospital here today from a bullet wound through the head.

Although the wound was self-inflicted, authorities had not decided whether an inquest would be held to determine if it was accidental or with suicidal intent. Ferrell died without making a statement.

Marvin Ferrell, pitcher for the Baltimore Club of the International League, heard a shot in his home last night and found his brother in another room wounded, with a small-caliber pistol beside him.

Ewell was the son of R. B. Ferrell. He pitched for Guilford High School. His brothers in professional baseball, in addition to Marvin, are Wesley, pitcher for the Cleveland Indians; Rick, catcher with the St. Louis Browns, and George, outfielder with the Buffalo International League Club.

SAMPSON BOUT OFF.

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—The 10-round boxing contest involving Marty Sampson, New York middleweight, and Bud Saltis, Chicago, scheduled for the White City tonight, was canceled today due to the banking situation.

Sarron Faces Schwartz Tonight

Battle of Feathers Is Feature of Show at Portner's.

BALTIMORE Benny Schwartz uncrates his potent left jab tonight at Portner's Arena, where it will be put through a series of tests to determine its effectiveness against the boring-in tactics of Pete Sarron, who provides the other half of the eight-round bout. Schwartz, to be sure, will have other implements of the trade along with him, but the left jab is the big monkey wrench in his tool kit.

Sarron, the Birmingham blaster, is the betting favorite. Of course, there may not be so much betting due to the bank holiday, and much of the wagering may be done with cigar coupons, but what there is of this old American sport will find the Southern boy on the short end.

Schwartz has yet to disappoint a local boxing audience. In every fight at Portner's he has evidenced a willingness to mix it. He has lost only one bout at Alexandria, that to Sanstol, third ranking bantam. Inability to fathom Sanstol's elusive bobbing and weaving style brought about Schwartz's downfall.

Sarron Throws Punches.

Sarron, an unorthodox fighter, carries the fight to his opponent, and Schwartz is at his best when his man keeps coming in. But Schwartz is notably weak downstairs, and it is in the midsection that Sarron is expected to do most of his glove throwing. The Southern lad has a murderous body attack.

Both polished off intensive training with light workouts yesterday, and have been pronounced in the best of condition.

Stumpy Jacobs and Vince Serio come together in the six-round semifinal. Both boys are well known and their fighting qualities can readily be melded into a real scrap. Blond Billy Landers has been paired with Sam Romano in the six-round main preliminary, while Buddy Grimes comes up from Norfolk to go six rounds with Jack Gentile.

Carey Wright, junior welterweight, Harry Grove's pride and joy, will tickle Jack Quigley's chin with a few lefts and rights in the four-round opener.

Col. Wear Appointed To N. Y. Boxing Body

Albany, N. Y., March 6 (U.P.).—Appointment of Col. D. Walker Wear, of Binghamton, as member of the New York State Athletic Commission was approved by Gov. Lehman, it was announced today. He was named by Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state, to succeed James A. Farley, Postmaster General. It was at Farley's request that Wear was considered. The appointment was for two years and becomes effective as of March 1.

Japanese

Baseball Player Forever Polite; Bowing Part of Game, Says Berg.

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 6.—Strange, exotic tales of how baseball is committed in the Land of the Rising Sun are told by Moe Berg, Washington catcher, who spent most of last winter coaching, along with Lefty O'Doul, leading batter of the National League, and Ted Lyons, veteran American League pitcher, among the major Japanese colleges.

Berg, one of the most cultured men in baseball, and an important half of the educated battery of Weaver and Berg, paints in expressive word pictures a summary of Japanese baseball. Perhaps the section of his story that will most interest the average fan is the fact that when a Japanese pinch hitter comes into the game he bows deeply to the umpire, and the opposing catcher and pitcher before stepping into the batters' box.

Japanese Incurably Polite.

If one tries to explain this, you get all mixed up in the racial differences between America and Japan. Suffice to say that the Japanese are incurably polite, even in baseball. There is absolutely no heckling between the two teams, in fact the players are extraordinarily silent, rarely urging on even a teammate.

Baseball has become the national pastime of Japan. Children play the game day and night—at night under the street lamps of Tokyo, or in front of brightly lighted show windows. There are countless sandlot teams and many nines sponsored by the business men of the nation.

The big leagues of Japan are, strangely enough, amateur. College baseball is paramount. What professional ball there is, is definitely inferior, lacking in true rivalry and generally scorned by the populace.

But college ball! Think of it, 40,000, 50,000, 60,000, even 70,000 people at college ball games. The chief league functions in and about Tokyo, composed of representative teams of the six major colleges of the city, Wareda, Keio, Meiji, Rikkio, Imperial and Hosei. Hosei has won the league championship for the past two years, but (and here is another case of ineffable courtesy) declined to take the much-coveted trip to America this spring in order that Wareda, which has never played here, could come.

Beqned Batter Bows To Pitcher.

In Japan if a pitcher beans the batter with a fast one, the first act of office, even as in America, is to bring the stricken batter to consciousness again. But unlike America, where a bruised batter is wont to attack the pitcher and seek fistic retribution, the Japanese batter bows deeply to the pitcher and in return is bowed before by the pitcher, signifying to the crushing audience that "What's a bump on the head between friends," or something.

If a pitcher is knocked out of the box, he never rushes to the showers. Instead he retires gracefully to the sidelines and then commences to warm up! Just to show himself, the coach and the crowd that although he has been removed his good right arm is still ready for more service to his university.

The Japanese dote on defensive play, and while they were greatly astounded and visibly impressed by the hitting instructions of the lambasting Mister O'Doul, they went on batting pretty much the same as ever. They are fielder-conscious to the core and many of them are fit for class A minor league ball, especially the infielders. A few could make the grade in the big leagues, if they would ever learn to field a ball without pin-wheeling around and making excess motions—which seems to satisfy their sense of the artistic.

None Has Big League Ambitions.

Never once did Moe run into a player who wanted to come to America for a try with the big leagues. The Japanese, as a whole, are anticolonist in mind and temperament. A Japanese who forsook Japan and went around the other side of the world to engage in baseball would hold about the same position in the Japanese public mind as America looks upon Sidney Franklin, its only matador.

Admission to the games ranges from a few pennies for the coolies to almost any price for the box seats of tradition games. The Harvard-Yale prototype in Japanese baseball is the ancient rivalry between Wareda and Keio. What dialogue there is among the players is mixed up, half American-ese and the rest Japanese. An excited manager might stand up, upon some rare occasion, and make an impassioned plea to the team in staccato Japanese, and wind up the invective with a patented Americanism, "By golly, get in there and fight."

Washington State's Boxing Bill to Governor

Olympia, Wash., March 6 (A.P.).—The William boxing bill went to the governor today when the Washington Senate approved the measure by a vote of 24 to 21. It legalized ten-round fights within the State and fifteen rounds for championship battles. At present only exhibition boxing is permitted.

JIM LONDOS WINNER.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Jim Londos, 200, St. Louis, threw Paul Jones, 212, Texas, in 43:20 of their finish wrestling match at the Broadway Arena tonight.

SCOZZA, NICHOLS DRAW.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 6 (U.P.).—Lou Scozza, 174, Buffalo, and George Nichols, 166, Buffalo, tonight battled to a ten-round draw in the main event of the weekly boxing show.

BILOXI BUNTS

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 6.—Every now and then you read a story that avers that there ain't no sentiment left in old baseball, followed by a contradicting story saying that there is so, the writers of both stories amassing an array of facts and figures to prove their respective sides of the topic.

Leaning a bit to the latter section of the first paragraph, there is a rather poignant example of pure unselfishness and Christian charity being given down here by a Jewish gentleman named Moe Berg, a big, dark fellow, something of a linguist, the team's only subtle comedian, and quite a catcher, by the way.

Moe has a student—Cliff Bolton. Under Berg's protective wing Bolton has worked daily at the job of improving himself enough to become the regular Nat receiver. The kid has plenty to learn and unlearn. He has been doing things incorrectly for years, and to him Moe has unhesitatingly proferred the full extent of his decade of experience in the big show. Bolton has made definite steps of progress.

By golly, there's drama drapped up in that relationship. Don't you see that as soon as Bolton is good enough—Moe goes? What Berg is doing is totally unsolicited. He wasn't asked to keep an eye on Bolton. He doesn't talk about it either.

It's little things like this that restore faith in baseball, more than the game's $50,000-a-year dictator, who a few days ago refused to let old Clarence Mitchell throw his stock in trade spitball to the batters of the American Association, thus booting the veteran into the ranks of the unemployed.

One of the rookies is secreting a saxophone on the premises and holds forth hours at a time on the sourest notes ever to emit from a man-made instrument. His scale sounds like a cross between a coyote yowling at the moon and rubbing a slate pencil between your clenched teeth, plus sucking an egg.

Manager Cronin has detailed four searching parties to ferret out the reedy pestilence, but all have reported back to him empty-handed. The darn sax can throw its voice.

Some poor unshaven guy drove into camp in a ratty flivver today, weighted down with a four-day beard, a case of frostbite and an untold number of layers of countryside grime. He sought out Joe Cronin, told him he had driven night and day from Chicago, was a pitcher, and wanted a chance to make good.

Joe's a sympathetic sort of guy. "S-s-sure, old kid, go over in the clubhouse and put your suit on."

Was he lou-say!—poor guy. One of a thousand of his kind. Out of work, a little baseball experience, riding the rails to the training camps, clutching at the story-book idea that he might stun some manager and win a place on the team.

Hard times have hit Johnny Kerr. Johnny walked downtown the other night, borrowed a nickel, bought one of those red rubber bath sponges, walked home, cut it in half, fitted one half of it in his shoes to give him more spring, and fitted the other half in his paper-thin glove. This latter half is detachable—so he takes baths with it.

Batting Drills Start in Earnest Today Following Rain.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 6.—The queen of spades had been dead about two hours, the king of diamonds was about to issue his death-bed statement, the ten of hearts was bleeding slowly and the rest of the cards in the three packs in Biloxi were worn as thin as the Nation's pocketbook at dark today when one of the wheezy town cabs drove up to the door and deposited two fat gents on the porch.

One fat gent, with a bellowing laugh like Noah Beery's, burst through the hotel door with a blast that sent the misued cards flying all over the lobby, woke the noncombatants and so scared the cuckoo in the sleepy grandfather's clock that it broke out into the cackle of a hen which has just enriched mankind with another egg.

Manush Breezes in to Lobby.

The gusty fellow was Heinie Manush, who burst all over the lobby pounding the backs of everybody in the place, upsetting the drowsy rubber plants, and sending sucking noises whistling through the synthetic palms. He clapped Clark Griffith on the back with such vigor that the lumbago-suffering owner let out a peal of half rage and half agony. Another thing he did was to break a fearful day of boredom, somewhat assisted by Silent Dave Harris, who timidly followed his path of ruin through the tomb-like hotel.

You see it rained here today, all day, for when it rained in Old Biloxi there is nothing tentative about the downfall. The hotel was a monkey house of chattering players all morning, all assuring each other that it was going to stop any moment now, but when new buckets of water began falling after noon, and the boys limited conversational ducts began to run low, they shut up sorrowfully and prepared to sit out the watery debacle. And sit they sat, the rest of the day, dozing fitfully. The only show of animation was the desultory shuffling and dealing of the overworked cards, until Buffalo-like Manush thundered in with the lantern-jawed Harris, who keeps in trim in the off-season by polishing his sheriff's badge.

Washington Squad Now Complete.

The arrival of Manush and Harris completes the squad. The business acumen of Griff has at last run its course, and its job is completed for the nonce. Joe Cronin, modern baseball's youngest manager, has his team to do with as he wishes. Or, to quote Sam Rice, "Griff has given Joe the best ball club ever to represent Washington. The only team that approaches it was the 1926 team, which was considerably better than the 1924, that won the championship, and comfortably better than the 1925 team."

Tomorrow (for certainly there is no more water left in the celestial reservoirs) Cronin guides his 1933 diamond machine out to the training camp field for perhaps the most important week's practice of the spring. Batting will be foremost in mind, for Cronin is out to elevate the team from its chronic third and fourth spots in team batting percentages. He knows he has nothing to worry about so far as fielding goes.

HANFORD SCORES WITH ACTION, RIDES 3 WINNERS AT MIAMI

Play Declines In Hialeah Mutuels

Usual Monday Total of $200,000 Falls Off to $125,000.

Action in Front From Start to Beat Noelwood, Pays $16.40.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., March 6 (A. P.).—Jockey Buddy Hanford was in rare form here this afternoon. After guiding home the first two winners, the blond lad came back to win the featured Howey-in-the-Hills Purse astride N. E. Stanton's colt, Action, which sprang a mild surprise to score by two lengths at odds of $16.40 for $2. E. R. Plunkett's Noelwood took the place by three lengths from the disappointing favorite, H. P. Headley's Big Beau. Action, showing improved form, ran the mile in the very fast time of 1:36 1-5.

In the face of unsettled conditions caused by bank restrictions, the handle through the "tote" naturally fell off correspondingly. It was expected that the play for the day would reach about $125,000, whereas on recent Mondays it approximated $200,000. The size of the washday crowd did not appear affected, however, with a throng estimated at between 6,000 and 7,000 on hand for the sport.

Action in Front From Start.

Action was on the head end all the way in the stellar event, with Nielwood supplying chief contention at all times. Hanford pushed the winner into immediate command and took a snug-hold while Nielwood pursued. Big Beau was slow to find his stride and did not find his best stride until turning for home. By that time his move was useless except to save the show position from Rip Van Winkle. Hanford rode out Action to make sure of victory.

The 9-year-old plater Clean Play struck his winning stride in the mile affair, first on the card, taking a nose decision from Dark Mist to pay $4.20. Rowdy Boy was third, two lengths back. Buddy Manford gave the winner a heavy ride, restraining his mount off the fast pace cut out by Dark Mist until approaching the stretch turn. Clean Play made up ground slowly but surely and got up in the last strides. Rowdy Boy closed a big gap to beat out St. Christopher for the show.

Baby Race Easy for Prince Drake.

Prince Drake led all the way in the juvenile event to give Jockey Hanford two in a row. Grouped in the field the winner returned $7.70 for $2. Her Hero, well backed, was beaten a length and a half while saving the place from Erebus by a length. Scotty Don and Tumbler held up the start, but when the field was finally aligned, Prince Drake shot out of the pack and maintained his advantage to the end, increasing his lead through the final stages. Her Hero was always the chief contender.

Supercharge emerged on top in a blanket finish in the third race, the Widener filly just lasting to beat Boy Crazy by a nose. Bedight, Jim Macaw and Bichloride were bunched as named behind the leaders at the wire. Supercharge, a $20.90 for $2 hazard showed fine courage, first racing Liqueur and Jim Mac into defeat and then staving off the belated bid of Boy Crazy.

Gift of Roses Rewards At $26.40.

Another upset occurred when Gift of Roses, paying $26.40, survived a hard drive to win the fourth event by a length and a half. My Purchase nosed Broadway Lights out of the place, while Supreme Sweet was a close fourth. The latter, which was favorite, stole a wide lead and appeared a winner until late in the stretch, where she weakened and allowed Gift of Roses to go on to victory. My Purchase and the slow-starting Broadway Lights also overtook the pacemaker in the final strides.

Laval ran to his best notch in the 6 furlongs of the next to last contest, and drove home a length and a half ahead of Crapshooter, to return $11.20. Sky Haven was another length and a half away in the picture. Laval broke fast and after shooting to the inside and crossing the field, he raced smoothly the rest of the trip and held Crapshooter, which forced the pace under control.

Brass Monkey took the last purse by a length, to pay $3.40. Spud beat Garlic by a half length for the place. The handle for the day was $133,966.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MIAMI, MARCH 6.

The super-Bennings really put over his super-longshot today. I mean Supercharge. I won't take you back over the line I put out on this one yesterday. But I had him right where he belonged. True, the decision was called a nose by the chartmakers, but I had Boy Crazy, the beaten one, in the second hole. And the mutuel was $20.20. Threw in two other winners in Clean Play, at $4.20, and Brass Monkey, at $3.40. And just to prove that my recent winning streak is not a fluke, I'm going to try to give you winners, plus price, tomorrow. You've got him on the run, Al. Take his checks.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—FLOWER DAY turned in a pretty neat job for me last out, although forced to take second money. Seems well suited in this group and it looks like we should cash a bet. THREE BEES is in a threatening mood and might be second ahead of STARRY.

SECOND RACE—FULL TILT seems to have the edge on the babby racers gathered for this 3-furlong hop, skip and jump. FORCEFUL and GO FORTH figure just a shade off the top one and I look for a close finish.

THIRD RACE—I like FERVID in this mile. Johnny Gilbert probably will do the riding and it looks like a set of brackets. VOTAN ran a splendid race the other day and seems second best. TRAFFIC JUDGE is a speedy front runner and has demonstrated that he can stick on occasions.

FOURTH RACE—ONDOTT failed me last time. Workman could do no better than third. But I understand this one has been working surprisingly well and gets the Bennings stamp of approval again tomorrow. PERNICKERTY and MAHOMET for the rest.

FIFTH RACE—BANNACH LATH showed me enough the last time out to convince me that this 3-year-old is ready to go places. TERRIER is evidently better than rated and gets the place call head of NOSE IN.

SIXTH RACE—POLAR BRUSH has done a lot of very fine racing for me and I am stringing along tomorrow. Mixes good races with good workouts. CANNON LAW and BUN D. for the rest of the purse.

SEVENTH RACE—MOVE FASTER can run this one for the Bennings dough (what's left of it). Might be a price, too, with such opposition as AEGIS, ROBINSON CRUSOE and the others.

Hitting the Baseball Trail

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—Signing of Tony Lazzeri, veteran second baseman; Bill Dickey, catcher, and "Dusty" Cooke, outfielder, today had reduced the number of holdouts in the camp of the New York Yankees to three—Babe Ruth, "Red" Ruffing and Lou Gehrig.

Dickey reported to Manager Joe McCarthy at the training base here today. Lazzeri and Cooke have sent their signed contracts to New York and are en route to this city.

The main squad of the Yankees, consisting of regulars, will report Wednesday. Ruth, who has been golfing in and near St. Petersburg for the past three weeks, announced today that he would report with the regulars. He will not be permitted to play in an exhibition game until he has signed.

Maranville Missing at Braves' Camp.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6 (A.P.). Regulars of the Boston Braves reported to Manager Bill McKechnie here today, but several players, notably "Rabbit" Maranville, veteran infielder, and Bill Urbansky, shortstop, were still among the missing.

Pitcher Leo Mangum reported today, several days late. He explained that business matters had caused the delay.

Howley Sees Phils Good As Third.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 6 (U.P.). Dan Howley, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, visited the Philadelphia Phillies' camp today, looking for material for the Toronto Club of the International League, which he now manages. He predicted that the Phillies would finish at least third in the 1933 National League pennant race.

The Phillies hurlers opened up with their big guns today and burned curves, fast balls, high balls and low ones across the plate in a long morning workout.

Roy Hanson, lanky left-hander, declared he will win twenty games this season.

Mack Regulars Down Yannigans.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics played their first baseball game of the training camp season today with the regulars taking a 9-to-1 decision over the Yannigans in six innings. George Earnshaw, Rube Walberg and Tim McKeithan pitched for the regulars and allowed a total of nine hits.

Harley Boss Reports to Indians.

New Orleans, March 6 (A.P.).—Harley Boss, a rookie who is expected to give Eddie Morgan a tussle for the regular first base assignment of the Cleveland Indians, arrived at the Tribe's training camp today. Rain caused a temporary suspension of workouts.

Reds' Advancement Pleases Bush.

Tampa, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—Manager Donie Bush sent the Cincinnati Reds through a furious two-hour session today that demanded top speed from all.

While Lombardi and Hemsley matched long drives, pitchers began their tricks and at the end Bush declared them further advanced than in any previous season.

Pirates' Regulars Win Contest.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 6 (A.P.). The Pittsburgh regulars took an eight-inning training-camp game today from the Yannigans, 4-2. Joe Ward, rookie catcher, batted in the Yannigans' runs after Thevenow singled and Padden made base on Piet's error.

Walker Hits Long Homer For Tigers.

San Antonio, Tex., March 6 (A.P.). Gerald Walker, who joined the Tiger squad in training camp Sunday, celebrated his advent today by knocking a fly over the 12-foot left-field wall—which is 353 feet from the home plate. Hank Greenberg, the youngster Harris hopes to work into the third-base position, also poled a number of long ones, clearing the right-field barrier several times.

Red Sox Split Mound Squad.

Sarasota, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—Manager Marty McManus today divided his Boston Red Sox pitching staff into two groups. The rookies worked out during the morning session and the regulars came out for the afternoon drill.

Cubs Feature Drill At Tee.

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., March 6 (A.P.).—Manager Charles Grimm gave his case of lumbago a bad time of it today as he toiled with the Chicago Cubs three hours under a warm sun.

Hitting practice featured the workout, which was longer than the National League champions had expected in view of their two victories over the New York Giants here Saturday and yesterday.

Mark Koenig limped around the field with a blister on one foot, and thereby escaped from the hard work, but the rest of the players indulged freely. After the workout Grimm went on a fishing trip, with indifferent success.

Two Workouts Held By Giants.

Los Angeles, March 6 (A.P.).—Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, sent the club through two workouts today, devoting one session to hitting and fielding and the other to infield drill.

Terry feels the pitchers were not ready for the two-game series with the Chicago Cubs over the week-end, but is convinced several warm days will do much to bring them around.

As to his own condition, Terry said he was down to 200 pounds and intends to take 3 or 4 pounds off in the next week.

"I've lost 20 pounds since we started," he said.

Three Dodger Holdouts Sign Up.

Miami, Fla., March 6 (U.P.).—Three holdouts tonight signed their contracts with the Brooklyn Dodgers after conferences at the training camp with Treasurer Joe Gilleaudeau.

They were Catcher Al Lopez, the Dodgers' loudest salary objector; Jack Quinn, the veteran spitball hurler, and Outfielder Danny Taylor.

FANS TAKING MAT BOUTS SERIOUSLY

Londos-Judson Title Go Likely to Fill Auditorium.

"OUR advance sale has been unusually good. Looks as if Jimmy Londos will take a fall from 'Kid' Depression while attempting to floor a real championship contender, Frank Judson, at Washington Auditorium Thursday night."

Such was the optimistic report received from Matchmaker Joe Turner yesterday.

Stepping lively to attend to the wants of customers at his Hotel Annapolis office, Turner expressed confidence in the ability of his all-star rassling show to lure the cash customers.

Best Card Ever, Says Turner.

"If I've ever featured a better line-up of talent, I can't remember it," Joe insists. "You don't get names like Londos, Pesek, the Duseks, Coleman and Jones on the same card every day."

Striking a "natural" in the matching of Judson and Londos, Turner also has stacked up a crowd-pleaser in his routing of John Pesek, another championship claimant, against Jim Clinstock in the semifinal.

Big leaguers also are scheduled in the 30 minute bits. Hans Steinke, an acknowledge mat power and a wrestler's wrestler, meets John Maxos; Able Coleman growls with Rudy Dusek, and Ernie Dusek, Rudy's kid brother, brawls with Paul Jones, the hook scissors star.

Tickets are available at Turner's office, ladies being assessed half price only. Twenty-five cents will be asked of children under 16.

Diffenbaugh Winner In Golf at Kenwood

George Diffenbaugh was the winner of the informal sweepstakes golf play at the Kenwood Club yesterday. A round of 74 won the honors for the Indian Spring professional over Al Houghton, Kenwood, 75; Walter Cunningham, of Burnng Tree, 76; Gilbert Cunningham, Burning Tree, 77; Russell Hollebaugh, unattached, 83, and Maury Fitzgerald, Kenwood, 80.

Diffenbaugh finished with an inward nine of 36 after encountering trouble on the greens going out to take a 38 Houghton was out in 38 and back in 37.

Hitting the Headpin

Georgetown Recreation rollers made a clean sweep over the Northeast Temple pinmen in the District League last night on the Georgetown drives. The winners had games of 629, 597 and 649 for an 1,875 total. E. Shereger's 149 game topped individuals, as did Jack Talbert's 389 set.

Highway pinmen, leaders in the District Government League, increased their margin to five games last night at Arcadia by winning three games, while the runner-up Firemen were dropping the same number. Highway's figures, a 582 game and a 1,688 set, led the pack, while individual laurels were captured by Frank Xanten, with 150 and 385.

In the Federal League, G. P. O. turned in a 638 game to cop the grapes, while Internal Revenue's 1,791 set was the best turned in. Kirby had a 149 game, while Fredericks' 402 set stood out like a sore thumb.

Baltimore & Ohio bowlers rolled their best set of the season, 1,653, but dropped three games to Colonial Ice Cream in the National Capital League. The Colonials rolled high game of 658 and high set of 1,810. Walston's 170 and 402 were the individual highs.

Four season records were shattered in the Jewelers League. Henry May had 151 and 390 to set individual marks, while the Galt Bros. Team turned in 612 and 1,726.

Lucy Owen set a season's record with a 139 game in the Ladies Eastern Star League. Helene Kohler had high set of 351. Unity, with 492, and Harmony, with 1,447, were the team standouts.

Highlights in the Ladies Commerce League were: Hortella Rosenberger, 128; Mary Abell, 314; Domestic Commerce, 482, and Standards No. 2, 1,389.

Typothetae League's best performances were: Buck Taylor, 156 and 381; Judd & Detweiler, 573 and 1,701.

LaBille pin-spillers set high game and set records in the Sanico League at Convention Hall last night, having respective marks of 623 and 1,714. Tom Bradford topped individuals with figures of 142 and 374.

In the Merchants League, Barber & Ross was outstanding, its single game of 572 and three-game total of 1,663 standing up. King's 131 was high, as also was South's 359 set.

BOLLING FIELD FIVE WINS.

Bolling Field Aviators last night defeated the D. C. Firemen in a Government League match, 30 to 24.

Samuels, with 12 points, led the scorers, with Galotta, of the Firemen, pressing him for honors.

4 All-Star Team Eligibles Were Voted Most Valuable; 10 Rose to Managerships

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH all of the banks in the country closed, fans who have money in them needn't worry, while those who haven't any money probably are used to it. Instead of getting all excited over the financial situation, baseball followers are given a task which requires real thought. What we are referring to is The Washington Post's baseball contest.

Now there's something which may pay a dividend for your ideas. It is a certainty that three entrants will find the task worth while, for the winner draws eight box seats to the April 12 opening game here against the Athletics, while the runner-up gets four box seats and a third, or consolation prize, will net a pair of the duosts.

Must Match Minds With Griffith.

It is a unique proposition, which calls for entrants to name the Washington players whom Clark Griffith considers outstanding who have performed in Nat livery since the present club owner first came here in 1912. In other words, it's a case of matching minds with Griffith, who will consider many things other than actual records in naming his team.

Until one goes over the records of the Nats of the past, he does not realize how many good players have performed here during the last two decades. For instance, there have been no less than four who were voted "most valuable in the league" to their teams. One of this quartet did not tarry here long enough to get much of a play in the balloting, but he surely was a great player back in 1923, when he was honored. The gentleman referred to is George Sisler, the most outstanding player in the entire recent history of the St. Louis Club.

The other three—Walter Johnson, in 1924; Roger Peckinpaugh, in 1925, and Joe Cronin, in 1931—earned their laurels on their work here. The first two cases show rewards which came almost at the end of their careers after years of brilliant and faithful service, while Cronin's is an exception from just the opposite angle. He won this high honor at the end of only his third full season as a major leaguer.

Ten Nats Rose to Managership.

Then again, there is another angle which makes a glance through the old records interesting, showing that the Nats have had their share of baseball brains as well as brilliance scattered in their line-ups, for ten have been managers in either the majors or high minors. Tris Speaker piloted the Cleveland Indians before he came here, while Roger Peckinpaugh landed the same job soon after leaving, still holding it. George McBride, Clyde Milan, Donie Bush, Stanley Harris, Walter Johnson and Joe Cronin all graduated from the ranks here and have been running the team since Griffith stepped into the president's chair after the 1920 season, while Harry (Nemo) Leibold, Earl McNeely and Jim (Doc) Prothro became club pilots at the end of their major league careers.

Entries for the contest have been pouring in at a great clip for more than a month, showing that the winners not only will be given the opportunity of seeing the opening game as host to some friends but really will have done themselves proud in beating out such a big field. The glory alone will be worth the slight effort required, not to mention the money saved during these uncertain days when there "ain't" any. The balloting closes on March 15.

Contest Facts In Brief

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, will select in The Washington Post of March 19 his all-time, all-star team from among the clubs that represented Washington during the years from 1912 to 1932 inclusive.

The fan who submits the selection that matches or most nearly matches Griffith's selection will be adjudged the winner of the contest.

One man is to be selected for each of the infield and outfield positions with four pitchers and two catchers.

To the winner The Washington Post will award eight box seats to the 1933 opening game between Washington and Philadelphia.

Second place will net four box seats, with third place earning two box seats.

Entrants may use the accompanying coupon for their selections, although the use of the coupon is not necessary for entrance in the contest.

The contest will close March 15.

Each entrant is limited to one selection.

Five Straight League Wins for Mt. Rainiers

The Mount Rainier 130-pound five scored its fifth straight victory in the Boys Club League last night when it downed the Washington Boys Club team, 24 to 20, in a hard-fought game. The "Mounts" led all the way, enjoying a 15-4 margin at the half, but the Boys Club five rallied in the last eight minutes to score 11 points in rapid succession to pull right up on the heels of their foes.

Chilcott Is High Scorer Of Alexandria High Five

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., March 6.—Alexandria High School courtmen enjoyed a successful season on the woodways and not only won the undisputed championship of the Third District, but batted .500 in the won and lost column.

Twenty-eight games were played by the Twins and some of their notable victories were over Georgetown Frosh, St. John's Academy, Western High, Charlotte Hall, Columbia No. 4, and Herndon. The latter team after winning fifteen consecutive games fell before the local quint.

Harold Chilcott, sandy-haired forward playing his first season in high school competition, was the high-scorer with a total of 211 points. He was extended for the honors by Jack Moore, a veteran basketeer, who piled up 145.

Twelfth Street Team Meets Baltimoreans

Hitchcock's Poloists Beaten, 9-8, at Aiken

Aiken, S. C., March 6 (A.P.).—Tommy Hitchcock's "Red" polo team went down to defeat, 9 to 8, in a match game this afternoon against a "White" team featuring the play of Seymour Knox and Devereux Milburn.

The two teams played on even terms until the sixth chukker. In that period Knox broke away to make a long shot, and Milburn took the ball away from Hitchcock in a melee, to send it through the posts for an easy goal.

Hitchcock, only 10-goal player in the country, made two goals from seemingly impossible angles, but for the most of the contest he played a defensive game, dropping back to No. 4 position to allow Bill Braid to play farther up the field.

SIX-INCH CUPS NOT WANTED BY PROS

Majority Find Fault After First Tournament Tryout.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—The world's best golfers played 72 holes with six-inch cups in the Florida year-round tournament ending yesterday and the sentiment generally was against the larger cups.

The tournament ended with Paul Runyan 18 shots under par and 10 shots ahead of his nearest competitor. A lot of the pros figured they would get down in the bigger cups more easily and lost many a stroke through carelessness.

When it was all over, Gene Sarazen, who broached the idea, said a single tournament is no test of the wider mouthed cups.

"The boys were just getting accustomed to the cup when this tourney ended," said Sarazen, "and they would look better after three or four competitions shooting at it. Perhaps a larger cup will have a tendency to spread the field, just as this one is. One man will get really hot and run away with it."

Large Cups Not Easier, Says Espinosa.

Al Espinosa, a good putter, doesn't think it's as easy to line up a putt for the larger cup as for the old style.

"You can't seem to get a central spot focused with

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE term "public utilities corporation," when used in an act or a city ordinance but not therein defined does not include radio broadcasting stations, according to an opinion handed down by Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle of the State of Oregon.

Attorney General Van Winkle was asked by a member of the Legislature whether the term would cover railroads, telegraph lines and radio stations when used in an act or a city ordinance imposing a gross license tax. The attorney general held that the term would cover railroads and telegraph lines, but not radio stations, and added that "especially it is clear that radio stations are not included in an ordinance attempting to impose a gross license tax against same."

The eighty-fourth anniversary of the birth of Luther Burbank, famous naturalist, will be observed today, when his life and work will be discussed by his widow, Mrs. Luther Burbank, in a talk over WRC at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Burbank, in her review of her husband's achievements, will describe the many new species of flowers, fruits and vegetables which Burbank originated. More than ten useful varieties of berries were introduced commercially by him, as well as many new types of vegetables.

A DESCRIPTION of the sailing of the new liner, the Queen of Bermuda, just as she is about to weigh anchor for her maiden voyage will be broadcast over WJSV at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Equipped with a lapel-microphone an announcer will interview some of the passengers who make up the first-sailing list. In addition, he will take listeners on a tour of this new boat.

There will be occasional switches from ship to shore, where another announcer, also wearing one of the small electric ears on his coat, will talk to some of those who have come to see the Queen of Bermuda off.

A feminine listener praises Nancy Turner's fashion talks, which may be heard over Station WBAL every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

Leslie Howard, stage and screen actor, will be interviewed before the microphone by Eleanor Barnes during the California Melodies (WJSV, 9:30 o'clock tonight.) Raymond Paige is musical director of this program.

Lee Sims, piano wizard, is on nine programs weekly now . . . and sometimes more . . . . a progressive chap, if ever there was one . . . . has never taken a job that paid less than his previous one . . . has played accompaniments for all manner of singers . . . . from blues artists to opera stars . . . . likes best to play for the lovely Ilomay Bailey . . . . no wonder . . . . Ilomay is Mrs. Lee Sims.

THREE of America's best-known authors—Booth Tarkington, Octavus Roy Cohen and Zona Gale—now are writing radio serials which are regular features over networks.

Tarkington, the first of the trio to turn his talents to the medium of radio, presents "Maud and Cousin Bill" over the WJZ network each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 6 o'clock. This typical story of American youth is not heard over WMAL.

The Octavus Roy Cohen Murder Mystery, a serial drama, is on the air over WMAL each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 7:45 p. m.

Miss Gale's programs, based on her small-town series titled "Friendship Village," are heard over WRC on Fridays at 10:30 p. m.

The electronic piano invented by Benjamin F. Miessner, recently demonstrated, produces the notes of every instrument in the orchestra.

"The only thing a musician can play that this machine can't," a critic observes, "is pinochle."

Frederic William Wile, who himself has interviewed international notables, will have the tables reversed on him when the "Meet the Artist" program is broadcast from WJSV over the network at 5 o'clock. The feature will be introduced from New York by Bob Taplinger.

MARIA JERITZA will be guest soloist with Josef Bonime's symphony orchestra over WJSV at 10 o'clock tonight.

Howard Barlow and his symphony orchestra will devote their regular half hour, heard locally over the same station at 11 o'clock, to the music of Hector Berlioz, the "father of the modern symphony orchestra." The program includes the overture, "Roman Carnival," Valse from Symphonie Fantastique, and the Menuet des Follets and Hungarian March from "Damnation of Faust."

Arthur Pryor smilingly recalls the occasion on which he broke up a concert of Sousa's band, but it wasn't funny then. Pryor was playing with the late bandmaster in Pryor's home town. Just before the last number, some of his friends started calling for a solo, shouting: "Pryor, Pryor!" Part of the audience thought the yells were "Fire, Fire," and rushed for the nearest exit.

PETE MACIAS and his Club Michel Orchestra will be on the air with a program of the latest dance tunes, with Marty Rubin as featured soloist, at 10:15 o'clock over WMAL.

University Will Observe St. Thomas Aquinas Day

The feast of St. Thomas Aquinas, the patron saint of Catholic schools, will be celebrated today at the Catholic University by a solemn high mass to be sung in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the campus. The Rev. Dr. Peter Guilday, professor of church history, will be the celebrant and the Rev. Dr. John P. Tracy, Ph. D., director of the society for the Propagation of the Faith in the Diocese of Cleveland, will give the sermon.

The mass will be attended by the entire resident lay student body of the university and by the various members of the faculty in cap and gown for the formal academic affair. The mass, scheduled to begin at 10:30 a. m., will be preceded by a procession of faculties and clerics originating at Caldwell Hall. The Catholic University Choir, directed by Prof. Leo Behrendt, Ph. D., and accompanied on the organ by Frank J. Brennan, will sing for the occasion.

8-Hour Female Labor Law Will Be Enforced

Operators of local restaurants, cafes, hotels and other business organizations which are open seven days a week have been warned by Health Officer William C. Fowler that the eight-hour female labor law as recently interpreted by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride will now be enforced.

Under Mr. Bride's interpretation, female labor is limited to six days a week. "To employ them (women) on all seven days is a violation of the statute," he ruled. Heretofore many women, while not working more than 48 hours a week, have been required to work a certain amount of time each of the seven days.

Rev. Ray Palmer Returns to City.

The Rev. Ray Palmer, of Chevy Chase, has returned from Memphis, Tenn., where he conducted a three weeks' revival meeting in the Open Door Baptist Church, of which the Rev. Benjamin Cox is pastor.

SCOTTSBORO WRIT ERROR IS CHARGED

Move to Quash Indictment Postpones Decision on Change of Venue.

Scottsboro, Ala., March 6 (A.P.).—Decision on a motion for a change of venue for seven of nine Negroes indicted in the "Scottsboro attack case" today was delayed as defense counsel unexpectedly filed a motion to quash the indictment because Negroes "were excluded from the grand jury."

The motion to quash was filed by Irvin Schwab, of New York, one of the attorneys employed by the International Labor Defense to defend the Negroes, who contended that exclusion of Negroes from the grand jury was unfair to the defendants.

Thomas E. Knight, jr., State attorney general, who is directing the prosecution and who had stated no objections to a change of venue would be interposed, asked defense counsel to withdraw the motion to quash so that the change of venue might be decided.

When this was declined, Knight asked the court for a recess to prepare his argument against the motion to quash. This was granted and arguments on the motion were set for tomorrow.

Texas Well Fire Burns 10 Homes

Loss Is Placed at $35,000; Hulls and Mud Pumped Into Flaming Crater.

Corpus Christi, Tex., March 6 (A.P.).—Flames spouting from an artesian well at Regulo, Tex., had destroyed ten residences tonight and caused damage firemen estimated at $35,000.

The crater of the well, which ignited when gas from a nearby Saxet Co. shaft entered water sand, spread until it was approximately 50 feet wide. Cotton seed hulls and mud were pumped into the crater in an attempt to kill the flames.

The fire started early today after capping of the Saxet gas well, which had been blowing wild since Wednesday. Gas escaping from around the casing entered water sand at a depth of about 820 feet and the artesian well blew out, igniting immediately.

North Carolina Rejects Medical Whisky Bill

Raleigh, N. C., March 6 (A.P.).—The North Carolina House of Representatives tonight killed a bill to legalize medicinal whisky. The vote was 75 to 19.

Trial of Davis Off Until Next Monday

Court Heeds Plea Senator to Be Needed Here for Special Session.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Giving heed to the plea of attorneys that United States Senator James J. Davis would be needed in Washington for the special session of Congress, starting Thursday, Federal Judge Johnson Jay Hayes today postponed his trial on Federal lottery charges until next Monday.

The adjournment was granted, however, on the understanding that the attorneys would not ask further postponement.

"I am reluctant to do this," the court said, "but I can not be unmindful of the fact that a national emergency exists and that every State should have full representation in the national Congress. This postponement is granted on the understanding that the case will go to trial next Monday. I hope that by that time the national emergency will have been met, but it not, we'll have to go along, anyway."

Parish Mail Fraud Trial Is Deferred

Pipe Line Case Defendant Still Missing, Court Is Informed.

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—Trial of Frank Parish, former head of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co., and three other officials of the concern was reset today for April 3, by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

The continuance was made on the motion of Assistant U. S. District Attorney Joseph A. Struett, who told the court the government was making every effort to find Parish, a fugitive.

The defendants are charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with operation of the Pipe Line Co., now in receivership.

King Will Decide Today On D. C. Chairmanship

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, yesterday indicated he will state definitely today whether he will accept the chairmanship of the Senate District Committee, succeeding Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas.

Committee chairmanships probably will be formally announced Thursday. Senator King recently announced he was inclined to take the office. He plans joint conferences with the House District Committee if he undertakes the chairmanship.

Dr. Simpson Presented With Medal by Lindsay

Dr. Sandora Simpson was presented with a gold medal yesterday afternoon by Sir Ronald Lindsay at the British Embassy.

Rarely awarded and only for service in India, the medal was given Dr. Simpson for meritorious medical missionary work. Special guests at the presentation included Miss Kirk Simpson, Mrs. J. D. P. Newell and Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. McComas.

Public's Lack of Funds Closes Hotel's Dancing

Oklahoma City, March 6 (A.P.).—There was no money to pay the piper so there was no dance.

One of the largest hotels here today announced closing of its roof garden except on Saturday and Sunday nights because of the public's lack of ready cash.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

WHEN the sound of a talking picture is recorded on the film it appears to the eye as either a series of parallel bars of varying density running at right angles to the edge of the film or, if another method is used, it is photographed as a wavy line down the center of the sound track, the film being transparent on one side of the line, and opaque on the other.

When this method is used the soft spoken words of the heroine may look like a miniature business chart, and the hiss of the villian is likely to come out looking like the toothed edge of a cross-cut saw. Contrariwise, sound that never was uttered may be produced from the film if the light and dark areas of the sound track are drawn in with pen and ink.

This is the invention of Rudolf Pfenninger, of Munich, a sound-recording engineer who is perfecting the art of writing sound. The sound waves are first drawn in pen and ink, as shown in the above drawing, and then reproduced on the sound track of the film.

Thus far Herr Pfenninger has been able to produce simple standard sound effects and, by varying the curves, weird noises of his own. He says that some day he will be able to doctor up a film voice recording so that the hero will speak without a lisp.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A FAREWELL TO HERBERT HOOVER

So long, Herb!—Boy,
You fought the fight;
You stood and took
It day and night.

You knew the storm
And raging gale,
The cyclone and
The driving hail.

You stood your ground
For four long years
And felt worlds crash
About your ears.

Yours was a term
Of stress and din—
You had to take
It on the chin.

So go and rest—
Of this be glad:
You won't, as time
Goes by, seem bad.

You did your best,
You didn't fake it—
And we'll say this—Boy, YOU COULD TAKE IT!

You got the job
In time of song
And had to watch
The world go wrong.

You entered in
A time of ease
And had to hear
The music cease.

You came when there
Was no distress,
And had to sound
The S O S.

Before you'd time
To grab a seat
The hurricane
About you beat.

You never knew
A quiet day,
But didn't shirk
Or run away.

You took the wheel
Of storm-tossed ship
And kept a good
Stiff upper lip.

You didn't shrink,
You didn't quake,
And didn't get

Best wishes, Herb—
And here's a bet:
Old Uncle Sam
Will need you yet!

SENATOR THOMAS J. WALSH.

A crimson flame dies out against
The wintry sky;
A sudden darkness fills the scene
And dims the eye.

A penetrating light, long seen,
Fades into night—
Gone is a fighter in the cause
Of truth and right!

The late Senator Walsh will be sadly missed by all but the wrongdoers. He was a man of such blazing integrity that many of our so-called leaders had to put on smoke glasses before they could look into his eyes.

All the sickening revelations of the last few years show pretty clearly, thinks Elmer Twitchell, that Senator Walsh saw what was under the damp board long before anybody else.

This column's official observer attributed the crowd at the inaugural to the fact that the public regards it as a great novelty to see a man going to work.

DISTRICT FUND BILL FACES LONG DELAY IN SPECIAL SESSION

Emergency Bank Legislation Seen Holding Up Action on New Measure.

Special session action on a new District supply bill, replacing the measure rejected by the last House, may be delayed several weeks, forced into the distant background by prospective emergency bank legislation.

An entirely new bill will have to be brought in by the House Appropriations Committee, but this will not be done until Congress reconvenes after a recess to follow the emergency session beginning Thursday, Speaker-elect Henry T. Rainey indicated last night.

Further Brief Hearings.

Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, chairman of the House District Appropriations subcommittee, said he thinks the conference report turned down by the House a "fair bill," and is convinced it will be a "persuasive factor" in shaping the new measure. The conference report provided for a $7,600,000 Federal lump sum.

Representative James E. Buchanan (Democrat), Texas, who will head the new Appropriations Committee, said new budget estimates may be submitted by the Budget Bureau, but the committee will not insist on them. He said further brief hearings will be held, but details will not be gone into.

Reconsideration of Bill.

Reconsideration of the District bill must await reorganization of the full Appropriations Committee and a new alignment of subcommittee membership.

Chairman Cannon indicated he is willing to continue as chairman of the District funds group, but at least two new members must be appointed to replace Republican members defeated at the last election.

Cabinet Is Sworn On Borrowed Bible

White House Guard Produces Book From His Locker.

An unexplained shortage of Bibles at the White House nearly blocked the swearing in of the new Cabinet Saturday, but the day was saved by a reverent White House guard who produced a copy of the Good Book from his locker.

The owner of the private Bible used to swear in the new Cabinet is Charles S. Baum, who has been a guard at the Executive Mansion since the time of another Roosevelt. He keeps the Bible in his locker and pores over it during the long night watches, he explained. Today he is proud of the use to which his copy was put Saturday and will keep it as a memento of an historic occasion.

When the Hoover family moved out of the White House they took with them their own Bibles, it was explained. Two copies form a part of the White House furnishings, but these could not be found Saturday. Learning of the lack, Baum, who was on guard duty, produced one from his locker and the Cabinet members were sworn in by Associate Justice Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, of the Supreme Court.

Navy Branch of Federal Employes Holds Meeting

The Navy Department Branch of Federal Employes Union No. 2 held its March meeting at its headquarters, 710 Fourteenth street northwest, last night. John I. Sullivan, of the Judge Advocate General's Office, vice president of the branch, presided.

The following committee to nominate officers and representatives for the next year was elected: Thomas W. Wagner, Bureau of Engineering; William B. Crowell, Judge Advocate General's Office; Mason S. Noyes, Bureau of Engineering; Mr. Sullivan and Glen H. Draper, Naval Observatory. The members nominated will be voted upon this month and will assume office in April.

Chinese Shadow Shows Entertain at Arts Club

Faint shadows on a puppet stage in grotesque action last night marked the first presentation of Chinese shadow shows in this city. Manipulated by unseen hands, 6-inch figures colored in bright shades of red, brown and yellow were given voice and music at the Arts Club Theater. A capacity audience saw the puppets brought to this city by Genevieve Wimstatt.

Between the acts and during one or two of the scenes weird Chinese music was presented. Before each of the two presentations Ada Rainey, art critic, gave a brief talk on the ancient folk-art of shadow showing. Another performance is scheduled for Monday night at the Arts Club.

Bureau Accepting Income Tax Checks

Agents Who Have Been at Banks Stationed in Revenue Building.

Because of the national bank holiday, Internal Revenue employes who had been assisting in preparing current income tax returns at various Washington banks, will be stationed in room 1002 in the Internal Revenue Building at Twelfth street and Constitution avenue, it was announced yesterday by Galen L. Tait, collector.

It was announced that checks are being accepted on all local banks except those which are in the hands of receivers.

Checks on local banks which last week restricted withdrawals will be accepted. Taxpayers with checking accounts in banks employing the 5 per cent restriction on such accounts are advised to forward tax payments regardless of whether the 5 per cent of money they have on deposit for checking is insufficient to pay the amount due. The department said payments were normal yesterday, many of them being made in cash.

Fines Cease

For Numerous Violations of Traffic Law Due to Check Impasse.

It's an ill wind that blows no good, as a score or more of traffic law violators found out in Police Court yesterday.

Police Court judges, taking cognizance of the fact that many persons had been caught without sufficient funds to pay their fines, adopted a program that resulted in almost two score traffic law violators being let off without fines—or imprisonment.

As rapidly as violators stated they were unable to pay small fines, the judges either took their personal bonds or suspended the execution of sentence altogether.

In the District Supreme Court, however, a hard and fast rule was promulgated. No checks were taken for any court costs, and the cashier was instructed not to cash any personal checks. That left attorneys pretty much up in the air, for they, like others, were not prepared with sufficient ready cash.

In the office of the Register of Wills, Theodore Cogswell permitted checks "to be left for collection." In each instance, the giver of the check was given a receipt reading that the check had been taken for collection. Both the clerk's office and the office of United States Marshal E. C. Snyder were doing far less business than would ordinarily be done because of the "no check" rule.

PROSAIC AFTERMATH TO ACT OF HEROISM

SON OF MRS. ELKINS CHIEF BENEFICIARY

Document Filed in District Supreme Court; Other Bequests Made.

Davis Elkins, son of Mrs. Hallie Davis Elkins, who died in her Connecticut avenue apartment March 1, was named principal beneficiary of his mother's estate, it was shown in District Suprmee Court yesterday when Mrs. Elkins' will was filed.

Mr. Elkins is to have a $300,000 trust fund established, the income of which will go to him for life. At his death, the children of his wife, Mary Reagan Elkins, will receive the income.

Bonds of the Morgantown & Kingwood Railroad, valued at $50,000, will go to a grandson, Stephen B. Elkins 3d, and $25,000 in bonds of the same railroad will go to Davis Elkins College for care of the college grounds. Sara Gemmill is given 50 $1,000 bonds, and Jeanette Thomas is given $2,000.

Mrs. Elkins' home at Ventnor, N. J., will go to Davis Elkins, the son, and the home at 1626 K s' eet northwest is to be sold and proceeds shared by Davis Elkins and Katherine Elkins Hitt. The latter also is to have an emerald and diamond necklace and a emerald ring set with diamonds.

Several others, including Davis Elkins, Mrs. Sallie Oliphant, Mrs. Bruce Lee Johnson, Adele Campbell and Edwina B. Wetherell are given jewelry and wearing apparel. All the remainder is to go to Davis Elkins. George F. Snyder appeared as executor. No value of the estate was given.

The will was dated February 9. Each of the servants of Mrs. Elkins is to receive $500.

Barring of Lawyer Affirmed by Court

Appeal Lost by Fletcher; Wilful Fraud Charged in Decision.

The District Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed action of the District Supreme Court in disbarring Edmond C. Fletcher from "practicing as an attorney or counselor before the bar of the court."

Mr. Fletcher was disbarred in November, 1931, on charges that he was guilty of "malpractice, and unethical and unprofessional conduct, rendering him unfit to be a member of the bar of the court."

In its affirmation, the Court of Appeals said: "Appellant wilfully practiced a fraud upon his client. His conduct deserves condemnation both in morals and law."

Marine and Girl Hurt As Auto and Bus Crash

John N. McGuire, a marine stationed at Quantico, Va., suffered severe cuts and bruises, and Miss Virginia Schoenhauser, Ballston, Va., was slightly hurt when an automobile driven by George S. Furey, Quantico marine, crashed into a bus late last night near the Arlington National Cemetery. Miss Schoenhauser, a passenger on the bus, was cut by flying glass.

McGuire was treated at Emergency Hospital. Furey was arrested on charges of reckless driving.

Flier Is Hero

Paul Preston, D. C. Pilot, Crashes on Fence to Save Golfers.

Paul Preston, airplane pilot, lived an age, made a split-second decision to sacrifice himself rather than injure groundlings and came through unscathed in the space of a moment yesterday when his motor failed over the Rockville Pike at the White Flint Country Club, near Garrett Park, Md. Faced with the choice of crashing into several groups of golfers at the club or into automobiles on the pike, he chose rather to risk his life in a crash against the fence of the club.

Preston, who is 32 and lives at 4428 Alton place northwest, is a member of the Rockville Flying Club. He was flying the club biplane when, for some unaccountable reason, the motor of the 12-year-old ship failed. Desperately he tried to start the motor again, but it was out for good. His next thought was a landing place.

There beneath him was the golf course. He pointed his nose to the course. Then he observed golfers, who were paying no attention. He swerved to slide down to the pike when to his horror he saw the heretofore unfilled road begin to liven up with automobiles.

He swung the plane's nose hurriedly and decided that he would crash into the fence. One wing struck a light pole and was stripped from the fuselage while the fuselage struck several electric wires which broke the force of its fall. The badly damaged plane fell to the ground, but Preston was uninjured. He climbed from the ship and notified the Congressional Airport. A towing truck was dispatched to the scene, which fades out with the erstwhile hero trudging along the road guiding the tail of the fuselage as it was towed prosaically along the road.

Laundry Thief Suspect Stages Another Holdup

A colored man answering the general description of the robber who has held up several laundry offices recently late yesterday held up Virginia Cheseldine, manager of a laundry office at 3173 Mount Pleasant street northwest, and stole about $10 from the cash register.

The man asked for change when he entered, but when the woman started to comply with his request he announced it was a holdup and drew a gun. He forced her into a rear room, took the money and fled.

Taxi Driver Says Pair Stole $5.50 and Cab

Bernard L. Fausett, 24, 806 Seventh street northwest, a taxicab driver, told police last night that he was held up and robbed of $5.50 by two colored men who also stole his cab.

He said the men entered his cab at Thirteenth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, telling him to drive to 1713 Upshur street northwest. On arrival, one of them stuck a gun in his ribs and the other looted his pockets. They then put him out and drove away in his cab.

Fireman Kills Self In Hotel Basement

Cavalier Employe Is Found Hanging by Policemen Seeking Intruders.

Leaving several unsigned notes saying that he was going to "end it all" Chalmers P. Hudson, 40, of 485 E street southwest, hanged himself yesterday in the basement of the Cavalier Hotel where he was employed as day fireman.

He was found suspended by a piece of rope from the ceiling in the gas meter room by policemen who had been summoned to search for two suspicious men seen on the premises.

Hudson was pronounced dead by an Emergency Hospital interne. Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, acting coroner, issued a certificate of suicide.

Home Robbed of $150 In Cash and $500 Watch

Mrs. Charles Gaylord U. Clark, of 1529 Connecticut avenue northwest, reported that some one entered her apartment last night who stole her purse containing $150 in cash and a wrist watch worth $500.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

One of a dozen rules in safe driving, as published recently by the National Safety Council, is to be alert at all times. Concentrate on operating your vehicle every moment you are at the controls, keep both eyes open, on the road ahead, and both hands on the steering wheel.

UTILITIES SUSPEND CUSTOMER PENALTY

Gas and Electric Companies Get District's Order; Credit Car Tokens.

Suspension of the customary 10 per cent penalties for failure to pay gas and electric bills within the 20-day period of grace was ordered yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission to over the entire week.

Under the orders sent to the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Potomac Electric Power Co. no penalty may be attached before next week on bills which fall due this week.

"All customers of these utilities, however, should pay their bills promptly, regardless of the relief authorized," the commission stated, "so that the utilities themselves shall be enabled to meet their pay rolls and other current obligations which are payable in cash."

William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., yesterday announced that his company had made plans to sell street car tokens on credit to business organizations with proper references. This does not apply to the general public.

Woman Takes Poison After Family Dispute

Mrs. Evelyn Maudlin was given first aid by members of the Fire Rescue Squad last night after she is alleged to have swallowed poison in her home at 214 H street northwest.

She told police she took the poison because of a family quarrel. Her condition is not serious.

Old Benning Track Urged for Airport

Kenilworth Citizens Hold Heated Debate on D. C. Congress Member.

The old Benning Race Track, which has long been idle, would make an ideal plot for a municipal airport, it was declared last night at a meeting of the Kenilworth Citizens Association in the Kenilworth School.

After a heated debate on Representative William R. Coyle's proposal that two of the District Commissioners become voteless representatives in Congress, it was decided to turn the matter over to the legislative committee until the April meeting.

The association plans an entertainment prior to the next meeting to boost membership.

Citizens Association Indorses George Offutt

George W. Offutt, former president of the Washington Board of Trade, was indorsed as Police Commissioner last night at a meeting of the Progressive Citizens Association. The position is to be vacant when the resignation of Herbert E. Crosby becomes effective.

The association went on record for a parking ban on the north side of N street, betwen Thirty-third and Potomac streets, and asked that the slow sign at Thirty-fourth and N streets be changed to a stop sign. John Paul Jones, secretary of the Georgetown Citizens Association, discussed questions pertaining to the neighborhood.

200 PARADING REDS CLASH WITH POLICE; 38 PERSONS SEIZED

Group Unmindful Roosevelt Expressed No Objection to March.

Unmindful that President Roosevelt had announced he had no objection to a parade, approximately 200 members of the Unemployed Councils of Washington, a communistic organization, clashed in a street battle shortly before noon yesterday.

Scores of men, women and children were hurt, five requiring hospital treatment, and 38 arrests were made by police, who thwarted the attempted demonstration with their batons.

The battle occurred a few minutes after the President's spokesman, Stephen T. Early, in effect granted permission at Mr. Roosevelt's order to leaders of the Communists to hold their planned march on the District Building. The President's action was interpreted last night as a continuance of his policy as Governor of New York that radical organizations henceforth would be allowed to parade at will so long as normal traffic is not interrupted. It was made clear, however, that the term "parade" should not be construed to include demonstrations.

Women and Children.

The clash between the marchers and police occurred at Eleventh and P streets northwest, following a meeting of the Unemployed Councils at 1609 Eleventh street northwest, and the announcement that a permit to parade had been denied by the District Commissioners. Paul Cline and other leaders exhorted the meeting to demand unemployment relief. Strung along the sidewalks, the tattered marchers, including fifteen women and five children, had taken only a few steps when they were halted by Inspector Albert J. Headley and a handful of bluecoats.

Nightsticks Are Wielded.

When the paraders refused to heed Inspector Headley's warning that they could not continue, the battle ensued. Nightsticks were wielded by the police; fists, elbows and knees by the demonstrators. The paraders' placards and banners, bearing slogans and demands, were torn from their hands. Most of the men were collared quickly by police and rushed to waiting patrol wagons. Others scattered. The injured were taken to the station house and then sent to hospitals for treatment.

Four of the 38 arrested were women. The most seriously wounded were rushed to Freedmen's Hospital for treatment and then returned to the Second Precinct Station, where all were booked on charges of parading without a permit. Collateral was set at $25.

Miss Perkins Is Served With Deportation Paper

Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, yesterday went through her first court experience as a member of the Roosevelt Cabinet when she was served with papers in a suit brought by Antonio Zarconi, of Chicago.

The suit, filed in the District Supreme Court, relates that Zarconi, arrested for a misdemeanor in Chicago, is fearful that steps might be taken to deport him. He asks that Miss Perkins be prohibited from having him arrested or otherwise interfering with his liberty. He is married and has two children, the suit showed.

Child, 4, Struck by Auto While Playing in Street

Struck by an unidentified driver while playing in the street near his home, Bobbie Edward McSwain, 4, of 1645 West Virginia avenue northeast, yesterday suffered chest bruises and head lacerations.

The driver carried the child to his home, but left to get a doctor without making his identity known. Later a private physician called at the home and treated the boy, but he did not say who had sent him. The child was removed to Emergency Hospital.

Col. Sanderson Loses $340 Gems to Thief

Jewelry valued at $340 was stolen from the home of Lieut. Col. Charles R. Sanderson, U. S. A., of 2330 Tracy place northwest, Sunday night by thieves who jimmied a front window.

Police on Job

Leaves Are Canceled and Extra Surveillance Ordered in Crisis.

Washington policemen who had expected some respite after their intensive work over inauguration were doomed to disappointment yesterday when Maj. E. W. Brown, superintendent of police, issued an order continuing the cancellation of leaves of absence and days off for this week.

The police superintendent stated that this action was necessary in order to give full protection to banks and places of business during the financial crisis.

Policemen on beats where banks are located were ordered to give special attention to these establishments and at the first sign of trouble of any kind to notify their precinct stations for assistance.

D. C. YOUTH IS SLAIN IN AUSTRIA; 2 JAILED

2 Bullets Kill Josef Tarshes; Son of Retired Merchant; Suicide Discounted.

Two bullets ended the walking tour in the Austrian mountains of Josef Tarshes, 22, of 1707 Lanier place northwest, according to Associated Press dispatches received here yesterday. Police at Vienna, near the scene of the shooting, said the young student was a suicide, but held his two unnamed companions.

The dead youth was the son of Julius Tarshes, a retired merchant, of the Lanier place address. He left Washington about eight months ago to recover his health in Austria, his mother said yesterday. He left this country alone.

While in Vienna he wrote his mother that he had taken up medicine. He was graduated from George Washington University in 1931 as bachelor of arts.

The youth attended Business High School. After graduating from Business he attended American University for one term before going to George Washington.

Mr. Tarshes is survived by his parents, three brothers, Benjamin, Joseph and Robert, and two sisters, Miss Belle Tarshes and Mrs. T. Feizman.

J. L. Seligman, Jr., Among Those Left Amounts by Mrs. Schiff.

A bequest of $10,000 was made to Joseph L. Seligman, of 2162 Bancroft place northwest, in the will of Mrs. Therese Schiff, widow of Jacob H. Schiff, banker and philanthropist, filed in New York yesterday. Mrs. Schiff was an aunt of the elder Seligman.

The Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, of Alabama, also was bequeathed $10,000. The bequest to Tuskegee was among seven legacies left to institutions.

Mrs. Schiff died on February 26 at her Fifth avenue home in New York. She was 78 years old. The residue was left to relatives.

FOREST HILLS GROUP HITS AT BLANTON FOR SCHOOL FUND BLOW

Revaluation of Property Is Requested as Taxes Are Called Too High.

Denunciation of Representative Thomas Blanton, of Texas, for holding up a school appropriation for the new Woodrow Wilson School in the Reno section of Chevy Chase, was given by the Forest Hills Citizens Association last night.

Blanton was charged with preventing passage of an appropriation for the school after the item had been restored by the Senate and sent back to the House.

Mrs. Leslie B. Wright, chairman of the school committee of the association, declared that the blocking of the appropriation will hold back completion of the school until 1936, creating further congestion at Western High School and other schools accommodating Chevy Chase residents.

Property Taxes Protested.

Bitter criticism was also made by the association of property taxes. A demand was voiced that property be revalued so that taxes may be brought down "to their real value."

L. A. Catruthers, delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations, led the fight.

Tribute was paid to the memory of Albert L. Harris, late municipal architect. He was credited with being directly instrumental in securing the Murch School "after Superintendent Ballou refused to go to Congress and make a final appeal for the school," Mrs. Wright said.

$3,500,000 Left by Visitors.

S. E. Sissell gave a brief account of the life of Mr. Harris, revealing that he was the son of a District bartender and that his father intended for him to enter this now defunct business.

Curtis Hodges, executive director of the Greater National Capital committee, in an address to the association, declared that $3,500,000 was left by inaugural visitors in Washington. Travel industry in the Capital will exceed $30,000,000 this year, he said.

Renovize Drive Leaders To Meet This Afternoon

The banking situation will not interfere with the council of the renovise campaign holding its meeting at 4 p. m. today at the Washington Board of Trade to map plans for the drive, Arthur B. Heaton, general chairman, said yesterday.

Mr. Heaton said a renovise campaign will be welcomed with greater alacrity than ever. President Roosevelt, in his inaugural address, called attention to putting unemployed back to work as a prime need, and this is the object of the renovise campaign. He urged bankers who are members of the council to attend.

Clothing Lost at Ball Held at Police Office

The inaugural ball committee announced last night that all persons who lost clothing Saturday night should call at Police Headquarters, 462 Indiana avenue northwest.

The committee also announced a bracelet found at the auditorium could be obtained at the committee's offices.

LINES FORM TO CASH GOV'T CHECKS shed the March 1 pay checks, who ill benefit by the Treasury Department's decision.
As soon as word of the Treasury Department's action spread, the cash room became the center of banking activity.
People with Government checks jammed the place and others stood in long lines far down the corridors. Most of the customers came to cash Government checks, but many others were seeking change for currency of large denominations. Stores which presented Federal checks were required to guarantee all previous indorsements. The Treasury, however, is not cashing postal money orders.
The crowd at the Treasury increased with every hour and by noon it had established a record for the cash room.
As a result Maj. W. O. Woods, Treasurer of the United States, announced that cash room would be kept open beyond the regular closing hour of 3 o'clock to accommodate the public.
Another aid to those short of cash was provided by all of the large insurance companies, which announced that no policies on which premiums
